Damage Hits In Millions; 3 Lose Lives

WILMINGTON, N. C. (UPI) — Hurricane Helene lashed the North Carolina coast with record fury Saturday night and then veered farther into the Atlantic, churning slowly northeastward from Cape Hatteras.

The powerful storm's direction seemed to indicate that the populous cities of the upper East Coast would be spared the brunt of Helene's destructive fury.

Thousands of residents were sent scurrying inland to safety by the 135-mile-an - hour winds that battered the coastal area.

The Washington Weather Bureau reported that the tropical twister was spotted at 10 p.m. edt some 30 statute miles south of Cape Hatteras, N.C., churning towards the northeast about 17 miles an hour.

THREE DIE

Although there were no deaths directly attributed to the powerful storm that raked Wilmington, at least three persons died in automobile accidents on rain - slick highways in the state.

But property damage in this historic port city and in other resort and port areas was estimated in the millions of dollars.

The hurricane first smashed into the Cape Fear area near here which juts out southeastward into the ocean. Then it skirted along the coastline and curved northeastward, hitting the Morehead City-Atlantic Beach area, about 90 miles above Wilmington.

At Morehead City, a north-northwestward wind was believed to have helped hold back the flooding tide and sound water which could have caused even heavier damage.

McSween Defeats Long's Candidate

ALEXANDRIA, La. (AP) — Harold B. McSween hacked at the foundations of Gov. Earl Long's political castle Saturday night with a handy victory over the governor's hand-picked candidate in the Eight District.

With 311 of the district's 311 precincts reporting at 11:05 p. m., McSween showed 34,149 votes. State Rep. Lloyd Teekell, who once worked with McSween in the same law office, trailed with 26,387.

Teekell conceded defeat at 10 o'clock.

Gov. Long and McSween were not available for comment.

The result was a solid blow to Long's prestige. The governor took an on-the-spot role for Teekell, one of the administration's House leaders. Most political observers believed Long's support would swing the election to Teekell.

FIRST PRIMARY

In the first primary five weeks ago when nine candidates ran, Teekell and McSween were one-two with Teekell holding about a 2,000-vote edge.

The victory assures McSween the seat in Congress vacated by the death last spring of Rep. George S. Long, a brother of the governor and the late Sen. Huey P. Long.

The governor injected himself into the race when state democratic national committeeman Camille Gravel Jr. reportedly backed McSween. Gravel has been in hot water with state segregation leaders since he came out for President Eisenhower's civil rights legislation. A move is underway to remove Gravel from his post on the national committee.

Faubus Says Action Due On Monday

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Segregationists registered a lop sided victory Saturday night in the battle over admitting Negroes to Little Rock schools and Gov. Orval E. Faubus said he would move "with all dispatch" to put the schools on a private basis. With all 32 precincts reported the count stood:

Against—19,470.
For—7,565.

Faubus told the Arkansas Democrat by telephone from north Arkansas:

"We shall now move forward with all dispatch to open the closed schools as private educational institutions.

"It is expected that the schools will be opened shortly, possibly by Monday."

ISSUE CLEAR

He said the issue — whether to admit Negroes to all-white schools —had been made clear to the voters.

"They have made the decision," Faubus said.

There were reports that school board members met secretly Saturday night. School Supt. Virgil Blossom said he would make no statement.

To put Faubus' private school plan in operation, the board must lease the schools to a private corporation, set up in Little Rock to operate them.

From the first returns, there was little doubt about the outcome.

Those favoring integration carried only two of the five polling places even in predominantly Negro districts. The vote at Hall High School—thought to be a center of opposition to Faubus—went nearly two-to-one for the segregationists.

Faubus, in two 30-minute television speeches on consecutive weeks, strongly urged the people to vote against integration. He cited a report about conditions in the de - segregated schools of Washington, D.C., to persuade voters that desegregation in Little Rock would have dire consequences.

Apparently, he succeeded completely.

Fear 1,600 Dead In Japan Storm

TOKYO (UPI) — Floods following in the wake of the worst typhoon to strike Japan in 24 years piled up casualties and damage Saturday in the picturesque Izu peninsula resort area south of Tokyo.

Officials said as many as 1,600 persons were feared dead in the 100 mile-an-hour storm and the floods that followed it. There were no known American casualties. Record 16 to 20 - inch rains in some areas left as many as 4000,000 persons homeless.

Twenty-nine of Japan's 46 prefectures were hit by Typhoon Ida which reached gusts of 160 miles an hour in its violent path across the Tokyo-Yokohama area Friday. The area affected ran from central Japan north to Hokkaido.

Worst-hit area appeared to be the Izu peninsula some 50 miles southwest of Tokyo. Police said the raging floods which inundated the area killed as many as 1,400 persons.

Casualties in other areas of Japan, including Tokyo, mounted to 155 dead and 78 missing.

U.S. military authorities distributed blankets and food to homeless in Tokyo, Yokohama and Yokosuka. They stood ready to give further help if needed.

Twenty inches of rain dumped on 4,290-foot Mt. Amagi unleashed the flood that swamped Izu Friday night and Saturday morning. Homes and people were swept into Tsuruga Bay by the rushing waters. One 15-year-old boy clung to a piece of timber and was washed ashore, alive, 15 miles from the tip of the peninsula.

The worst damage was concentrated in a 200-square-mile area of the Izu peninsula of steep canyons and pleasant valleys.

In Tokyo transportation was crippled by the winds and water. Railway officials said it might take three days to restore traffic to normal.

Wilton Persons Replaces Adams As Ike's Aide

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower Saturday named his deputy assistant, retired Maj. Gen. Wilton B. Persons, to replace Sherman Adams as his No. 1 aide as part of a White House staff shakeup.

Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said the 62-year-old Persons, an old Army buddy of the President, would exercise the same broad duties as Adams but that there would be a "redistribution" of the responsibilities assigned to other presidential aides. He said he would not call this a "reorganization."

Adams resigned under heavy Republican political pressure last Monday as "assistant to the President." He told the nation in a radio-TV address he had decided to quit because a "campaign of villification" had been launched against him as a result of his relations with gift-giving Boston millionaire Bernard Goldfine.

His inference was that Democratic-led House influence investigators had undermined him but Republican leaders, at a meeting with GOP National Chairman Meade Alcorn in Chicago, decided he was a political liability. Alcorn communicated this information to

Brings Mate's Ashes To Bar .

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — A widow walked into a "men only" drinking establishment in a Sydney suburb Friday night, went up to five of her husband's former drinking companions and emptied a box of ashes on the bar.

"You wanted him here all the time," she said. "Well, here he is."

There were the ashes of her husband Harold William Norris, 47, who was found dying in a Sydney street Sept. 5.

Emergency Is Declared By Abdel Nasser

CAIRO, (UPI) — President Gamal Abdel Nasser Saturday proclaimed a state of emergency in the United Arab Republic.

No reason was given for the decree. It was announced by the semi - official Middle East News agency and later confirmed by the government information department.

Nasser also extended his land reform scheme, which takes from the rich and gives to the poor, to the Syrian region of the U.A.R. It was Nasser's most far-reaching project in Syria since Syria joined with Egypt in February to establish the U. A. R.

ANNOUNCEMENT

The Middle East News agency made this brief announcement:

"The president of the republic promulgated a law concerning a state of emergency in the United Arab Republic, substituting for the legislative decree promulgated in 1949 in the Syrian region and the law promulgated in 1954 in the Egyptian region. He (the president) also issued a decree proclaiming a state of emergency."

The government information department would make no comment on the announcement other than to confirm it.

There have been reports that Nasser has been dissatisfied with the administrative set - up in the two regions of the U. A. R. and that he planned a reorganization of the government.

There was no immediate indication as to whether the state of emergency had any connection with the reported reorganization. Nasser was said to be anxious to tighten control over the Syrian region, separated from Egypt by Israel and Jordan.

Confession Given In Wilhite Death

Sandy-Haired Joe H. Bell, 66, confessed yesterday to the Wednesday morning axe-slaying of his neighbor, E. Jules Wilhite, 74-year-old Chatham farmer. He has been tentatively charged with murder.

The confession in the Ouachita Parish jail followed a series of lie dectector tests given the mild-mannered, smiling widower since his arrest Friday morning.

Bell had been brought here so that lie - dector equipment owned by the Ouachita Parish Sheriff's Department could be utilized. Tests proved inconclusive, however, and Bell confessed the murder to officers of the Jackson Parish Sheriff's Department, when they arrived in Monroe yesterday morning.

He slept most of the time that he was not being tested, and since his return to the jail in Jonesboro yesterday afternoon, he passed most of the time dozing. "He seems to be in a very good mood, but is confused on some of the details of the slaying," officers said.

Jackson Parish Criminal Deputy J. H. Barnes said that Bell related Wilhite had walked over to his home Wednesday morning. The men lived about one mile apart.

WALKING

"Mr. Bell said that Mr. Wilhite came over every 2 or 3 days," Barnes stated. "He told us that he asked Wilhite to go home, because he had some work to do. They got into an argument, and Bell says that Wilhite threatened to go home, get a gun, and come back and kill him."

"They started walking up the road, and Bell states that Wilhite kept reaching into his pocket, as if he had a gun or a knife. Bell admits that he never saw any

Luck Be-Devils DeGaulle On Eve Of Election

PARIS (UPI) — Bombings and sabotage in France, a bloody ambush in Algeria and a near-deluge in tropical Africa be-deviled the De Gaulle government on the eve of the constitutional referendum to pave the way for a new Fifth Republic of France.

Despite the violent efforts of Algerian opponents, the opposition of the Communists and the sudden onset of the African rainy season, it was expected that as many as 70 per cent of the eligible 44 million voters will accept Premier Charles de Gaulle's "strong man" Constitution in the voting that starts Sunday in metropolitan France and the African possessions.

Voting began Friday and will continue through Sunday in Algeria, where 3,300,000 people—Moslem women included for the first time — are voting in the face of threats by the nationalist rebels.

The government ordered extra police precautions in France proper. Troops formed an armed ring around Orly Airfield near Paris. All passengers and baggage on French planes were searched. Freight shipments to Algeria were cancelled for 48 hours.

Atomic Weapons Against Chinese Said Possibility

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Air Force Secretary James H. Douglas said Saturday atomic weapons may be used against attacking Chinese Communists if necessary.

Adding punch to the initial version of a talk prepared for delivery to the Air Force Assn. in which he said merely that modern U.S. fighters were ready to meet the threat if the Reds persist in use of force against Nationalist China, Douglas declared: "And make no mistake, our fighter bombers and light bombers are as capable of using high explosive bombs or more powerful weapons, if necessary."

This change in the speech to make it stronger reportedly had State Department approval. Although Douglas did not specify atomic bombs, his use of the phrase "more powerful weapons" was clear reference to nuclear weapons.

In perhaps the frankest acknowledgement of Soviet air strength yet to be made officially, Douglas said he believed the Communists

Count Of Traffic On River Here Scheduled Soon

A traffic count on the Ouachita River at Monroe has been slated for the near future, it was learned yesterday.

Lorris Wimberly, director of the department of public works, and Calvin Watts, assistant director of the department, met with the Greater Ouachita Port Commission in a closed session here.

Following the meeting, Commission Chairman Curtis D. Smith told of the traffic count plans. He explained that the survey will be based on the amount of river traffic using the present 6½ foot channel, as compared with the amount of traffic hoped for if the proposed 9-foot channel becomes a reality.

The federal government appropriated funds toward the 9-foot channel several months ago.

Feasibility reports prepared by Ford, Bacon and Davis for the department of public works were also discussed at yesterday's meeting, Smith said. The reports deal with the feasibility of port facilities on the Ouachita.

The traffic count is to be made by the department of public works and following its completion, which is expected within 60 to 90 days, another joint meeting of the department and commission will be held.

Future developments of port facilities in Ouachita Parish probably will be determined at that meeting, according to Smith.

Cooler Weather Expected Here

Partly cloudy skies with cooler weather is expected in the Monroe area today and tomorrow.

A pleasant 79 was recorded as the high yesterday, with a low of 68. Friday's high was 91 with a low of 73.

The outlook for Arkanasas calls for fair skies and much cooler weather with a low of 45 expected in the northern part of the state tonight with 55 in South Arkansas and North Louisiana.

REPORT ON OUACHITA PARISH PROJECT

State's First Juvenile Detention Home Venture Costly

By SAM HANNA
Staff Reporter

Louisiana's first venture into a juvenile detention program — the Ouachita Parish Detention Home — covered a small number of children in an expensive, changeable first year of operation, a Morning World investigation disclosed.

The Dentention Home cost $30,218.65 to operate the first full year, taking in 224 children for an average cost of $18.65 per child per day, according to official records in the Baton Rouge offices of the Department of Public Welfare.

Supervisor A. D. Manuel, who said he figured the cost per child per day ran around $7, pointed out that the "national average for this type program is about $15 per child per day."

In addition, the Detention Home has had personnel problems and Manuel said he has changed his schedules of operation several times.

When News-Star — World representatives called at the home, located on the Milhaven Road, Saturday, a group of white and Negro teenage boys and girls were socializing together. They were sitting in a mixed group watching television and were later seen mingling on a patio.

A check showed that their sleeping quarters were separated by rooms. A petition stood between tables where they dine.

Manuel said it was difficult to "keep them apart because we have so much common areas." He referred to the library and the recreation room where there was music, television and a ping pong table.

Built at a cost of $122,388.96 by a one - third of a mill tax voted on by Ouachita Parish taxpayers, the home comes under the direct supervision of the Department of Public Welfare.

The Department of Public Welfare finances the home, except for $150 contributed monthly by the Ouachita Parish Police Jury, $100 monthly by the City of Monroe and $25 monthly by the City of West Monroe.

Juveniles are submitted to the home by parish and Monroe and West Monroe authorities, but there is no local supervision over the operation of the home. The home opened in August, 1957.

Since that time, a cook was fired, rehired and fired again, an assistant supervisor was asked to resign and a husband - wife team serving as housefather and housemother quit because of personal reasons, according to Manuel.

Supervised by Manuel, the home is operated by three housemothers, one housefather, a janitor and a cook. All but the cook and janitor sleep and eat at the home.

The salaries of Manuel and his wife come to $520 per month, in addition to their free room and board. The housefather draws $165 monthly and the housemothers, $165 monthly.

Total annual salaries came to $16,460.03, not including $1,000 for the medical services of Dr. Doyle Hamilton.

The food bill alone ran $2,899.57, including nine meat purchases that ranged in price from $58.73 to $125.28 for a total of $643.91—for beef, steak, chicken, ham, sausage, bacon, frankfurters and dry salt meat.

A check with the cook's menu showed that she generally serves bacon at one breakfast a week and some form of meat at one meal daily.

According to Welfare Department records, the first year's average number of children at the Detention Home per day went as follows:

August, 1957 — 5.03; September, 4.96; October, 4.03; November, 4.13; December, 2.93; January, 1958 — 4.64; February, 2.2; March, 5.13; April, 3.23; May, 4.58; June, 7.8; July, 9.13; and August, 7.1.

When confronted with the cost, Manuel said, "This form of program is generally considered as expensive. When human lives are involved, I don't think you can measure its importance in dollars and cents."

Manuel said he sets up his own schedule to operate the home under and explained that his staff is instructed to follow the systems. He said he has little to do with the children.

He submittted a schedule which showed that the children have a certain time to rise and retire, chores to do, a Bible class, recreation and study.

Regulations call for children to be retained at the home for 72 hours, but Manuel pointed out that in some cases it was necessary to keep them for as long as

Officials said as many as 1,600 persons were feared dead in the 100 mile-an-hour storm and the floods that followed it. There were no known American casualties. Record 16 to 20 - inch rains in some areas left as many as 4000,000 persons homeless.

Twenty-nine of Japan's 46 prefectures were hit by Typhoon Ida which reached gusts of 160 miles an hour in its violent path across the Tokyo-Yokohama area Friday. The area affected ran from central Japan north to Hokkaido.

Worst-hit area appeared to be the Izu peninsula some 50 miles southwest of Tokyo. Police said the raging floods which inundated the area killed as many as 1,400 persons.

Casualties in other areas of Japan, including Tokyo, mounted to 155 dead and 78 missing.

U.S. military authorities distributed blankets and food to homeless in Tokyo, Yokohama and Yokosuka. They stood ready to give further help if needed.

Twenty inches of rain dumped on 4,290-foot Mt. Amagi unleashed the flood that swamped Izu Friday night and Saturday morning. Homes and people were swept into Tsuruga Bay by the rushing waters. One 15-year-old boy clung to a piece of timber and was washed ashore, alive, 15 miles from the tip of the peninsula.

The worst damage was concentrated in a 200-square-mile area of the Izu peninsula of steep canyons and pleasant valleys.

In Tokyo transportation was crippled by the winds and water. Railway officials said it might take three days to restore traffic to normal.

Wilton Persons Replaces Adams As Ike's Aide

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower Saturday named his deputy assistant, retired Maj. Gen. Wilton B. Persons, to replace Sherman Adams as his No. 1 aide as part of a White House staff shakeup.

Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said the 62-year-old Persons, an old Army buddy of the President, would exercise the same broad duties as Adams but that there would be a "redistribution" of the responsibilities assigned to other presidential aides. He said he would not call this a "reorganization."

Adams resigned under heavy Republican political pressure last Monday as "assistant to the President." He told the nation in a radio-TV address he had decided to quit because a "campaign of villification" had been launched against him as a result of his relations with gift-giving Boston millionaire Bernard Goldfine.

His inference was that Democratic-led House influence investigators had undermined him but Republican leaders, at a meeting with GOP National Chairman Meade Alcorn in Chicago, decided he was a political liability. Alcorn communicated this information to

Brings Mate's Ashes To Bar .

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — A widow walked into a "men only" drinking establishment in a Sydney suburb Friday night, went up to five of her husband's former drinking companions and emptied a box of ashes on the bar.

"You wanted him here all the time," she said. "Well, here he is."

There were the ashes of her husband Harold William Norris, 47, who was found dying in a Sydney street Sept. 5.

Emergency Is Declared By Abdel Nasser

CAIRO, (UPI) — President Gamal Abdel Nasser Saturday proclaimed a state of emergency in the United Arab Republic.

No reason was given for the decree. It was announced by the semi - official Middle East News agency and later confirmed by the government information department.

Nasser also extended his land reform scheme, which takes from the rich and gives to the poor, to the Syrian region of the U.A.R. It was Nasser's most far-reaching project in Syria since Syria joined with Egypt in February to establish the U. A. R.

ANNOUNCEMENT

The Middle East News agency made this brief announcement:

"The president of the republic promulgated a law concerning a state of emergency in the United Arab Republic, substituting for the legislative decree promulgated in 1949 in the Syrian region and the law promulgated in 1954 in the Egyptian region. He (the president) also issued a decree proclaiming a state of emergency."

The government information department would make no comment on the announcement other than to confirm it.

There have been reports that Nasser has been dissatisfied with the administrative set - up in the two regions of the U. A. R. and that he planned a reorganization of the government.

There was no immediate indication as to whether the state of emergency had any connection with the reported reorganization. Nasser was said to be anxious to tighten control over the Syrian region, separated from Egypt by Israel and Jordan.

IN JACKSON PARISH

Confession Given In Wilhite Death

Sandy-Haired Joe H. Bell, 66, confessed yesterday to the Wednesday morning axe-slaying of his neighbor, E. Jules Wilhite, 74-year-old Chatham farmer. He has been tentatively charged with murder.

The confession in the Ouachita Parish jail followed a series of lie dectector tests given the mild-mannered, smiling widower since his arrest Friday morning.

Bell had been brought here so that lie - dector equipment owned by the Ouachita Parish Sheriff's Department could be utilized. Tests proved inconclusive, however, and Bell confessed the murder to officers of the Jackson Parish Sheriff's Department, when they arrived in Monroe yesterday morning.

He slept most of the time that he was not being tested, and since his return to the jail in Jonesboro yesterday afternoon, he passed most of the time dozing. "He seems to be in a very good mood, but is confused on some of the details of the slaying," officers said.

Jackson Parish Criminal Deputy J. H. Barnes said that Bell related Wilhite had walked over to his home Wednesday morning. The men lived about one mile apart.

WALKING

"Mr. Bell said that Mr. Wilhite came over every 2 or 3 days," Barnes stated. "He told us that he asked Wilhite to go home, because he had some work to do. They got into an argument, and Bell says that Wilhite threatened to go home, get a gun, and come back and kill him."

"They started walking up the road, and Bell states that Wilhite kept reaching into his pocket, as if he had a gun or a knife. Bell admits that he never saw any

Luck Be-Devils DeGaulle On Eve Of Election

PARIS (UPI) — Bombings and sabotage in France, a bloody ambush in Algeria and a near-deluge in tropical Africa be-deviled the De Gaulle government on the eve of the constitutional referendum to pave the way for a new Fifth Republic of France.

Despite the violent efforts of Algerian opponents, the opposition of the Communists and the sudden onset of the African rainy season, it was expected that as many as 70 per cent of the eligible 44 million voters will accept Premier Charles de Gaulle's "strong man" Constitution in the voting that starts Sunday in metropolitan France and the African possessions.

Voting began Friday and will continue through Sunday in Algeria, where 3,300,000 people—Moslem women included for the first time — are voting in the face of threats by the nationalist rebels.

The government ordered extra police precautions in France proper. Troops formed an armed ring around Orly Airfield near Paris. All passengers and baggage on French planes were searched. Freight shipments to Algeria were cancelled for 48 hours.

Atomic Weapons Against Chinese Said Possibility

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Air Force Secretary James H. Douglas said Saturday atomic weapons may be used against attacking Chinese Communists if necessary.

Adding punch to the initial version of a talk prepared for delivery to the Air Force Assn. in which he said merely that modern U.S. fighters were ready to meet the threat if the Reds persist in use of force against Nationalist China, Douglas declared: "And make no mistake, our fighter bombers and light bombers are as capable of using high explosive bombs or more powerful weapons, if necessary."

This change in the speech to make it stronger reportedly had State Department approval. Although Douglas did not specify atomic bombs, his use of the phrase "more powerful weapons" was clear reference to nuclear weapons.

In perhaps the frankest acknowledgement of Soviet air strength yet to be made officially, Douglas said he believed the Communists

Count Of Traffic On River Here Scheduled Soon

A traffic count on the Ouachita River at Monroe has been slated for the near future, it was learned yesterday.

Lorris Wimberly, director of the department of public works, and Calvin Watts, assistant director of the department, met with the Greater Ouachita Port Commission in a closed session here.

Following the meeting, Commission Chairman Curtis D. Smith told of the traffic count plans. He explained that the survey will be based on the amount of river traffic using the present 6½ foot channel, as compared with the amount of traffic hoped for if the proposed 9-foot channel becomes a reality.

The federal government appropriated funds toward the 9-foot channel several months ago.

Feasibility reports prepared by Ford, Bacon and Davis for the department of public works were also discussed at yesterday's meeting. Smith said. The reports deal with the feasibility of port facilities on the Ouachita.

The traffic count is to be made by the department of public works and following its completion, which is expected within 60 to 90 days, another joint meeting of the department and commission will be held.

Future developments of port facilities in Ouachita Parish probably will be determined at that meeting, according to Smith.

Cooler Weather Expected Here

Partly cloudy skies with cooler weather is expected in the Monroe area today and tomorrow.

A pleasant 79 was recorded as the high yesterday, with a low of 68. Friday's high was 91 with a low of 73.

The outlook for Arkanasas calls for fair skies and much cooler weather with a low of 45 expected in the northern part of the state tonight with 55 in South Arkansas and North Louisiana.

REPORT ON OUACHITA PARISH PROJECT

State's First Juvenile Detention Home Venture Costly

By SAM HANNA
Staff Reporter

Louisiana's first venture into a juvenile detention program — the Ouachita Parish Detention Home — covered a small number of children in an expensive, changeable first year of operation, a Morning World investigation disclosed.

The Dentention Home cost $30,218.65 to operate the first full year, taking in 224 children for an average cost of $18.65 per child per day, according to official records in the Baton Rouge offices of the Department of Public Welfare.

Supervisor A. D. Manuel, who said he figured the cost per child per day ran around $7, pointed out that the "national average for this type program is about $15 per child per day."

In addition, the Detention Home has had personnel problems and Manuel said he has changed his schedules of operation several times.

When News-Star — World representatives called at the home, located on the Milhaven Road, Saturday, a group of white and Negro teenage boys and girls were socializing together. They were sitting in a mixed group watching television and were later seen mingling on a patio.

A check showed that their sleeping quarters were separated by rooms. A petition stood between tables where they dine.

Manuel said it was difficult to "keep them apart because we have so much common areas." He referred to the library and the recreation room where there was music, television and a ping pong table.

Built at a cost of $122,388.96 by a one - third of a mill tax voted on by Ouachita Parish taxpayers, the home comes under the direct supervision of the Department of Public Welfare.

The Department of Public Welfare finances the home, except for $150 contributed monthly by the Ouachita Parish Police Jury, $100 monthly by the City of Monroe and $25 monthly by the City of West Monroe.

Juveniles are submitted to the home by parish and Monroe and West Monroe authorities, but there is no local supervision over the operation of the home. The home opened in August, 1957.

Since that time, a cook was fired, rehired and fired again, an assistant supervisor was asked to resign and a husband - wife team serving as housefather and housemother quit because of personal reasons, according to Manuel.

Supervised by Manuel, the home is operated by three housemothers, one housefather, a janitor and a cook. All but the cook and janitor sleep and eat at the home.

The salaries of Manuel and his wife come to $520 per month, in addition to their free room and board. The housefather draws $165 monthly and the housemothers, $165 monthly.

Total annual salaries came to $16,460.03, not including $1,000 for the medical services of Dr. Doyle Hamilton.

The food bill alone ran $2,899.57, including nine meat purchases that ranged in price from $58.73 to $125.28 for a total of $643.91—for beef, steak, chicken, ham, sausage, bacon, frankfurters and dry salt meat.

A check with the cook's menu showed that she generally serves bacon at one breakfast a week and some form of meat at one meal daily.

According to Welfare Department records, the first year's average number of children at the Detention Home per day went as follows:

August, 1957 — 5.03; September, 4.96; October, 4.03; November, 4.13; December, 2.93; January, 1958 — 4.64; February, 2.2; March, 5.13; April, 3.23; May, 4.58; June, 7.8; July, 9.13; and August, 7.1.

When confronted with the cost, Manuel said, "This form of program is generally considered as expensive. When human lives are involved, I don't think you can measure its importance in dollars and cents."

Manuel said he sets up his own schedule to operate the home under and explained that his staff is instructed to follow the systems. He said he has little to do with the children.

He submittted a schedule which showed that the children have a certain time to rise and retire, chores to do, a Bible class, recreation and study.

Regulations call for children to be retained at the home for 72 hours, but Manuel pointed out that in some cases it was necessary to keep them for as long as

In Gov. Long's home parish of Winn, McSween also came out in front, 2,221 to 2,011.

The defeat was particularly significant since the Eighth District is Long's home district and his candidates there don't usually falter.

Segregation also became an issue in the election. State Sen. William Rainach, chairman of the Joint Legislative Committee on Segregation, intimated Long was guilty of wrong-doing on reports that his private limousine carried his Negro cook to Winnfield so she could register.

During the past week, Teekell accused McSween and Gravel of hiring "two Negro big shots" from New Orleans and California to influence the Negro vote.

Miss. Senator To Campaign For Lt. Governor

COLUMBUS, Miss. (UPI) — State Sen. William G. Burgin Jr. of Columbus announced Saturday night that he would be a 1959 candidate for lieutenant-governor.

Burgin, an attorney, has been often mentioned as a possible candidate and he said the speculation made it advisable to announce at this time.

The lawmaker, who has been one of Gov. J. P. Coleman's main supporters in the Legislature, is chairman of the important Senate Finance Committee. He is a member of the State Sovereignty Commission, the Commission of Budget and Accounting, and the Board of Trustees of the Public Employee's Retirement System. He was first elected to the Legislature in 1952 and was unopposed for four years later.

Burgin became the first announced candidate for lieutenant governor.

Others prominently mentioned as candidates include Paul Johnson Jr. of Hattiesburg, loser in two races for governor, State Rep. Brown Williams of Neshoba County, and State Rep. George Payne Cossar of Tallahatchie County.

Identification Aided By Teeth

JACKSON (UPI)—Police said Saturday the comparison of teeth of a decomposed corpse found last week near Terry and a British Columbia dental record made them "reasonably sure" the body was that of Michael Love, 22, of Victoria, British Columbia.

The Highway Patrol said a bullet found in the skull of the body was from a pistol found near the corpse and that they were trying to find out if the man committed suicide or was murdered.

Campaign Leader In Statehood Move To Speak

DALLAS (UPI) — Robert Bruce Atwood, a leader in the campaign for Alaska statehood, will speak at the 18th annual meeting of the American Assn. of Oilwell Drilling Contractors Oct. 1-3.

A leading atomic scientist, Dr. J. H. Wright, will also speak at the meeting, it was announced Saturday. Wright is supervisor of the Advanced Systems Group of the Atomic Power Department of Westinghouse Electric Corp., Pittsburgh.

Atwood, chairman of the Alaska Statehood Committee and publisher of the Anchorage Daily Times, will be principal speaker at the association's annual banquet, which concludes the three-day program.

Wilton Persons Replaces Adams As Ike's Aide

Eisenhower, and Adams' dramatic resignation followed.

The President, who once said he was keeping Adams because "I need him," accepted the resignation "with sadness."

In promoting Persons, the President picked an old comrade-in-arms. He and Persons first served together in Washington when the chief executive was a relatively unknown colonel.

On Jan. 21, 1953, the day after his inauguration, Eisenhower named Persons a "special assistant." On Sept. 5, 1953, he gave Persons his present title of "deputy assistant."

In this job, Persons has served as liaison man between the White House and Congress.

His new job will pay $22,500 annually, compared with his present salary of $21,700.

Hagerty said Persons would take over from Adams "as soon as an orderly transition can be made." Hagerty said he did not know how much longer Adams would continue at the White House and would not try to guess.

As for the new staff setup, Hagerty said these changes will be made:

A new post of "overall deputy" will be created and filled later. The man holding this job will be Persons' chief aide.

Bryce N. Harolow, now an administrative assistant to the President, also will be given the title of deputy assistant to the President for congressional affairs. This will be a new title and Harolow will handle duties heretofore done by Persons.

Robert E. Merriam, former assistant budget director, has been named deputy asistant for interdepartmental affairs. This was announced previously by the White House.

The changes mean there will now be three deputy assistants where there formerly was only one.

Adams' authority was broader than that delegated by any other President to an assistant. Eisenhower called him his "chief of staff" and expected him to handle the administrative details of policy set by the President and his Cabinet. Adams also handled GOP patronage matters.

Adams, a native of New Hampshire and that state's former governor, was a reserved New Englander of few words. Persons is an easy - going, soft - spoken southerner who has spent a lifetime developing the art of winning friends and influencing people.

During World War II, he was the Army's chief contact man on Capitol Hill, responsible for winning congressional support and appropriations for that branch of the service.

Three Killed In Helicopter Crash At N.O.

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Three Navy men died Saturday in the crash of a Navy helicopter two miles east of the Alvin Callender field near here.

Identification of the dead was withheld pending notification of next of kin.

The HUP helicopter was on a training mission when it fell into a swamp and burned.

The Navy said the plane had been performing training maneuvers for about an hour and 15 minutes when it crashed.

J. Ben Meyer, resident on a plantation nearby, said a witness told him the propeller flew off before the 'copter plunged to earth.

Two other helicopters went to the scene, one returning the bodies of crewmen to the air field.

Report Given In Death Of W. Monroyan

"Rupture of a weak place in the blood vessel at the base of the brain," was listed yesterday as the cause of death of James Edward Gardner, 24, who was dead on arrival at a local hospital Friday night.

Dr. John P. Burton, Ouachita Parish coroner, conducted an autopsy yesterday morning, and then stated that Mr. Gardner died of a "brain hemorrhage - a rupture of the congenital aneurysm at the base of the brain."

"It's one of those things that could have happened at any time" Dr. Burton stated, adding that it is "one of the causes of sudden death in younger people."

According to witnesses, Mr. Gardner was involved in a scuffle outside the Starlight night club in West Monroe. Dr. Burton said that witnesses stated that his parents were trying to get him to come home, he became unpleasant toward them, started at his father, and his father struck him.

"It was not a particularly hard blow, according to witnesses. The blow itself didn't cause his death," the coroner added.

Dr. Burton revealed that a blood alcohol study "showed that Mr. Gardner was heavily intoxicated."

NO CHARGES

"As of now, I don't think there have been any charges filed. A report will be submitted to the District Attorney," Dr. Burton said. The Ouachita Parish Sheriff's Department investigated.

Final rites for Mr. Gardner, a resident of 406 Clayton St., West Monroe, will be conducted today at 4:30 p.m. at the Hixson Brothers Funeral Home Chapel.

The Rev. R. A. McCormick will officiate with burial in Riverview Cemetery by Hixson Brothers.

Mr. Gardner, 24, was pronounced dead on arrival Friday night at a Monroe hospital.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Joanne Gardner; a brother, Thomas Gardner, West Monroe, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Gardner, West Monroe.

Pallbearers will be Charles and Johnny Moore, Porter Norris, Harold Cornett, Jimmy Burks and Louis Whittington.

7,858 on returns from 71 of 72 precincts. Teekell represents the parish in the House.

In Gov. Long's home parish of Winn, McSween also came out in front, 2,221 to 2,011.

The defeat was particularly significant since the Eighth District is Long's home district and his candidates there don't usually falter.

Segregation also became an issue in the election. State Sen. William Rainach, chairman of the Joint Legislative Committee on Segregation, intimated Long was guilty of wrong-doing on reports that his private limousine carried his Negro cook to Winnfield so she could register.

During the past week, Teekell accused McSween and Gravel of hiring "two Negro big shots" from New Orleans and California to influence the Negro vote.

Miss. Senator To Campaign For Lt. Governor

COLUMBUS, Miss. (UPI)— State Sen. William G. Burgin Jr. of Columbus announced Saturday night that he would be a 1959 candidate for lieutenant-governor.

Burgin, an attorney, has been often mentioned as a possible candidate and he said the speculation made it "adviseable to announce at this time."

The lawmaker, who has been one of Gov. J. P. Coleman's main supporters in the Legislature, is chairman of the important Senate Finance Committee. He is a member of the State Sovereignty Commission, the Commission of Budget and Accounting, and the Board of Trustees of the Public Employee's Retirement System. He was first elected to the Legislature in 1952 and was unopposed four years later.

Burgin became the first announced candidate for lieutenant governor.

Others prominently mentioned as candidates include Paul Johnson Jr. of Hattiesburg, loser in two races for governor, State Rep. Brown Williams of Neshoba County, and State Rep. George Payne Cossar of Tallhatchie County.

Identification Aided By Teeth

JACKSON (UPI)—Police said Saturday the comparison of teeth of a decomposed corpse found last week near Terry and a British Columbia dental record made them "reasonably sure" the body was that of Michael Love, 22, of Victoria, British Columbia.

The Highway Patrol said a bullet found in the skull of the body was from a pistol found near the corpse and that they were trying to find out if the man committed suicide or was murdered.

Campaign Leader In Statehood Move To Speak

DALLAS (UPI)— Robert Bruce Atwood, a leader in the campaign for Alaska statehood, will speak at the 18th annual meeting of the American Assn. of Oilwell Drilling Contractors Oct. 1-3.

A leading atomic scientist, Dr. J. H. Wright, will also speak at the meeting, it was announced Saturday. Wright is supervisor of the Advanced Systems Group of the Atomic Power Department of Westinghouse Electric Corp., Pittsburgh.

Atwood, chairman of the Alaska Statehood Committee and publisher of the Anchorage Daily Times, will be principal speaker at the association's annual banquet, which concludes the three-day program.

Wilton Persons Replaces Adams As Ike's Aide

Eisenhower, and Adams' dramatic resignation followed.

The President, who once said he was keeping Adams because "I need him," accepted the resignation "with sadness."

In promoting Persons, the President picked an old comrade-in-arms. He and Persons first served together in Washington when the chief executive was a relatively unknown colonel.

On Jan. 21, 1953, the day after his inauguration, Eisenhower named Persons a "special assistant." On Sept. 5, 1953, he gave Persons his present title of "deputy assistant."

In this job, Persons has served as liaison man between the White House and Congress.

His new job will pay $22,500 annually, compared with his present salary of $21,700.

Hagerty said Persons would take over from Adams "as soon as an orderly transition can be made." Hagerty said he did not know how much longer Adams would continue at the White House and would not try to guess.

As for the new staff setup, Hagerty said these changes will be made:

A new post of "overall deputy" will be created and filled later. The man holding this job will be Persons' chief aide.

Bryce N. Harolow, now an administrative assistant to the President, also will be given the title of deputy assistant to the President for congressional affairs. This will be a new title and Harolow will handle duties heretofore done by Persons.

Rober. E. Merriam, former assistant budget director, has been named deputy asistant for interdepartmental affairs. This was announced previously by the White House.

The changes mean there will now be three deputy assistants where there formerly was only one.

Adams' authority was broader than that delegated by any other President to an assistant. Eisenhower called him his "chief of staff" and expected him to handle the administrative details of policy set by the President and his Cabinet. Adams also handled GOP patronage matters.

Adams, a native of New Hampshire and that state's former governor, was a reserved New Englander of few words. Persons is an easy - going, soft - spoken southerner who has spent a lifetime developing the art of winning friends and influencing people.

During World War II, he was the Army's chief contact man on Capitol Hill, responsible for winning congressional support and appropriations for that branch of the service.

Report Given In Death Of W. Monroyan

"Rupture of a weak place in the blood vessel at the base of the brain," was listed yesterday as the cause of death of James Edward Gardner, 24, who was dead on arrival at a local hospital Friday night.

Dr. John P. Burton, Ouachita Parish coroner, conducted an autopsy yesterday morning, and then stated that Mr. Gardner died of a "brain hemorrhage - a rupture of the congenital aneurysm at the base of the brain."

"It's one of those things that could have happened at any time" Dr. Burton stated, adding that it is "one of the causes of sudden death in younger people."

According to witnesses, Mr. Gardner was involved in a scuffle outside the Starlight night club in West Monroe. Dr. Burton said that witnesses stated that his parents were trying to get him to come home, he became unpleasant toward them, started at his father, and his father struck him.

"It was not a particularly hard blow, according to witnesses. The blow itself didn't cause his death," the coroner added.

Dr. Burton revealed that a blood alcohol study "showed that Mr. Gardner was heavily intoxicated."

NO CHARGES

"As of now, I don't think there have been any charges filed. A report will be submitted to the District Attorney," Dr. Burton said. The Ouachita Parish Sheriff's Department investigated.

Final rites for Mr. Gardner, a resident of 406 Clayton St., West Monroe, will be conducted today at 4:30 p.m. at the Hixson Brothers Funeral Home Chapel.

The Rev. R. A. McCormick will officiate with burial in Riverview Cemetery by Hixson Brothers.

Mr. Gardner, 24, was pronounced dead on arrival Friday night at a Monroe hospital.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Joanne Gardner; a brother, Thomas Gardner, West Monroe, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Gardner, West Monroe.

Pallbearers will be Charles and Johnny Moore, Porter Norris, Harold Cornett, Jimmy Burks and Louis Whittington.

ENCOURAGES INTEGRITY

YMCA Develops Christian Views

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is another in a series of articles prepared by the United Givers organization here describing the work of various agencies participating in the fund.)

Our town, like hundreds of others, wants to do the right thing for its boys, girls and young adults.

Throughout our nation communities are seeking answers to the problems of their young people. The Young Men's Christian Association is proving its value in helping answer these problems and in meeting the needs of young and old alike. It is another Ouachita Parish agency supported by your United Givers Fund.

The basic purpose of the YMCA is to build Christian personality and develop Christian character.

A local YMCA official answered the question "Why do you exist?" in the following manner: "The Young Men's Christian Association promotes Christian principles for all its citizens, encourages integrity, instructs our youth in the art of competitive and fair play, embraces a closer relationship of father and son, extends a friendly hand to the neglected and faltering boy and upholds the dignity of man and country."

Your YMCA headquarters are at 217 Breard St. While this building serves as a headquarters unit, most of the program is conducted on a decentralized basis making extensive use of community facilities.

DAY CAMP

One of the highlights of the YMCA Youth Program is its summer Day Camp, jointly sponsored by the YMCA - YWCA, and serving both boys and girls throughout Ouachita Parish. Last summer 578 boys and girls attended this eight-week day camp at Forsythe Park.

The program included swimming, boating, fishing, crafts, riflery, archery, athletics, group singing, devotionals, horseback riding, hiking special trips, Indian ceremonials, educational trips, group games and story telling. A total of 225 boys and girls were taught to swim while 399 passed swimming tests. Any youth who expresses a desire to attend camp is accepted regardless of his ability to pay tuition.

During the fall, winter and spring months the YMCA Four-Fronts program serves all boys from 6 - 18 years of age. This program is made up of Father and Son "Y" Indian Guides, Gra-Y, Junior Hi-Y and Hi-Y.

The popular Father and Son "Y" Indian Guide program is growing rapidly throughout Ouachita Parish. Designed to foster comradeship of father and son, this interesting "Y" program is centered around Indian lore and includes crafts, ceremonials, group games, cooperative projects, camp-outs, archery and rituals. Boys 6-8 years of age become real pals with their dads while working and playing together.

GRA-Y

Boys, age 9-12, enjoy Gra-Y which is the club program for grade school boys. The Gra-Y program consists of devotionals, athletics, singing, camp-outs, service projects, horseback riding, archery, riflery, movies, hiking, and group games. Well qualified Christian leadership enables each club member to constructively enjoy his leisure time.

Junior Hi-Y is the program for Junior High School boys, age 13-14. The purpose is to strengthen their bodies, develop their minds, and help them to worship God and work together for a finer community and better world.

Club meetings, devotionals, movies, crafts, hikes, camp-outs, athletics, service projects, and parties all have their place in the Junior Hi-Y program.

Hi-Y is the high school program for boys 15-18. Its purpose is to create, maintain and extend throughout the home, school and community high standards of Christian character. Hi-Y members enjoy special speakers, club meetings, movies, devotionals, conferences, service projects, forums, inductions, worship services and athletics.

NEW PROGRAM

This year on request from parents and other interested persons, the YMCA is starting a Tri-Gra-Y program for girls of grades four through six in four schools in Ouachita Parish.

The activities of this program are varied and include devotionals educational trips, movies, crafts, camping trips, drama and other activities determined by the girls' interests. The Tri-Gra-Y program will be expanded as interest warrants.

Local "Y" officials are proud of the progress they have made in reaching all local school areas in Ouachita Parish. This year the YMCA program is being conducted in 29 grade schools, 3 junior high schools, and 4 high schools.

Full community support of the United Givers Fund Campaign is urged. Complete participation in United Givers will insure the adequate financing of our local charitable and character-building agencies.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — The Tennessee Valley Authority disclosed today that its power revenue for the fiscal year ending June, 1958, totaled $233.6 million, a decline of 2.6 million from the previous year.

The decline resulted from a $15.2 million dip in revenue from federal defense agencies. Sales to municipal and cooperative distributors, industries and neighboring utilities increased $12.6 million over 1957.

The net revenue totaled $55.0 million, a return of 3.6 per cent on the average investment in power facilities of $1,530 million. The average return for the past 25 years was four per cent.

DAY CAMP

One of the highlights of the YMCA Youth Program is its summer Day Camp, jointly sponsored by the YMCA - YWCA, and serving both boys and girls throughout Ouachita Parish. Last summer 578 boys and girls attended this eight-week day camp at Forsythe Park.

The program included swimming, boating, fishing, crafts, riflery, archery, athletics, group singing, devotionals, horseback riding, hiking special trips, Indian ceremonials, educational trips, group games and story telling. A total of 225 boys and girls were taught to swim while 399 passed swimming tests. Any youth who expresses a desire to attend camp is accepted regardless of his ability to pay tuition.

During the fall, winter and spring months the YMCA Four-Fronts program serves all boys from 6 - 18 years of age. This program is made up of Father and Son "Y" Indian Guides, Gra-Y, Junior Hi-Y and Hi-Y.

The popular Father and Son "Y" Indian Guide program is growing rapidly throughout Ouachita Parish. Designed to foster comradeship of father and son, this interesting "Y" program is centered around Indian lore and includes crafts, ceremonials, group games, cooperative projects, camp-outs, archery and rituals. Boys 6-8 years of age become real pals with their dads while working and playing together.

GRA-Y

Boys, age 9-12, enjoy Gra-Y which is the club program for grade school boys. The Gra-Y program consists of devotionals, athletics, singing, camp-outs, service projects, horseback riding, archery, riflery, movies, hiking, and group games. Well qualified Christian leadership enables each club member to constructively enjoy his leisure time.

Junior Hi-Y is the program for Junior High School boys, age 13-14. The purpose is to strengthen their bodies, develop their minds, and help them to worship God and work together for a finer community and better world.

Club meetings, devotionals, movies, crafts, hikes, camp-outs, athletics, service projects, and parties all have their place in the Junior Hi-Y program.

Hi-Y is the high school program for boys 15-18. Its purpose is to create, maintain and extend throughout the home, school and community high standards of Christian character. Hi-Y members enjoy special speakers, club meetings, movies, devotionals, conferences, service projects, forums, inductions, worship services and athletics.

NEW PROGRAM

This year on request from parents and other interested persons, the YMCA is starting a Tri-Gra-Y program for girls of grades four through six in four schools in Ouachita Parish.

The activities of this program are varied and include devotionals educational trips, movies, crafts, camping trips, drama and other activities determined by the girls' interests. The Tri-Gra-Y program will be expanded as interest warrants.

Local "Y" officials are proud of the progress they have made in reaching all local school areas in Ouachita Parish. This year the YMCA program is being conducted in 29 grade schools, 3 junior high schools, and 4 high schools.

Full community support of the United Givers Fund Campaign is urged. Complete participation in United Givers will insure the adequate financing of our local charitable and character-building agencies.

Power Revenue Of TVA Drops By 2.6 Million

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — The Tennessee Valley Authority disclosed today that its power revenue for the fiscal year ending June, 1958, totaled $233.6 million, a decline of 2.6 million from the previous year.

The decline resulted from a $15.2 million dip in revenue from federal defense agencies. Sales to municipal and cooperative distributors, industries and neighboring utilities increased $12.6 million over 1957.

The net revenue totaled $55.0 million, a return of 3.6 per cent on the average investment in power facilities of $1,530 million. The average return for the past 25 years was four per cent.

Net expense of all non - power programs was $11,066,291 compared with $9,202,351 in 1957.

Expenditures for construction were $131.3 million, an increase of $45.8 million. Most of the funds were used for new electric generating capacity at existing steam plants. The funds were derived from power revenues.

The fixed assets of TVA at the end of 1958 were $2.154 million compared to $2.109 million in 1957. An additional $141 million was invested in construction and investigations in progress.

Fertilizer, agricultural and munitions developments work cost $4,010,654, compared with $2,748,961 during the previous year.

Ten million dollars was paid to the U. S. treasury in lieu of appropriated money invested in the system. Payments to the treasury now total $250,131,519, including $65,972,500 in retirement of bonds.

Tech Instructor Co-Authors Book; In Third Edition

RUSTON (Special) — Dr. Irol Whitmore Balsley, professor of secretarial science at Louisiana Tech, is the co-author of a textbook which has just been published in its third revised edition.

The book, "Shorthand Transcription Studies," was written by Mrs. Balsley in collaboration with S. J. Wanous, chairman of the business education department at the University of California.

The textbook is widely used in both high schools and colleges and includes 70 shorthand lessons.

Mrs. Balsley, a member of the Tech faculty since 1954, received her BA degree from Nebraska State Teachers College, her MS degree from the University of Tennessee and her doctor of education degree from Indiana University.

The first plastic material was made in 1868 as a substitute for ivory in making billiard balls.

In the famous "Big Storm of 1913" on the Great Lakes, waves were 35 feet high.

Ruston Man Honored By Tech Group

RUSTON (Special) — James Davis Green of Ruston, who was recognized as the outstanding freshman male student at Louisiana Tech last year, was recently awarded a gold cup by the Tech chapter of Omicron Delta Kappa, national leadership fraternity.

Green, who is now a sophomore in pre-med, is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Marvin T. Green of Ruston.

An engraved plate bearing Green's name will be attached to a plaque in the administration building. The plaque was installed in 1951 when ODK began its annual selection of an outstanding freshman man.

Last year Green had a scholastic average of 2.977 out of a possible 3. He is a member of Pi Kappa Alpha and participated in intramural sports of that fraternity. Green is also a member of the Forensics Club and was rated superior in 30 debates in five tournaments. A member of the Trinity Methodist Church, Green also has appeared on television programs and before service clubs.

Tidelands Case Delay

Final arguments scheduled for Oct. 3 in the federal vs. state controversy over oil-rich tidelands was postponed suddenly and unexpectedly by the U. S. supreme court. This move came as attorneys from Louisiana, Alabama, Florida, Mississippi and Texas were meeting in closed session to plot strategy for the 13-hour final arguments.

This means another delay in a case that has been dragging along for years. It means that the southern states, which are badly in need of additional revenue, will be deprived of a large part of this revenue for some time to come. Some concessions have been made by the federal government since it filed action in an attempt to take over the state properties but the main issue is yet to be settled.

At stake in the court contest between the states and the federal government is the boundary line for offshore lands containing billions of dollars in potential oil production off the gulf coast. The federal government contends the states' title extends three miles seaward and the states claim ownership out three marine league, or 10 and one-half miles.

For several centuries there had been no contention that the states did not own the offshore lands whatever distance out into the ocean this country's claims extended. Under international agreement, each country or aggregation of states lays claim to territorial rights a certain distance offshore. Throughout the history of this country it had been conceded that this territory belonged to the states to which it was contiguous. So far as is known, the only reason ever advanced by the federal government for making claim to this property of the states is that it is likely to need the oil for defense or war purposes.

The logical answer to that, of course, is that it should buy the oil, if it needs it, just as it buys all other war materiels.

If the supreme court would use the same zeal in this case as in integration cases, the matter would soon be decided and if it would adhere to the states' rights principles provided in the constitution, the states could go ahead and use the revenue that is justly theirs.

New Soviet Sputnik

Reported creation of a two-headed dog is one of the latest successful steps in a form of weird surgery carried on by the Russians for several years. Because this feat was considered as startling as the launching of the first Russian Sputnik, it was labeled the "Soviet Sputnik of surgery."

The head of a pup was grafted onto the neck of a grown dog, near the dog's own head, after which it was reported that both the dog and the pup's head felt good and that both heads accepted food.

Physicians who witnessed the operation — among them an American doctor from Columbia university — also were shown a dog which was said to possess two hearts and three lungs, one extra heart and one extra lung having been grafted on.

"The ultimate purpose of our experiments," said Physiologist Vladimir Demikhov, who performed the demonstration, "is to transplant organs vital to man to replace those that are hopelessly affected."

These startling experiments are of interest because of their strange possibilities. Whether they can be of much practical value remains to be seen.

For instance, the transplantation of hearts is certain to be of interest to a country such as the United States, in which more than half of the deaths are attributed to heart trouble and its allied ailments. There still remains the question, however, of where hearts would be obtained if the operation could be performed with comparative ease. Unless hearts of animals could be substituted, this weird form of surgery might result in body-robbery.

About three-fourths of the physicians in Russia are said to be women, whose training in medicine may be about the equivalent of that of trained nurses in the United States. These women apparently carry on most of the routine practice and leave experimentation and advanced surgery to the men scientists.

One thing that can be said for Russia is that it goes in for sensationalism and attempts to gain world attention. In scientific activities other than those having to do with war potentialities, the Russian scientists have shown a willingness to demonstrate their methods and accomplishments to the scientists of other nations.

DAWG Is New Society

The initials of a new society form a word that has a catchy sound. There is a good possibility that the society will also "catch on" with a good many adherents. The word is DAWG and these four letters stand for Do Away With Grass.

In Memphis, the silent city, where noise is taboo, a society dedicated to elimination of man's lawn-mowing miseries, the Do Away With Grass society, has been organized.

Now a thoughtful Memphis woman has come up with a happy solution. She favors paving the whole front and back yard so they can be used for driveways.

Right now mankind is due a little surcease from his labors, because the grass season is practically over, but the amount of energy devoted to grass-cutting in the summer time is tremendous.

Rather than pave the whole yard, some folks take a different view. They say tall, brown grass is beautiful, so why cut it? Let it grow and be beautiful.

If you do any good with grass-cutting, you have to cut it every week or two. Is it worthwhile?

Politico-Labor Rebellion In Pa. In Need Of Leader

WASHINGTON, D. C. — In Pennsylvania there is a politico-Labor rebellion in search of a leader, and the mantle seems to be hovering over Rep. Hugh Scott, the Republican candidate for the U. S. Senate.

If it breaks this way, the jolly Congressman - attorney - Navy veteran from cosmopolitan Philadelphia could score one for the Eisenhower Administration. Scott is a modern - before - Eisenhower Republican who was elected to Congress in 1940 when Mr. Roosevelt was winning a third term. Scott has an unbroken, unapologetic and admirable record of voting his convictions in favor of civil rights for all colors and classes.

On August 18, 1958 he got the House floor and became one of the few Republicans to support the Kennedy - Ives bill. He said in effect, that the bill was a poor thing but better than nothing for protecting union members from dictatorial and corrupt bosses. More than any of the Republican Senate candidates from coast to coast, Scott satisfies the specifications of a man - against-Labor - boss candidate. But even against Laborites he does not discriminate. Six years ago and long before he had plans to run Statewide, Scott gave his major Naval Academy appointment to the son of James McDevitt, head of the AFL-CIO Political Education Committee.

Scott's election chances were immensely improved at the recent Steelworkers Convention in Atlantic City. The convention confirmed many accusations of anti-democracy in unions. A whooop-and-holler indictment of "dual unionsim" was brought against three Pennsylvanians who are local union leaders. Donald C. Rarick of McKeesport, a furnace charger at the U. S. Steel plant and president of a 4,000 - member Steelworkers local, ran last year against David McDonald for the Steelworkers presidency. Rarick was protesting not unionism, but merely the 1956 hiking of union dues from $3 a month to $5, partially to pay McDonald's $50,000 a - year salary and other top - level privileges.

Rarick, a complete obscurity in the Labor movement, was expected to get a handful of votes. But he polled 223,000 and lost by less than 2 to 1. With Rarick in this dues - increase uprising were two other Pennsylvanians. One is Nicholas Mamula of Aliquippa, president of the 12,000 - member local at the Jones and Laughlin plant. The other is Frank W. O'Brien of Hazelwood, head of the 6,500 - member Steelworkers unit in the Pittsburgh area. The Steelworkers convention, in playing follow - the - leader for McDonald, voted to bring Rarick, Mamula and O'Brien to trial as "traitors" who are subject to expulsion.

No Ike - backing Republican candidate with Scott's pro-workingman record could ask for more. Pennsylvania in 1952-56 went for the Eisenhower - Nixon ticket, but this bare fact is not nearly so significant as the reasons behind it. In no other industrial State, I think, was the Eisenhower men - above - bosses pretension so well presented and so widely accepted among union members. Head of the GOP Labor Action committee in 1956 was Joe Machulsky, former president of a United Mine Workers union. Another Ike leader was Bert Collins, a United Auto Workers shop steward. In Pittsburgh there was a skyscraper headquarters of Labor-Power - for - Eisenhower whose members wore "Labor likes Ike" buttons into the plants. Allegheny and Lackwanna Counties went Republican in 1956 for the first time since the Coolidge - Hoover era.

Today the same union leaders are making a rank - and - file appeal for Hugh Scott. His Democratic opponent is the two-time Governor, George Leader, who has the Labor bosses and their money bags behind him.

Shortly before the Atlantic City Convention opened, Scott and Leader met in a televised debate. Scott listed among his qualifications to be Senator his Congressional experience, his voting record, and his local services. Leader was unable to match these legislative roles but he pulled what many viewers seem to regard as a red herring tactic of desperation. He accused Scott of charging an excessive legal fee on an immigration case. Then the Governor left the boradcasting station in a huff after refusing to take the Congressman's hand.

Since then, the feeling seems to be that the Governor is in trouble and that the Congressman is making his run to the front.

Two Bells With Much In Common

GEORGE SOKOLSKY'S DAYS

Ike Not Compelled To Take Khrush Vulgarity

One of the great advantages that Soviet Russia enjoys in the cold war is that in the so-called Democracies all mouths are wide open and every man, woman and child, drunkard, moron and imbecile as well as expert and philosopher is entitled to an opinion and the expression thereof. That is guaranteed by the Constitution.

It is thus possible for the Russians and their Chinese and Arabian allies to make use of that ancient device of the backstairs, namely, the rumor machine and the whispering campaign which sooner or later, if accelerated in volume, produces a wave of opinion that can have damaging effects upon the country and its policies.

What the United States is trying to do about Quemoy and Matsu is to establish a principle of international relations that a country cannot shoot its way into the United Nations. Red China is an indecent nation which uses methods to which even Stalinist Russia did not descend and there is no reason whatsoever why anyone needs to associate with such indecencies.

Secondly, the President of the United States has at long last taken the stand that this country is not going to be pushed around by an abusive, foul-speaking, nasty-mouthed moujik, name Khrushchev, and that the President does not need to read communications from this boor. After all, because an Ukrainian barfly happens to become elevated to the tyrant's role in Russia is no reason why the United States needs to suffer his vulgarity.

The handling of such matters by a government is very delicate and difficult and the President needs the support of all citizens of good will. In the looseness of New York's cafe society and the dinner parties of the careless rich there are always permanently wise men and women, who without particular disciplines, intellectual or otherwise, repeat what they hear somewhere and that is how the ball gets to rolling. The whispering device is one of the most awful that an enemy can use, for resistance to it usually is nil.

A wise-looking man who should not say an unmeasured word will say: "We ought to do business with Red China. Everybody does business with Red China except the United States." That is how it starts. Is this Communist propaganda? Who can believe that such a wise and learned man would spread Communist propaganda? Besides, he is a rich man or is so reputed to be and in a world where everything is measured by money, even morals, nobody could possibly accuse such a person as not being responsible. Further more he is known, as everybody else in such circles is, of being very close to those who ought to know of what is going on in the world. In fact, he lets names drop, not like a peep-hole columnist, but with care and restraint.

I pick this one subject of trade with Red China not as a subject of discussion but as an item about which there is a current whispering campaign. Who started it is not quite clear, but it does go the rounds. Sometimes, the sentence is varied to sound like this: "Isn't it true that if we trade with Red China we shall wean them away from Soviet Russia?

Forty years of history mean nothing in such a gossip mill. The nature of the Marxist-Leninist imperialistic development in Asia is ignored. The excuse for ignorance is that it is logical that Soviet Russia and Red China should break. But why is it logical? What has happened since 1920, when the Chinese Communist Party was formed, first at Baku and then in Peking, that makes it logical? Of course, the whisperer does not deal with details—only with broad, general issues. And so it goes round and round and round and comes out nowhere except as a nuisance to those who have real responsibility.

Views Of Our Readers

Editor Morning World

It would seem that we in the South, are now in the 3rd invasion - 1st by the Union Army - 2nd by the Carpet Baggers. Although we were left poverty stricken we have survived the first two, and by hard work have established an economy we can be justly proud of with no help such as Foreign Aid. We pulled ourselves up by our own boot straps, and I still contend that other people and nations can do the same.

And now the 3rd invasion by Federal Judges! At first the Civil Rights only wanted the right for Negroes to vote. Next they want to mix the races in schools, so the trend is set. After the South has gone to an enormous expense to provide equal facilities for the colored race, the Supreme Court comes up with a decision of a book written by a foreign author, based on a foreign ideology, and claims it is the law of the land. I understand that every official is required to take an oath to uphold the Constitution, but I have never heard an official take an oath to uphold a decision of the Supreme Court.

And we come to the conclusion that the Communist Party, through the NAACP, and backed by the Supreme Court decision, has struck at the very heart of the South. The Communists knew in advance this would create confusion - the white race against the colored race and vice versa.

The NAACP claims it has no connection with the Communist Party. There was a statement sometime back that the now Rev. Martin Luther King was a student at a Communist school in Tennessee. I have not heard this denied by anyone, so, after all, the Negro woman who, after stabbing King, accused him of being mixed up with the Communists, might not be a mental case.

And now I would like to submit the voting record of the Supreme Court Justices. Note the source is Senate Debate Remarks of Senate James O. Eastland of Mississippi, Chairman of Senate Committee of Judiciary, pages 12121 - 12122 Congressional Record. Mr. Editor, I think you would do your readers a great service by printing this record.

Sincerely,
J. R. Blalock

HUNTING MOVE LAUDED

Editor, Morning World

West Monroe, La.

Without any thought in my heart or mind of criticizing farmers recently imposed on by thoughtless and trigger happy dove hunters I want to express a word of praise to Olin Mathieson Chemical Corporation.

The invitation of this great Corporation to hunters in a time of tension and confusion to hunt on their timberland was one of the finest spirits I have witnessed in a long time. Especially was this true when they had signs printed on their land "hunting permitted" and had the invitation printed in the papers and carried in all news announcements.

Surely the hunters will use every precaution against letting fires get out or causing any kind of damage, but will try and help this fine Corporation protect their timberland from loss or damage.

This should be true of all lands where hunting is allowed. Hunters should never violate or abuse the privilege of land owners who permit hunting on their land.

Dove hunting is the most objectionable hunting of all hunting to farmers. To be successful in dove hunting four or five hunters have to surround a field and keep the doves circling and it sounds like war has broken out.

Since dove hunting lasts only a few days and cannot be of much value anyway in this area to anyone, it should be very restricted or prohibited altogether. It surely caused all this recent trouble. It will cause more in the future.

Sees Many Bills On Integration

INTEGRATION LAW DOUBTFUL —A score of integration bills will be introduced in the 36th Congress, but the outlook for any legislation is dubious. No one here thinks the sort if law proposed by Governor Collins of Florida to Governor's Conference this week has the slightest chance of enactment in present climate. Any constitutional amendment is also out. Both sides agree that no constitutional amendment on schools which might be drawn would get ratification by half of the nation's states, much less necessary three-fourths, which with Alaska in Union now would be 37 instead of 36 heretofore.

SHERM WAITED TOO LONG — Few politicians think the resignation of Sherman Adams will improve Republican chances in the election. Almost unanimous view is that Adams waited too long and allowed the maximum damage to accrue.

THE THIRD PARTY — Thing to keep in mind about the aversion to a third party expressed by Southern Governors is that people not office holders start parties, and that present Governors of Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Tennessee, South Carolina, and Georgia will either be out of office or lameducks at time of next national conventions and new Governors may be harder to please on platform. Big efforts toward party harmony is being made by Democrats North and South who believe that a party division might lead to election of Nixon as President. Harmony movement may or may not succeed.

CARMINE FOR HARMONY — Carmine DeSapio, Tammany Hall leader, may be the single most powerful figure in the 1960 Democratic National Convention, whether his States ticket wins or loses in November. DeSapio does not belong to the Northern liberal groups which believes the Democrats can win even if a third party enters the field in the South. The Tammany leader's influence will be used toward both a ticket and platform on which North and South can unite.

DEFENSE DILEMMA — Defense Department will have to decide in thirty days places where cuts can be made in defense expenditures. Congress leaders were astounded when defense officials let it be known that despite heavy appropriations cancellation or curtailment of production of Titan intercontinental ballastics, the Convair B-58 bomber and the Navy's Seamaster patrol might be necessary because of inflated costs. Congress in January may increase appropriation which would also increase already projected minimum budget deficit of twelve billion, two hundred million.

RED CHINA SEAT — Opponents of admission to Red China into United Nations were gloomy over the 44 to 28 vote by which the world organization refused to consider admission at 1958 session. There were nine abstentions, some of which favor Red China admission. Big blow was that Canada is expected to recognize Mao government in a few months and switch to recognition forces in Assembly.

KENNEDY TO PUT ON STEAM — Look for Senator John F. Kennedy to put on extra effort to pile up big majority in race for United States Senate. In recent primary Kennedy ran several thousand votes behind Democratic Governor Foster Furculo. Should Furculo vote exceed Kennedy's in November election it would be serious injury to Kennedy's Presidential prospects.

PILOT'S PAY — Look for airlines to make a strong effort to set aside 24-year old ruling of National Labor Board providing a floor for salary to commercial pilots. Airlines point out that more than half their pay to labor represents more than half of their expenses. Some pilots now make up to $25,000 per year and union is demanding as much as $45,000 per year for some pilots flying jet aircraft. Union benefits to some airline pilots out on strike amounts to as much as $650 per month.

GOVERNMENT BY INDICTMENT — Republican campaign book claim that "not one Republican official has been indicted or convicted of any misuse of public office" is a curious appraisal of public office standards. Even that may not hold until election for unless Department of Justice drags its feet two former officials of the FCC may be indicted. Sherman Adams the closest man to the President was forced out of office after receiving favors from a man having business before departments. Eight other high officials of Eisenhower Administration were forced out of office under conflict of interest clouds.

STRINGS ARE TIGHT — This paradoxical situation exists in New York gubernatorial contest. Democrats think Harriman, their candidate, has lost ground. Republicans complain privately that Rockefeller, their candidate, is not taking on the way they expected. But the script of a bonanze for political workers in a race between the two richest opponents of all time is not being acted out. Neither candidate has yet loosened the strings to his moneybags.

Brain Supplied By Blood Sugar

Glucose is the fuel that supplies the brain with energy. When the available supply in the blood is depleted (hypoglycemia), a variety of nervous symptoms appear.

A chauffeur came into my office complaining of feeling sick and faint after taking his boss to work in the morning. Concurrently his heart pounded and he trembled and perspired profusely. The clew to the diagnosis came with the information that these attacks usually occurred two or three hours after eating, corresponding to the time when his blood sugar was at a low ebb. In addition, he had noticed improvement shortly after taking a coffee break which included a sweet roll or a doughnut.

The blood sugar level is controlled by the amount of insulin produced by the pancreas. When a piece of candy reaches the stomach and is absorbed by the blood, for example, the pancreas secretes an appropriate quantity of insulin in the blood.

The ingested sugar is changed chemically into a form that can be utilized immediately for energy or stored in the liver or other tissues for future usage. The sugar level in the blood increases after eating but is back to normal by the end of two or three hours.

We do not know why the level plunges lower than normal in some persons. Occasionally it gets so low a convulsion develops. This takes place when the pancreas goes berserk and secretes more insulin than is necessary to handle the sugar on hand. A tumor of the pancreas is present in some instances.

Mary Lou had trouble along this line; she became weak, trembled, and felt faint after a period of fasting or severe exertion. On occasion she became irritable, confused, saw double and was unable to talk. The climax occurred when she was found unconscious after a convulsion and was sent to the hospital where a tumor of the pancreas was discovered and removed.

The best treatment of ordinary hypoglycemia is a diet high in proteins and fats but low in carbohydrates. The latter raises the blood sugar rapidly but is not recommended because it also stimulates the pancreas to manufacture more insulin, which decreases the sugar level too much.

TONSILITIS PRONE

Mrs. K. writes: Are children who are subject to tonsilitis more prone than others to rheumatic fever?

REPLY

Not in the strict sense. It is true that rheumatic fever may be preceded by tonsilitis. But those destined to develop rheumatic fever have an inherent susceptibility to certain streptococci. When members of this select group develop tonsilitis or sore throat caused by these organisms rheumatic fever may follow. These are the children who are likely to be benefitted by tonsillectomy.

SPINAL CYST

C. R. writes: Is pilonidal cyst a birthmark?

REPLY

No, but it is a near relative in that the lesion represents a developmental defect that is present at birth. This little pocket at the base of the spine stems from imperfect closure of the tissues in that area. The lesion may escape detection until the lower spine is jarred, such as occurs when riding in a jeep that hits a rut in the road.

INTESTINAL ABSCESS

D. T. writes: What is a subphrenic abscess?

REPLY

An accumulation of pus under the diaphragm. It stems from an inflammatory process of the stomach or intestine.

SUICIDE TOLL

V. T. writes: About how many people commit suicide in this country in a year?

REPLY

Approximately 17,000.

Tidelands Case Delay

Final arguments scheduled for Oct. 3 in the federal vs. state controversy over oil-rich tidelands was postponed suddenly and unexpectedly by the U. S. supreme court. This move came as attorneys from Louisiana, Alabama, Florida, Mississippi and Texas were meeting in closed session to plot strategy for the 13-hour final arguments.

This means another delay in a case that has been dragging along for years. It means that the southern states, which are badly in need of additional revenue, will be deprived of a large part of this revenue for some time to come. Some concessions have been made by the federal government since it filed action in an attempt to take over the state properties but the main issue is yet to be settled.

At stake in the court contest between the states and the federal government is the boundary line for offshore lands containing billions of dollars in potential oil production off the gulf coast. The federal government contends the states' title extends three miles seaward and the states claim ownership out three marine league, or 10 and one-half miles.

For several centuries there had been no contention that the states did not own the offshore lands whatever distance out into the ocean this country's claims extended. Under international agreement, each country or aggregation of states lays claim to territorial rights a certain distance offshore. Throughout the history of this country it had been conceded that this territory belonged to the states to which it was contiguous. So far as is known, the only reason ever advanced by the federal government for making claim to this property of the states is that it is likely to need the oil for defense or war purposes.

The logical answer to that, of course, is that it should buy the oil, if it needs it, just as it buys all other war materiels.

If the supreme court would use the same zeal in this case as in integration cases, the matter would soon be decided and if it would adhere to the states' rights principles provided in the constitution, the states could go ahead and use the revenue that is justly theirs.

New Soviet Sputnik

Reported creation of a two-headed dog is one of the latest successful steps in a form of weird surgery carried on by the Russians for several years. Because this feat was considered as startling as the launching of the first Russian Sputnik, it was labeled the "Soviet Sputnik of surgery."

The head of a pup was grafted onto the neck of a grown dog, near the dog's own head, after which it was reported that both the dog and the pup's head felt good and that both heads accepted food.

Physicians who witnessed the operation — among them an American doctor from Columbia university — also were shown a dog which was said to possess two hearts and three lungs, one extra heart and one extra lung having been grafted on.

"The ultimate purpose of our experiments," said Physiologist Vladimir Demikhov, who performed the demonstration, "is to transplant organs vital to man to replace those that are hopelessly affected."

These startling experiments are of interest because of their strange possibilities. Whether they can be of much practical value remains to be seen.

For instance, the transplantation of hearts is certain to be of interest to a country such as the United States, in which more than half of the deaths are attributed to heart trouble and its allied ailments. There still remains the question, however, of where hearts would be obtained if the operation could be performed with comparative ease. Unless hearts of animals could be substituted, this weird form of surgery might result in body-robbery.

About three-fourths of the physicians in Russia are said to be women, whose training in medicine may be about the equivalent of that of trained nurses in the United States. These women apparently carry on most of the routine practice and leave experimentation and advanced surgery to the men scientists.

One thing that can be said for Russia is that it goes in for sensationalism and attempts to gain world attention. In scientific activities other than those having to do with war potentialities, the Russian scientists have shown a willingness to demonstrate their methods and accomplishments to the scientists of other nations.

DAWG Is New Society

The initials of a new society form a word that has a catchy sound. There is a good possibility that the society will also "catch on" with a good many adherents. The word is DAWG and these four letters stand for Do Away With Grass.

In Memphis, the silent city, where noise is taboo, a society dedicated to elimination of man's lawn-mowing miseries, the Do Away With Grass society, has been organized.

Now a thoughtful Memphis woman has come up with a happy solution. She favors paving the whole front and back yard so they can be used for driveways.

Right now mankind is due a little surcease from his labors, because the grass season is practically over, but the amount of energy devoted to grass-cutting in the summer time is tremendous.

Rather than pave the whole yard, some folks take a different view. They say tall, brown grass is beautiful, so why cut it? Let it grow and be beautiful.

If you do any good with grass-cutting, you have to cut it every week or two. Is it worthwhile?

Politico-Labor Rebellion In Pa. In Need Of Leader

WASHINGTON, D. C. — In Pennsylvania there is a politico-Labor rebellion in search of a leader, and the mantle seems to be hovering over Rep. Hugh Scott, the Republican candidate for the U. S. Senate.

If it breaks this way, the jolly Congressman - attorney - Navy veteran from cosmopolitan Philadelphia could score one for the Eisenhower Administration. Scott is a modern - before - Eisenhower Republican who was elected to Congress in 1940 when Mr. Roosevelt was winning a third term. Scott has an unbroken, unapologetic and admirable record of voting his convictions in favor of civil rights for all colors and classes.

On August 18, 1958 he got the House floor and became one of the few Republicans to support the Kennedy - Ives bill. He said in effect, that the bill was a poor thing but better than nothing for protecting union members from dictatorial and corrupt bosses. More than any of the Republican Senate candidates from coast to coast, Scott satisfies the specifications of a man - against-Labor - boss candidate. But even against Laborites he does not discriminate. Six years ago and long before he had plans to run Statewide, Scott gave his major Naval Academy appointment to the son of James McDevitt, head of the AFL-CIO Political Education Committee.

Scott's election chances were immensely improved at the recent Steelworkers Convention in Atlantic City. The convention confirmed many accusations of anti-democracy in unions. A whooop-and-holler indictment of "dual unionsim" was brought against three Pennsylvanians who are local union leaders. Donald C. Rarick of McKeesport, a furnace charger at the U. S. Steel plant and president of a 4,000 - member Steelworkers local, ran last year against David McDonald for the Steelworkers presidency. Rarick was protesting not unionism, but merely the 1956 hiking of union dues from $3 a month to $5, partially to pay McDonald's $50,000 a - year salary and other top - level privileges.

Rarick, a complete obscurity in the Labor movement, was expected to get a handful of votes. But he polled 223,000 and lost by less than 2 to 1. With Rarick in this dues - increase uprising were two other Pennsylvanians. One is Nicholas Mamula of Aliquippa, president of the 12,000 - member local at the Jones and Laughlin plant. The other is Frank W. O'Brien of Hazelwood, head of the 6,500 - member Steelworkers unit in the Pittsburgh area. The Steelworkers convention, in playing follow - the - leader for McDonald, voted to bring Rarick, Mamula and O'Brien to trial as "traitors" who are subject to expulsion.

No Ike - backing Republican candidate with Scott's pro-working-man record could ask for more. Pennsylvania in 1952-56 went for the Eisenhower - Nixon ticket, but this bare fact is not nearly so significant as the reasons behind it. In no other industrial State, I think, was the Eisenhower men - above - bosses pretension so well presented and so widely accepted among union members. Head of the GOP Labor Action committee in 1956 was Joe Machulsky, former president of a United Mine Workers union. Another Ike leader was Bert Collins, a United Auto Workers shop steward. In Pittsburgh there was a skyscraper headquarters of Labor-Power - for - Eisenhower whose members wore "Labor likes Ike" buttons into the plants. Allegheny and Lackwanna Counties went Republican in 1956 for the first time since the Coolidge - Hoover era.

Today the same union leaders are making a rank - and - file appeal for Hugh Scott. His Democratic opponent is the two-time Governor, George Leader, who has the Labor bosses and their money bags behind him.

Shortly before the Atlantic City Convention opened, Scott and Leader met in a televised debate. Scott listed among his qualifications to be Senator his Congressional experience, his voting record, and his local services. Leader was unable to match these legislative roles but he pulled what many viewers seem to regard as a red herring tactic of desperation. He accused Scott of charging an excessive legal fee on an immigration case. Then the Governor left the boradcasting station in a huff after refusing to take the Congressman's hand.

Since then, the feeling seems to be that the Governor is in trouble and that the Congressman is making his run to the front.

Two Bells With Much In Common

GEORGE SOKOLSKY'S DAYS

Ike Not Compelled To Take Khrush Vulgarity

One of the great advantages that Soviet Russia enjoys in the cold war is that in the so-called Democracies all mouths are wide open and every man, woman and child, drunkard, moron and imbecile as well as expert and philosopher is entitled to an opinion and the expression thereof. That is guaranteed by the Constitution.

It is thus possible for the Russians and their Chinese and Arabian allies to make use of that ancient device of the backstairs, namely, the rumor machine and the whispering campaign which sooner or later, if accelerated in volume, produces a wave of opinion that can have damaging effects upon the country and its policies.

What the United States is trying to do about Quemoy and Matsu is to establish a principle of international relations that a country cannot shoot its way into the United Nations. Red China is an indecent nation which uses methods to which even Stalinist Russia did not descend and there is no reason whatsoever why anyone needs to associate with such indecencies.

Secondly, the President of the United States has at long last taken the stand that this country is not going to be pushed around by an abusive, foul-speaking, nasty-mouthed moujik, name Khrushchev, and that the President does not need to read communications from this boor. After all, because an Ukrainian barfly happens to become elevated to the tyrant's role in Russia is no reason why the United States needs to suffer his vulgarity.

The handling of such matters by a government is very delicate and difficult and the President needs the support of all citizens of good will. In the looseness of New York's cafe society and the dinner parties of the careless rich there are always permanently wise men and women, who without particular disciplines, intellectual or otherwise, repeat what they hear somewhere and that is how the ball gets to rolling. The whispering device is one of the most awful that an enemy can use, for resistance to it usually is nil.

A wise-looking man who should not say an unmeasured word will say: "We ought to do business with Red China. Everybody does business with Red China except the United States." That is how it starts. Is this Communist propaganda? Who can believe that such a wise and learned man would spread Communist propaganda? Besides, he is a rich man or is so reputed to be and in a world where everything is measured by money, even morals, nobody could possibly accuse such a person as not being responsible. Further more he is known, as everybody else in such circles is, of being very close to those who ought to know of what is going on in the world. In fact, he lets names drop, not like a peep-hole columnist, but with care and restraint.

I pick this one subject of trade with Red China not as a subject of discussion but as an item about which there is a current whispering campaign. Who started it is not quite clear, but it does go the rounds. Sometimes, the sentence is varied to sound like this: "Isn't it true that if we trade with Red China we shall wean them away from Soviet Russia?

Forty years of history mean nothing in such a gossip mill. The nature of the Marxist-Leninist imperialistic development in Asia is ignored. The excuse for ignorance is that it is logical that Soviet Russia and Red China should break. But why is it logical? What has happened since 1920, when the Chinese Communist Party was formed, first at Baku and then in Peking, that makes it logical? Of course, the whisperer does not deal with details—only with broad, general issues. And so it goes round and round and round and comes out nowhere except as a nuisance to those who have real responsibility.

Views Of Our Readers

Editor Morning World

It would seem that we in the South, are now in the 3rd invasion - 1st by the Union Army - 2nd by the Carpet Baggers. Although we were left poverty stricken we have survived the first two, and by hard work have established an economy we can be justly proud of with no help such as Foreign Aid. We pulled ourselves up by our own boot straps, and I still contend that other people and nations can do the same.

And now the 3rd invasion by Federal Judges! At first the Civil Rights only wanted the right for Negroes to vote. Next they want to mix the races in schools, so the trend is set. After the South has gone to an enormous expense to provide equal facilities for the colored race, the Supreme Court comes up with a decision of a book written by a foreign author, based on a foreign ideology, and claims it is the law of the land. I understand that every official is required to take an oath to uphold the Constitution, but I have never heard an official take an oath to uphold a decision of the Supreme Court.

And we come to the conclusion that the Communist Party, through the NAACP, and backed by the Supreme Court decision, has struck at the very heart of the South. The Communists knew in advance this would create confusion - the white race against the colored race and vice versa.

The NAACP claims it has no connection with the Communist Party. There was a statement sometime back that the now Rev. Martin Luther King was a student at a Communist school in Tennessee. I have not heard this denied by anyone, so, after all, the Negro woman who, after stabbing King, accused him of being mixed up with the Communists, might not be a mental case.

And now I would like to submit the voting record of the Supreme Court Justices. Note the source is Senate Debate Remarks of Senate James O. Eastland of Mississippi, Chairman of Senate Committee of Judiciary, pages 12121 - 12122 Congressional Record. Mr. Editor, I think you would do your readers a great service by printing this record.

Sincerely,
J. R. Blalock

HUNTING MOVE LAUDED

Editor, Morning World
West Monroe, La.

Without any thought in my heart or mind of criticizing farmers recently imposed on by thoughtless and trigger happy dove hunters I want to express a word of praise to Olin Mathieson Chemical Corporation.

The invitation of this great Corporation to hunters in a time of tension and confusion to hunt on their timberland was one of the finest spirits I have witnessed in a long time. Especially was this true when they had signs printed on their land "hunting permitted" and had the invitation printed in the papers and carried in all news announcements.

Surely the hunters will use every precaution against letting fires get out or causing any kind of damage, but will try and help this fine Corporation protect their timberland from loss or damage.

This should be true of all lands where hunting is allowed. Hunters should never violate or abuse the privilege of land owners who permit hunting on their land.

Dove hunting is the most objectionable hunting of all hunting to farmers. To be successful in dove hunting four or five hunters have to surround a field and keep the doves circling and it sounds like war has broken out.

Since dove hunting lasts only a few days and cannot be of much value anyway in this area to anyone, it should be very restricted or prohibited altogether. It surely caused all this recent trouble. It will cause more in the future.

Sees Many Bills On Integration

INTEGRATION LAW DOUBTFUL — A score of integration bills will be introduced in the 36th Congress, but the outlook for any legislation is dubious. No one here thinks the sort if law proposed by Governor Collins of Florida to Governor's Conference this week has the slightest chance of enactment in present climate. Any constitutional amendment is also out. Both sides agree that no constitutional amendment on schools which might be drawn would get ratification by half of the nation's states much less necessary three-fourths, which with Alaska in Union now would be 37 instead of 36 heretofore.

SHERM WAITED TOO LONG — Few politicians think the resignation of Sherman Adams will improve Republican chances in the election. Almost unanimous view is that Adams waited too long and allowed the maximum damage to accrue.

THE THIRD PARTY — Thing to keep in mind about the aversion to a third party expressed by Southern Governors is that people not office holders start parties, and that present Governors of Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Tennessee, South Carolina, and Georgia will either be out of office or lameducks at time of next national conventions and new Governors may be harder to please on platform. Big efforts toward party harmony is being made by Democrats North and South who believe that a party division might lead to election of Nixon as President. Harmony movement may or may not succeed.

CARMINE FOR HARMONY — Carmine DeSapio, Tammany Hall leader, may be the single most powerful figure in the 1960 Democratic National Convention, whether his States ticket wins or loses in November. DeSapio does not belong to the Northern liberal groups which believes the Democrats can win even if a third party enters the field in the South. The Tammany leader's influence will be used toward both a ticket and platform on which North and South can unite.

DEFENSE DILEMMA — Defense Department will have to decide in thirty days places where cuts can be made in defense expenditures. Congress leaders were astounded when defense officials let it be known that despite heavy appropriations cancellation or curtailment of production of Titan intercontinental ballastics, the Convair B-58 bomber and the Navy's Seamaster patrol might be necessary because of inflated costs. Congress in January may increase appropriation which would also increase already projected minimum budget deficit of twelve billion, two hundred million.

RED CHINA SEAT — Opponents of admission to Red China into United Nations were gloomy over the 44 to 28 vote by which the world organization refused to consider admission at 1958 session. There were nine abstentions, some of which favor Red China admission. Big blow was that Canada is expected to recognize Mao government in a few months and switch to recognition forces in Assembly.

KENNEDY TO PUT ON STEAM — Look for Senator John F. Kennedy to put on extra effort to pile up big majority in race for United States Senate. In recent primary Kennedy ran several thousand votes behind Democratic Governor Foster Furculo. Should Furculo vote exceed Kennedy's in November election it would be serious injury to Kennedy's Presidential prospects.

PILOT'S PAY — Look for airlines to make a strong effort to set aside 24-year old ruling of National Labor Board providing a floor for salary to commercial pilots. Airlines point out that more than half their pay to labor represents more than half of their expenses. Some pilots now make up to $25,000 per year and union is demanding as much as $45,000 per year for some pilots flying jet aircraft. Union benefits to some airline pilots out on strike amounts to as much as $650 per month.

GOVERNMENT BY INDICTMENT — Republican campaign book claim that "not one Republican official has been indicted or convicted of any misuse of public office" is a curious appraisal of public office standards. Even that may not hold until election for unless Department of Justice drags its feet two former officials of the FCC may be indicted. Sherman Adams the closest man to the President was forced out of office after receiving favors from a man having business before departments. Eight other high officials of Eisenhower Administration were forced out of office under conflict of interest clouds.

STRINGS ARE TIGHT — This paradoxical situation exists in New York gubernatorial contest. Democrats think Harriman, their candidate, has lost ground. Republicans complain privately that Rockefeller, their candidate, is not taking on the way they expected. But the script of a bonanze for political workers in a race between the two richest opponents of all time is not being acted out. Neither candidate has yet loosened the strings to his moneybags.

Brain Supplied By Blood Sugar

Glucose is the fuel that supplies the brain with energy. When the available supply in the blood is depleted (hypoglycemia), a variety of nervous symptoms appear.

A chauffeur came into my office complaining of feeling sick and faint after taking his boss to work in the morning. Concurrently his heart pounded and he trembled and perspired profusely. The clew to the diagnosis came with the information that these attacks usually occurred two or three hours after eating, corresponding to the time when his blood sugar was at a low ebb. In addition, he had noticed improvement shortly after taking a coffee break which included a sweet roll or a doughnut.

The blood sugar level is controlled by the amount of insulin produced by the pancreas. When a piece of candy reaches the stomach and is absorbed by the blood, for example, the pancreas secretes an appropriate quantity of insulin in the blood.

The ingested sugar is changed chemically into a form that can be utilized immediately for energy or stored in the liver or other tissues for future usage. The sugar level in the blood increases after eating but is back to normal by the end of two or three hours.

We do not know why the level plunges lower than normal in some persons. Occasionally it gets so low a convulsion develops. This takes place when the pancreas goes berserk and secretes more insulin than is necessary to handle the sugar on hand. A tumor of the pancreas is present in some instances.

Mary Lou had trouble along this line; she became weak, trembled, and felt faint after a period of fasting or severe exertion. On occasion she became irritable, confused, saw double and was unable to talk. The climax occurred when she was found unconscious after a convulsion and was sent to the hospital where a tumor of the pancreas was discovered and removed.

The best treatment of ordinary hypoglycemia is a diet high in proteins and fats but low in carbohydrates. The latter raises the blood sugar rapidly but is not recommended because it also stimulates the pancreas to manufacture more insulin, which decreases the sugar level too much.

TONSILITIS PRONE

Mrs. K. writes: Are children who are subject to tonsilitis more prone than others to rheumatic fever?

REPLY

Not in the strict sense. It is true that rheumatic fever may be preceded by tonsilitis. But those destined to develop rheumatic fever have an inherent susceptibility to certain streptococci. When members of this select group develop tonsilitis or sore throat caused by these organisms rheumatic fever may follow. These are the children who are likely to be benefitted by tonsillectomy.

SPINAL CYST

C. R. writes: Is pilonidal cyst a birthmark?

REPLY

No, but it is a near relative in that the lesion represents a developmental defect that is present at birth. This little pocket at the base of the spine stems from imperfect closure of the tissues in that area. The lesion may escape detection until the lower spine is jarred, such as occurs when riding in a jeep that hits a rut in the road.

INTESTINAL ABSCESS

D. T. writes: What is a subphrenic abscess?

REPLY

An accumulation of pus under the diaphragm. It stems from an inflammatory process of the stomach or intestine.

SUICIDE TOLL

V. T. writes: About how many people commit suicide in this country in a year?

REPLY

Approximately 17,000.

Government Offensive Halted By Rebel Force

HAVANA (UPI)—A big government offensive against Fidel Castro rebels in Oriente province was repelled by the rebels who killed 231 government soldiers, including 13 officers, and captured 422 prisoners, rebel sources claimed Friday.

The rebels admitted the loss of 25 men, including 7 officers. They said that among the captured government soldiers were some wounded who were returned later to the army through the International Red Cross.

According to rebel sources, the government offensive involved more than 15,000 men and was launched simultaneously at three points, in what appeared to be an enveloping movement.

After six battles, which the rebels said were fought at Santo Domingo, Merino-San Lorenzo, el Jigue, Providencia, Vegas de Jibacoa and Las Mercedes, the offensive collapsed.

The rebels said they captured two tanks, several other army vehicles and large supplies of arms and ammunition.

Increased activity by Castro rebels in Las Villas province of central Cuba was reported meanwhile by both rebel and independent sources.

Negotiations Between GM, Union Stalled

DETROIT (UPI)—Negotiations between the United Auto Workers and General Motors were deadlocked Saturday over a union demand that the company contribute 6.2 cents an hour to a fund to wipe out wage inequities from various GM plants.

Both GM Vice President Louis G. Seaton and UAW President Walter P. Reuther reported "some small progress." But Seaton said the wage differential—the major roadblock in the negotiations—was not discussed.

Seaton placed the 6.2 cents an hour figure on the union demand for the first time, as the negotiators attempted to work out an agreement before a national strike deadline only three days off.

The Seaton indicated the company was not worried about a threat of a strike which would shut down GM plants throughout the nation. Local strikes already were cutting deeply into production.

A total of more than 76,000 auto workers were no strike throughout the nation and another 38,000 were scheduled to be laid off Monday because of the strikes.

Ford, which already has reached agreement with the union, reported 10,250 of its employes still were striking over local issues and these strikes would force it to shut down all of its Ford Division assembly plants "for a few days beginning Monday." Spokesmen said the shutdown would idle another 38,000.

PAR Reports On Hospital Growth In La.

BATON ROUGE (P) — Most of Louisiana's 85 million dollar expansion in hospital facilities since 1946 has been in non-charity projects, the Public Affairs Research Council says.

Growth within the public hospital system has occurred in existing hospitals and the establishment of a new charity hospital at Lake Charles.

PAR, a private research agency, said the state's present program for care of the mentally ill now emphasizes the provision of more adequately trained personnel, research and outpatient care.

Under such extensive work, the State Department of Hospitals believes, more and more patients can ready provided.

In overall growth of hospital facilities since World War II, the number of hospital beds has climbed 63.3 per cent while the population gained 26.8 per cent.

There are 20,863 acceptable hospital beds in 1958, compared with 12,625 in 1946, PAR said.

Much expansion has been financed with help of federal matching funds made available under the Hill-Burton Act.

PAR said some local hospitals in areas not served by charity institutions have bed contracts with the state. An estimated $441,600 was spent in the contract bed program in fiscal 1957-58 ending last June 30.

The first flag of the United States is believed to be one with 13 blue and silver stripes which was carried by the Philadelphia Troop of Light Horse in 1775.

Government Offensive Halted By Rebel Force

HAVANA (UPI)—A big government offensive against Fidel Castro rebels in Oriente province was repelled by the rebels who killed 231 government soldiers, including 13 officers, and captured 422 prisoners, rebel sources claimed Friday.

The rebels admitted the loss of 25 men, including 7 officers. They said that among the captured government soldiers were some wounded who were returned later to the army through the International Red Cross.

According to rebel sources, the government offensive involved more than 15,000 men and was launched simultaneously at three points, in what appeared to be an enveloping movement.

After six battles, which the rebels said were fought at Santo Domingo, Merino-San Lorenzo, el Jigue, Providencia, Vegas de Jibacoa and Las Mercedes, the offensive collapsed.

The rebels said they captured two tanks, several other army vehicles and large supplies of arms and ammunition.

Increased activity by Castro rebels in Las Villas province of central Cuba was reported meanwhile by both rebel and independent sources.

Negotiations Between GM, Union Stalled

DETROIT (UPI)—Negotiations between the United Auto Workers and General Motors were deadlocked Saturday over a union demand that the company contribute 6.2 cents an hour to a fund to wipe out wage inequities from various GM plants.

Both GM Vice President Louis G. Seaton and UAW President Walter P. Reuther reported "some small progress." But Seaton said the wage differential—the major roadblock in the negotiations—was not discussed.

Seaton placed the 6.2 cents an hour figure on the union demand for the first time, as the negotiators attempted to work out an agreement before a national strike deadline only three days off.

The Seaton indicated the company was not worried about a threat of a strike which would shut down GM plants throughout the nation. Local strikes already were cutting deeply into production.

A total of more than 76,000 auto workers were no strike throughout the nation and another 38,000 were scheduled to be laid off Monday because of the strikes.

Ford, which already has reached agreement with the union, reported 10,250 of its employes still were striking over local issues and these strikes would force it to shut down all of its Ford Division assembly plants "for a few days beginning Monday." Spokesmen said the shutdown would idle another 38,000.

PAR Reports On Hospital Growth In La.

BATON ROUGE (P) — Most of Louisiana's 85 million dollar expansion in hospital facilities since 1946 has been in non-charity projects, the Public Affairs Research Council says.

Growth within the public hospital system has occurred in existing hospitals and the establishment of a new charity hospital at Lake Charles.

PAR, a private research agency, said the state's present profram for care of the mentally ill now emphasizes the provision of more adequately trained personnel, research and outpatient care.

Under such extensive work, the State Department of Hospitals believes, more and more patients can ready provided.

In overall growth of hospital facilities since World War II, the number of hospital beds has climbed 63.3 per cent while the population gained 26.8 per cent.

There are 20,863 acceptable hospital beds in 1958, compared with 12,625 in 1946, PAR said.

Much expansion has been financed with help of federal matching funds made available under the Hill-Burton Act.

PAR said some local hospitals in areas not served by charity institutions have bed contracts with the state. An estimated $441,600 was spent in the contract bed program in fiscal 1957-58 ending last June 30.

The first flag of the United States is believed to be one with 13 blue and silver stripes which was carried by the Philadelphia Troop of Light Horse in 1775.

a week and sometimes longer.

"Rehabilitation problems here are different than those at LTI, because our children are restless with anxiety of wanting to know what's going to happen to them, what the judge and authorities are going to do with them," Manuel said.

He explained that cases brought to the home include runaways and juveniles arrested by authorities.

Manuel said the breakdown on races of children submitted to the home from its opening to yesterday included 126 white boys, 43 white girls, 72 Negro boys and 28 Negro girls for a total of 289.

Welfare officials said the home's books have never been audited. A financial statement was made from disbursements with all bills accumulated by the home being submitted to the state department.

Authorities contacted at Baton Rouge said the home here is in its infancy as Louisiana's first.

The Manuels were hired by the state on the approval of a local committee. They in turn hired their staff.

were "somewhat ahead" of the United States in development of ballistic missiles, but the United States is far ahead in long-range manned bombers "and we can stay ahead."

Douglas said he conceded that the Russians:

1. Have fired several ballistic missiles to intercontinental ranges within the past year.

2. Will have "a very small number" of intercontinental - range missiles in an operational unit during the next year, and can have a "substantial number" available in 1960.

3. Already have launched operational missiles with ranges of less than 1,000 miles, and may have "a considerable inventory" of such missiles.

'MY, WHAT A BEARD' — Mrs. Nola Baker eyes the whiskered face of her husband, DeVere, as they are reunited in Honolulu Thursday. # Confession Is Reported

"Bell had carried an axe with him when they left his home. They walked along the dirt road arguing for about 100 yards, Bell states, and then he swung the axe at Wilhite, striking him in the top of the head. Bell says that Wilhite was facing him at the time. He said that he then struck Wilhite on the side of the neck," the deputy continued.

The slaying took place at about 9 a.m., on a cut-off dirt road, which extends ¼ mile off the blacktopped Chatham-Columbia Road. Wilhite lived about ¾ of a mile up the blacktop road.

"Bell was the only person who lived on the dirt road - not more than one car a week goes down that road," Barnes explained.

After the slaying, Bell, continued, he went back to his home, got a shovel, then dug a shallow grave about 35 feet from the road and buried the body.

Bell told officers that he and Wilhite had "been on the outs for several years" and added that they "just couldn't get along."

He was wearing a pair of khaki trousers and an old blue shirt at the time of the slaying. Afterward he put them in a tub filled with soapy water and some other clothes and started washing them.

Bell lived in what officers described a "shack," and did hunting and trapping. He has two sons living in Texas, a daughter in Mississippi, and a brother in Georgetown, but has not contacted any of them yet.

Officers said that the Jackson Parish District Attorney will file charges on the case as the next step. They added that the last slaying in their parish occurred in the latter part of 1956.

Wilhite's body was found early Friday morning, by relatives and Sheriff's Department officers. He was the father of Walter Wilhite, Ouachita Parish Deputy Sheriff.

Funeral services for Mr. Wilhite were held at 2 p.m. yesterday in the Chatham Methodist Church, and interment followed in the Henson Cemetery.

Jonesboro authorities said that there was not any apparent feeling against 5 foot 8 inch, 150 pound Bell in that community. They pointed out that Jonesboro is about 30 miles away from the site of the slaying and that those closely connected with the persons involved did not live in Jonesboro.

Bell is originally from the Hope, Arkansas area and had lived near Chatham for the last 12-14 years.

Bell is being held for grand jury action. Formal murder charges "probably" will be filed against him either this morning or early tomorrow, officials said.

Thefts Reported To Police Here

Fender skirts and a wallet were reported to Monroe police as stolen yesterday. Johnny Douglas, 512 Oak St., told police that freshly-pained white fender skirts were taken from his 1951 Ford early yesterday morning.

Wisner Smith, Nego, 1309 Ouachita Ave. said that he fell asleep in Moorehead's Cafe, 204 North 14 St., and when he awoke at 7 a.m., his wallet containing $40 was gone. He added that someone had apparently cut open his front pocket to get the wallet.

Damage Hits In Millions; 3 Lose Lives

The weather bureau said that wind gusts of more than 140 miles an hour have been reported from several sections between Cape Lookout and Fort Macon.

Winds at Cape Hatteras were clocked at more than 80 miles an hour and the Cape was being lashed by heavy rains and tides.

Hurricane warnings were up from Wilmington to Mantoe, 130 miles to the northeast on the Carolina Outer Banks, and a hurricane watch was ordered to the Virginia Capes. All warnings were down south of Wilmington.

Richard Watts, 40, of Pleasant Plains, N. C., was killed when his car skidded and turned over on a rain - drenched road during Helene's advance gales Friday night.

The low casualty figure was attributed to advance preparations and speedy evacuation operations which kept injuries down to a minimum.

Gov. Luther H. Hodges, who drove into Wilmington even as the winds rose, left later for Morehead City up the coast to direct disaster operations. The governor had sent National Guardsmen to guard against looting.

Rolling up ominously far to the southeast was another big storm, Ilsa, but its winds were reported a maximum 115 miles an hour, compared with 140 earlier in the day. Ilsa was 500 miles northeast of San Juan, Puerto Rico, driving northewst through open sea.

At mid - afternoon Police Capt. L. A. Teague, who was seeking to assess damage in Wilmington, said "everyone is in a state of excitement and we can't get any sense from them." Some citizens, he said, were "almost hysterical."

The Raleigh weather bureau reported that Wilmington received the "full effect and force" of Helene with gusts reaching a deadly 135 miles an hour at 12:45 p.m.

Wilmington Police Chief J. J. Patrick said that Helene made Hurricane Hazel, a 1954 scourge in this area, "look like a baby."

Patrick said the blasting winds shattered store windows downtown and "hot wires" were all over the streets.

"We've had to close off many streets because of floods and hot wires," he said.

As yet, there had been no report of casualties directly connected with the rampaging storm.

Traffic lights swung crazily downtown. A barge sank in the Cape Fear River near the port.

Gov. Luther H. Hodges rushed to the scene to direct emergency operations. He alerted the National Guard to protect against looting. Communications failed to the resort beaches south of the city.

Tides washed over the dunes and flooded the beach villages up to five feet deep. The municipal piers at Southport were swept away and the water plant there collapsed and left the city without electric power or water for a time. The plant crushed a generator.

This correspondent followed Helene's destructive march northward from Myrtle Beach, S.C., to Wilmington, a distance of 60 miles.

Everywhere trees were down, power lines broken and dangling. Debris flew through the air and gaping rooftops showed where it came from. At times, the rain fell so heavily driving was impossible.

Trees along the highway had been stripped until they looked like toothpicks I saw several cars blown into ditches and many rained out. Some parts of the highway were flooded up to the hubcaps.

Road signs were twisted, some bent double and few were standing upright, New River and Challotte, N.C., were flooded.

The storm grew more intense as I reached Wilmington and it blew the car back and forth across the road.

Power went off at Wilmington at the height of the storm. The weather bureau and radio and television stations went on emergency power. Candles and lamps flickered in homes and restaurants.

Mayor J. L. Wheeler of Wilmington said almost all business establishments were closed. Police patrol cars warned persons to stay off the streets.

Wheeler said, "We thought it wasn't going to be too bad at first, but it started getting really bad about 11 a.m. It was a pretty rough storm."

Beaches in the area appeared to have suffered heavy damage. Ocean Isle Beach was reported completely submerged before noon. Ocean Drive Beach lost piers. Holden's Beach could not be reached by roads or highways. Long Beach reportedly suffered extensive damage.

Churches in rural areas were being used as hurricane shelters by farmers and their families.

Raging surf and towering tides ushered Helene into the playground coast south of Wilmington where almost all exposed areas had been evacuated during the night.

Gusts up to 120 miles an hour were clocked by the Frying Pan Schoals lightship off Cape Fear 40 miles south of the port of Wilmington. The main Atlantic Coast highway, U. S. 17, was flooded and one drawbridge was blown open and jammed.

At 1 p.m. the Washington weather bureau placed the storm center 40 miles south - southeast of Wilmington or just off Cape Fear. It was now moving 10 miles an hour to the northeast, a decided shift from its steady northwest beating 24 hours earlier.

The weather bureau warned that although the center might not reach the coast "full hurricane wind and weather conditions will prevail over coastal and inlnnd area between Wilmington and Manteo (about 130 miles northeast of Wilmington) during the next 12 to 18 hours." The center was to pass near Cape Hatteras around midnight.

Gordon Dunn, chief forecaster at Miami said the eye or calm center of the storm might stay offshore or that if it did move inland it would cross only the Hatteras area because the North Carolina coast falls back from that point.

Whatever its course, the teeming Norfolk shipping area and Chesapeake Bay some 100 miles north of Hatteras appeared in for a stiff blow.

Helene was following a familiar pattern of recent Atlantic storms which drive up close to the Carolinas and then take a northerly swing to rake the eastern seaboard.

The weather bureau urgently extended hurricane warnings 40 miles northward from Hatteras to Manteo, on the North Carolina Outer Banks near historic Kitty Hawk.

"Unusually high storm tides, high waves and heavy seas will flood the coastal lands from Myrtle Beach, S. C., to Hatteras, N.C. to heights of 7 to 10 feet above normal and probably higher some places," it said. "It is imperative that island beaches and coastal lowlands be evacuated."

Water poured into the popular beach resort towns of Carolina beach, Wrightsville Beach and Kure Beach, south of Wilmington.

a disadvantage because they had to realize that the disruption of the public school system, as we have known it, was necessary to maintain segregation in the schools."

He assured them his plan to operate the schools on a private and segregated basis is wholly legal—that they do not have to comply with the U.S. Supreme Court ruling, ordering integration, in order to get the schools open again.

Here, too, Faubus evidently succeeded.

Clarence Laws, regional field secretary of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People said:

"I seriously doubt that the election had any legality.

"I certainly know of no precedent where a community decided to determine by election whether or not it would comply with a clear mandate from the Supreme Court."

The election went off without trouble between Negroes and Whites. They stood in line together at some polling places, but police reported no incidents.

After the slaying, Bell, continued, he went back to his home, got a shovel, then dug a shallow grave about 35 feet from the road and buried the body.

Bell told officers that he and Wilhite had "been on the outs for several years" and added that they "just couldn't get along."

He was wearing a pair of khaki trousers and an old blue shirt at the time of the slaying. Afterward he put them in a tub filled with soapy water and some other clothes and started washing them.

Bell lived in what officers described a "shack," and did hunting and trapping. He has two sons living in Texas, a daughter in Mississippi, and a brother in Georgetown, but has not contacted any of them yet.

Officers said that the Jackson Parish District Attorney will file charges on the case as the next step. They added that the last slaying in their parish occurred in the latter part of 1956.

Wilhite's body was found early Friday morning, by relatives and Sheriff's Department officers. He was the father of Walter Wilhite, Ouachita Parish Deputy Sheriff.

Funeral services for Mr. Wilhite were held at 2 p.m. yesterday in the Chatham Methodist Church, and interment followed in the Henson Cemetery.

Jonesboro authorities said that there was not any apparent feeling against 5 foot 8 inch, 150 pound Bell in that community. They pointed out that Jonesboro is about 30 miles away from the site of the slaying and that those closely connected with the persons involved did not live in Jonesboro.

Bell is originally from the Hope, Arkansas area and had lived near Chatham for the last 12-14 years.

Bell is being held for grand jury action. Formal murder charges "probably" will be filed against him either this morning or early tomorrow, officials said.

Thefts Reported To Police Here

Fender skirts and a wallet were reported to Monroe police as stolen yesterday. Johnny Douglas, 512 Oak St., told police that freshly-pained white fender skirts were taken from his 1951 Ford early yesterday morning.

Wisner Smith, Nego, 1309 Ouachita Ave. said that he fell asleep in Moorehead's Cafe, 204 North 14 St., and when he awoke at 7 a.m., his wallet containing $40 was gone. He added that someone had apparently cut open his front pocket to get the wallet.

The weather bureau said that wind gusts of more than 140 miles an hour have been reported from several sections between Cape Lookout and Fort Macon.

Winds at Cape Hatteras were clocked at more than 80 miles an hour and the Cape was being lashed by heavy rains and tides.

Hurricane warnings were up from Wilmington to Mantoe, 130 miles to the northeast on the Carolina Outer Banks, and a hurricane watch was ordered to the Virginia Capes. All warnings were down south of Wilmington.

Richard Watts, 40, of Pleasant Plains, N. C., was killed when his car skidded and turned over on a rain - drenched road during Helene's advance gales Friday night.

The low casualty figure was attributed to advance preparations and speedy evacuation operations which kept injuries down to a minimum.

Gov. Luther H. Hodges, who drove into Wilmington even as the winds rose, left later for Morehead City up the coast to direct disaster operations. The governor had sent National Guardsmen to guard against looting.

Rolling up ominously far to the southeast was another big storm, Ilsa, but its winds were reported a maximum 115 miles an hour, compared with 140 earlier in the day. Ilsa was 500 miles northeast of San Juan, Puerto Rico, driving northewst through open sea.

At mid - afternoon Police Capt. L. A. Teague, who was seeking to assess damage in Wilmington, said "everyone is in a state of excitement and we can't get any sense from them." Some citizens, he said, were "almost hysterical."

The Raleigh weather bureau reported that Wilmington received the "full effect and force" of Helene with gusts reaching a deadly 135 miles an hour at 12:45 p.m.

Wilmington Police Chief J. J. Patrick said that Helene made Hurricane Hazel, a 1954 scourge in this area, "look like a baby."

Patrick said the blasting winds shattered store windows downtown and "hot wires" were all over the streets.

"We've had to close off many streets because of floods and hot wires," he said.

As yet, there had been no report of casualties directly connected with the rampaging storm.

Traffic lights swung crazily downtown. A barge sank ir the Cape Fear River near the port.

Gov. Luther H. Hodges rushed to the scene to direct emergency operations. He alerted the National Guard to protect against looting. Communications failed to the resort beaches south of the city.

Tides washed over the dunes and flooded the beach villages up to five feet deep. The municipal piers at Southport were swept away and the water plant there collapsed and left the city without electric power or water for a time. The plant crushed a generator.

Everywhere trees were down, power lines broken and dangling. Debris flew through the air and gaping rooftops showed where it came from. At times, the rain fell so heavily driving was impossible.

Trees along the highway had been stripped until they looked like toothpicks I saw several cars blown into ditches and many rained out. Some parts of the highway were flooded up to the hubcaps.

Road signs were twisted, some bent double and few were standing upright, New River and Challotte, N.C., were flooded.

The storm grew more intense as I reached Wilmington and it blew the car back and forth across the road.

Power went off at Wilmington at the height of the storm. The weather bureau and radio and television stations went on emergency power. Candles and lamps flickered in homes and restaurants.

Mayor J. L. Wheeler of Wilmington said almost all business establishments were closed. Police patrol cars warned persons to stay off the streets.

Wheeler said, "We thought it wasn't going to be too bad at first, but it started getting really bad about 11 a.m. It was a pretty rough storm."

Beaches in the area appeared to have suffered heavy damage. Ocean Isle Beach was reported completely submerged before noon. Ocean Drive Beach lost piers. Holden's Beach could not be reached by roads or highways. Long Beach reportedly suffered extensive damage.

Churches in rural areas were being used as hurricane shelters by farmers and their families.

Raging surf and towering tides ushered Helene into the playground coast south of Wilmington where almost all exposed areas had been evacuated during the night.

Gusts up to 120 miles an hour were clocked by the Frying Pan Schoals lightship off Cape Fear 40 miles south of the port of Wilmington. The main Atlantic Coast highway, U. S. 17, was flooded and one drawbridge was blown open and jammed.

At 1 p.m. the Washington weather bureau placed the storm center 40 miles south - southeast of Wilmington or just off Cape Fear. It was now moving 10 miles an hour to the northeast, a decided shift from its steady northwest beating 24 hours earlier.

The weather bureau warned that although the center might not reach the coast "full hurricane wind and weather conditions will prevail over coastal and inlnnd area between Wilmington and Manteo (about 130 miles northeast of Wilmington) during the next 12 to 18 hours." The center was to pass near Cape Hatteras around midnight.

Gordon Dunn, chief forecaster at Miami said the eye or calm center of the storm might stay offshore or that if it did move inland it would cross only the Hatteras area because the North Carolina coast falls back from that point.

Whatever its course, the teeming Norfolk shipping area and Chesapeake Bay some 100 miles north of Hatteras appeared in for a stiff blow.

Helene was following a familiar pattern of recent Atlantic storms which drive up close to the Carolinas and then take a northerly swing to rake the eastern seaboard.

The weather bureau urgently extended hurricane warnings 40 miles northward from Hatteras to Manteo, on the North Carolina Outer Banks near historic Kitty Hawk.

"Unusually high storm tides, high waves and heavy seas will flood the coastal lands from Myrtle Beach, S. C., to Hatteras, N.C. to heights of 7 to 10 feet above normal and probably higher some places," it said. "It is imperative that island beaches and coastal lowlands be evacuated."

a disadvantage because they had to realize that the disruption of the public school system, as we have known it, was necessary to maintain segregation in the schools."

He assured them his plan to operate the schools on a private and segregated basis is wholly legal—that they do not have to comply with the U.S. Supreme Court ruling, ordering integration, in order to get the schools open again.

Here, too, Faubus evidently suceeded.

Clarence Laws, regional field secretary of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People said:

"I seriously doubt that the election had any legality.

"I certainly know of no precedent where a community decided to determine by election whether or not it would comply with a clear mandate from the Supreme Court."

The election went off without trouble between Negroes and Whites. They stood in line together at some polling places, but police reported no incidents.

Officials Agree On Withdrawal

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI)—U.S. officials reached "complete agreement" with the new government of Lebanon Saturday on general withdrawal of American troops.

Details were not disclosed but there was no indication, of a change in the Oct. 17 target date, cited by a usually reliable military source two days ago.

U. S. Ambassador Robert McClintock and Adm. James L. Holloway discussed the situation with Premier Rashid Karami. It was the first firmal meeting they had with him and both sides indicated it was most cordial.

U. S. Marines landed in Lebanon July 15 at the request of former President Camille Chamoun who was threatened with a full-scale rebellion.

The size of U. S. forces built up to 14,200 Aug. 11. Since then, three Marine battalions and 400 soldiers have withdrawn, leaving about 9,000 still here. The new government of President Fuad Chehab and Premier Karami took over Tuesday.

Many Books Available At College Here

Meeting the needs of Northeast State's steadily increasing enrollment since the institution was expanded from a junior college to senior status has called for a constant addition of books to the library collection.

Available to students today are 42,817 volumes, Mrs. Maud Bentrup announced. This number illustrates the growth of the library, she explained, when the current collection is contrasted with the 12,000 books which were housed in 1950 at the time the institution became a senior college.

Besides the addition of volumes, the library has undergone several changes to accommodate the growing student body, faculty and staff. New facilities have been added to provide for the increase in books and their organization and to make the library more comfortable.

Last spring an electric book lift was installed with the addition of a third book stack or level. The lighting system for that floor was completed between the summer and fall semesters.

BROWSING

Growth of the library has necessitated an increase in the staff of professional assistants and students who are employed under work scholarships.

John Reggs, Ferriday; Reatagoe Kinnaird, Jones; Molly Gwin, Kelly; Millie Wendorf, Pineville; Joyce Mae Halley, Gloria McCullough, Charles McGaha, Gerald McGaha and Montez Head all of Pioneer; Beth McKay, Pollock; Garland Pepper, Sikes; Mary Barton, Joanne Ellerman, Sue Ann Payne, all of Winnsboro.

The Rev. E. C. McKenzie will officiate with interment in Memorial Park Cemetery by Hixson Brothers. The body will lie in state at the funeral home chapel until time for services.

Dr. Marine died Friday following a heart attack at his optometry office.

A native of Coldwater, Ky., he moved to Beebe, Ark., in 1908 and later came to Monroe.

He is survivied by his widow, Mrs. Clara Ballinger Marine; two sons, A. B., Monroe, and N. G., Los Angeles, Calif.; three brothers Joe, Bastrop; Ira, Austin, Tex., and Perry, Monroe; a sister, Mrs. W. J. St. John, Collinston, and two grandchildren.

CHILD KILLED

MERIDIAN, Miss. (AP) — A parked car rolled backward Saturday and killed 6-year-old Rickey Dean Burkhalter as he played in his driveway.

Officers said the car belonged to his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Chisolm, of near Collinsville, who was visiting his mother, Mrs. Edwina Burkhalter.

Dulles Warns On Surrender Of East Islands

BOSTON, Mass. (UPI)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles told NATO allies Saturday that surrender to Red China's arrogant demand for the Quemoy and Matsu islands would have serious consequences for Western Europe.

He said the islands just off the Red Chinese mainland are the geographic point where the Communists "judge surrender is most likely."

"But nonetheless the principles at stake there are the principles upon which NATO rests," he said. "If they are not valid and not sustained in Asia, it cannot be confidently assumed that they are valid and will be sustained in Europe."

"The strength of NATO and the immunity of the NATO area from aggression depend very largely upon what the Soviet leaders consider to be the will of the United States," he said. "Is the United States, in fact, willing to defend territory other than its own in support of collective security?"

Dulles discussed the Far East crisis in an address prepared for the Atlantic Treaty Assn., an organization of private groups supporting the North Atlantic Treaty.

His theme was that the Far East crisis could not be divorced from the rest of the world. He noted that both Red China and Russia were trying to undermine the principle of collective security by forcing the United States to abandon Nationalist China and get out of the Formosa area.

"If the United States should give in to that arrogant demand in Asia, the consequences would be felt in Western Europe," Dulles said.

NATO has built up such impressive military power "as to command the respect of any potential aggressor."

Confident On Formosa Issue

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Nixon said Saturday he is confident the American people will support the administration's policy in the Formosa crisis as they come to realize what is at stake.

Nixon said this in a statement amid strong indications that President Eisenhower thus far is losing his battle for greater support of his Formosa policy at home and abroad.

Among these signs were reports that mail reaching the State Department since the crisis developed has been heavily critical of American policy in the area.

Nixon said he was shocked by these reports, and added: "What concerns me primarily is not the patient and deliberate effort of a State Department subordinate to undercut the secretary of state and saboage his policy.

"What is of far greater concern is the apparent assumption on the part of those who put the story that the weight of the mail rather than the weight of the evidence should be the controlling factor in determining American foreign policy."

The vice president did not name those in the department he was criticizing.

"What is at stake in the Formosa Strait," he said, "is not Quemoy and Matsu and not just Formosa but the whole free world position in the Far East."

The State Department has received about 5,000 letters from the American public since Aug. 23, when Red China started shelling and threatening to invade Nationalist-held offshore islands in the Formosa Strait.

Officials said the overwhelming majority of these letters pleaded in effect: Keep us out of war. One report was that 80 per cent were critical, but officials rejected this as too high. They refused, however, to give a precise breakdown.

Eisenhower handed Secretary of State Dulles the main responsibility for arousing what the administration calls "more understanding" of its Formosa policy. Despite considerable effort by Dulles there are no signs of any major breakthrough.

Formal Opinion On Little Rock Case Scheduled

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court will meet at noon (EDT) on Monday to hand down its formal opinion in the case in which it denied Little Rock any further delay in integrating its schools.

Announcing this Saturday night, the court clerk's office added only:

"The session will be part of the August special term, and the court will meet to dispose of the case for which that term was called."

The court ruled on Sept. 12 that racial integration must proceed immediately at Little Rock's Central High School. The high schools since have been closed there on the order of Gov. Orval Faubus.

At its meeting on Sept. 12, the high court announced only that it was turning down the Little Rock School Board's appeal for more time to prepare for integration.

Chief Justice Warren said then: "The expression of the views supporting our judgment will be prepared and announced in due course."

Monday's session will serve that purpose.

Latest Vanguard Rocket Failure

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Defense Department announced Saturday after 24 hopeful hours, that the latest Vanguard rocket failed to achieve either the speed or altitude necessary to place a satellite in orbit.

There was no immediate statement of the cause of the failure. The 72-foot rocket, seventh in the Vanguard series, was blasted from its launching pad at Cape Canaveral, Fla., at 10:38 a.m. Friday and apparently sent its 21½ pound payload sphere whirling erratically once or more around the earth.

But the department said the satellite vehicle "failed to achieve an altitude or velocity adequate to place it in its projected orbit."

The statement added: "After one or at most a limited number of passes around the earth at very low altitudes, the vehicle reentered the earth's atmosphere and was consumed by friction."

The Navy refused to indicate the altitude reached, but experts said the sphere would have had to be 60 to 100 miles high to pass even once or twice around the earth.

The rocket, which was to have established the first "weather satellite", thus apparently established a record for a "near miss" in man's attempts to create artifical moons.

Previous satellites that have failed have either blown up, on the ground or in the air, or have plummeted immediately back into the atmosphere.

The Navy got definite radio signals in South Africa from this would - be satellite and believes the careening sphere was later picked up by radio stations in Ft. Belvoir, Va., and Havana, Cuba, after its first pass around the earth.

The Navy in a later statement said that a "Moonwatch" station using a telescope, also in South Africa, sighted what was believed to be the Vanguard II satellite streaking through the heavens Friday night.

However, subsequent efforts by the 11 electronic tracking stations around the world failed to establish contact with the sphere, and the Navy drew this conclusion:

"During the rocket launching, measurements of the trajectory were made by radar and minitrack stations.

"Computations based on these measurements are now complete and show that the dimensions of the orbit were such that the friction of the earth's atmosphere would rapidly bring the satellite back to earth...No stable orbit beyond one or two revolutions was achieved."

Tracking stations throughout the night sent repeated "command signals" to areas where the satellite should have been, but there was no response.

United Givers Worker Force Gains Ground

The organization being formed to campaign for the Ouachita Parish United Givers Fund continued to grow today as four new division leaders were announced by R. L. Vanderpool Jr., who will act as chairman of this year's campaign.

Dr. A. J. Emerson will solicit the dentists in the area along with Dr. W. E. Smith Jr., co-chairman.

Fletcher W. Ashcraft, president of the Arkansas and Louisiana, Missouri Railroad, will serve as chairman of the transportation division. This will include buses, trucking companies, transfer lines and railroads.

James L. Brooks will solicit area funeral homes and cemetery employees. Brooks is a member of the Monroe Kiwanis club and an active civic worker.

Warren L. Harker, member of the West Monroe Lions club, will head the division covering the area florists. Harker is a member of the Louisiana Florists Association.

Clifford Strauss, United Givers president, commended Vanderpool for the "exceptional job of organization" he had done. Strauss pointed out a campaign of this size could be completed on schedule "only if the leaders and workers are men with energy and carry a strong sense of civic pride." "Having worked with many of these division leaders on more than one occasion," Strauss said. "I can assure campaign director Vanderpool he has such persons assisting him in this effort."

Latest Vanguard Rocket Failure

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Defense Department announced Saturday after 24 hopeful hours, that the latest Vanguard rocket failed to achieve either the speed or altitude necessary to place a satellite in orbit.

There was no immediate statement of the cause of the failure. The 72-foot rocket, seventh in the Vanguard series, was blasted from its launching pad at Cape Canaveral, Fla., at 10:38 a.m. Friday and apparently sent its 21½ pound payload sphere whirling erratically once or more around the earth.

But the department said the satellite vehicle "failed to achieve an altitude or velocity adequate to place it in its projected orbit."

The statement added: "After one or at most a limited number of passes around the earth at very low altitudes, the vehicle reentered the earth's atmosphere and was consumed by friction."

The Navy refused to indicate the altitude reached, but experts said the sphere would have had to be 60 to 100 miles high to pass even once or twice around the earth.

The rocket, which was to have established the first "weather satellite", thus apparently established a record for a "near miss" in man's attempts to create artifical moons.

Previous satellites that have failed have either blown up, on the ground or in the air, or have plummeted immediately back into the atmosphere.

The Navy got definite radio signals in South Africa from this would - be satellite and believes the careening sphere was later picked up by radio stations in Ft. Belvoir, Va., and Havana, Cuba, after its first pass around the earth.

The Navy in a later statement said that a "Moonwatch" station using a telescope, also in South Africa, sighted what was believed to be the Vanguard II satellite streaking through the heavens Friday night.

However, subsequent efforts by the 11 electronic tracking stations around the world failed to establish contact with the sphere, and the Navy drew this conclusion:

"During the rocket launching, measurements of the trajectory were made by radar and minitrack stations.

"Computations based on these measurements are now complete and show that the dimensions of the orbit were such that the friction of the earth's atmosphere would rapidly bring the satellite back to earth...No stable orbit beyond one or two revolutions was achieved."

Tracking stations throughout the night sent repeated "command signals" to areas where the satellite should have been, but there was no response.

Publishing Project Set By Catholics

By TOM HENSHAW
AP Religion Writer

The Roman Catholic Church has embarked on what it believes is the biggest, longest and most ambitious religious publishing project ever undertaken in the United States.

The church, through the secular publishing house of Hawthorn Books, Inc., is getting out a 150-volume "Twentieth Century Encyclopedia of Catholicism" aimed at general, rather than reference, readership.

The slim volumes will be coming out at the rate of two a month for the next six years, the last in 1964. The first two, entitled "What Is the Bible?" and "What Is Faith?" were published this month. They cost $2.95 each.

The series was conceived by French scholar Henri Daniel-Rops, one of the select 40 members of the Academie Francaise and author of more than 70 books, many on religious subjects. He's written 20 novels.

It was—and is—his aim to publish in one project everything the modern day Catholic would want to know about his religion. But interest is not confined to Catholics. Several Protestant institutions have ordered sets.

Daniel-Rops, editor in chief of the project, wrote the first volume in order of publication, "What Is the Bible?", a historical account of the development of the Bible with a critical explanation of the Old and New Testaments.

Fifty volumes of the encyclopedia already have been published in France and 16 have been brought out in West Germany. Publication also is planned in Italian, Spanish and Japanese language editions.

Hawthorn at first envisioned publishing 5,000 copies of each volume but already there are standing orders for 6,500 copies from bookstores, libraries and other institutions.

The project is not exactly an encyclopedia in the strict sense of the word. It's not designed to replace the 50-year-old Catholic Encyclopedia on reference shelves. It's not arranged alphabetically by articles.

The designation "encyclopedia" was chosen because it is planned to have the series of volumes cover every aspect of its subject.

Titles are divided into 15 classes such as: church history, church organization, basic truths, the nature of man and the relationship or the church to literature art and the modern world.

There are even volumes dedicated to non-Catholic subjects like heresy, Protestantism, the Episcopal Church, Islam, Hinduism, superstition, primitive religions, mystery cults and rationalism.

Each volume is complete in itself. Each is written by a Catholic scholar of note. Most of them are European with their works translated into English. It is planned to have some American scholars in the series.

Church School Issue Faces Calif. Voters

By JOHN MORGANTHALER

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — California will try again to settle a hot religious question at the polls this November. It'll be the second attempt in six years.

The question: Should parochial schools be exempt from property taxes?

In 1952 the voters said "Yes"—by a margin of less than 1 per cent.

This year the question is the same, but the setting is different. Nearly a million more voters have been added.

As in 1952, practically every politician—including the two candidates for governor—is on record for tax exemption. Any other position would alienate the Roman Catholic vote.

Opponents of tax exemption forced it to popular decision in 1952 after the Legislature approved the exemption 108-3. After the people narrowly approved it, opponents carried the fight to the U.S. Supreme Court but lost there also. Now they're trying again.

Opponents deny they are anti-Catholic. They say they oppose state subsidy of any sect.

California has 1,076 elementary and high schools which would be affected. Of the total 643 are Catholic, 390 are Protestant, 4 are Jewish, and 39 are nonsectarian.

The Catholic schools have an enrollment of more than 270,000, more than 80 per cent of the private school total, and about 8 per cent of the state's total school enrollment.

Although California was opened to white settlement by Catholic missionaries in the 18th Century, it is now more strongly Protestant—statistically—than the nation as a whole.

There are 2,977,037 Catholics in the state, or about one out of every five persons. The national rate is more than one out of four.

How much in taxes is involved? State Controller Robert C. Kirkwood said it would have been less than 1¼ million dollars in 1956-57. And he said it would have cost the state 110 million dollars to educate the parochial pupils.

But opponents say the assessed value of private school property has grown from 14 million to 53 million dollars since 1953. They argue taxes should be paid on these properties just as on all other privately owned property.

MY ANSWER
by Billy Graham

QUESTION: My husband is a drunkard and I try to live a Christian life, have prayed earnestly, but he persists in his drinking. What can I do to help him overcome this habit? M. A. D.

ANSWER: If a man who overdrinks could see himself as others see him, it might work wonders. I heard of one wife in your condicament who, when her husband was in a drunken stupor, hired a photographer to take his picture, disheveled hair and all. When the husband awoke he found two photographs beside him. One taken on his wedding day before booze had taken its toll, and the other a drunken sot. When he saw himself as others saw him, he decided to become a Christian and mend his ways, which he did.

"Oh that some power the
gift would give us,
To see ourselves as others
see us."

But this experiment may not work on every drunken man. You indeed have a heavy cross to bear, but I would suggest that you be faithful as a Christian mother. I know many erring husbands who have been won to Christ by devout, consecrated wives. In God's time, in some way, I'm sure your prayers will be answered. May God bless you and your children.

Christianity On Increase In Indonesia

By DAVID LANCASHIRE

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — Christianity, brought to this Moslem land by the colonial Dutch and Portuguese, has not only survived the demise of Western rule, it is on the increase.

The Indonesian Ministry of Religious Affairs reports there were less than 4½ million Christians in islands when independence was schieved in 1950. Now there are about six million.

Leaders of the 3½ million Protestants and 2½ million Roman Catholics in the land of 75 million Moslems advance several reasons for the increase.

When the Dutch left Indonesia to go its independent way, the Christian churches began putting emphasis on the training and development of native Indonesian church leaders and clergymen.

"They immediately brought the church closer to the people," says the Rev. Simon Marantika of the National Council of Churches.

When the newly independent government first took steps to spread education among the 3,000 islands, it found the best schools in the country were run by Christian missions. Many students adopted Christianity with their education.

"Also," adds the Rev. Mr. Marantika, "there had been a great deal of unrest in the country and some have come to Christianity as a sort of a sanctuary."

Much of the unrest has been caused by the Darul Islams, a sect of Moslems who have waged bloody warfare for eight years to press their demand for a theocratic Moslem state.

"They are not working against Christianity in particular," says the Rev. W. B. Johnson of the American Southern Baptist Mission, a North Carolinian who came to Indonesia after 39 years in China. "They are against everyone."

Since Darul Islam activity began, the community of 70,000 Christians in central Celebes has swelled to 150,000 as villagers adopted Christianity in opposition to terrorists.

Its leaders feel Christianity will continue to grow as the country develops.

Publishing Project Set By Catholics

By TOM HENSHAW
AP Religion Writer

The Roman Catholic Church has embarked on what it believes is the biggest, longest and most ambitious religious publishing project ever undertaken in the United States.

The church, through the secular publishing house of Hawthorn Books, Inc., is getting out a 150-volume "Twentieth Century Encyclopedia of Catholicism" aimed at general, rather than reference, readership.

The slim volumes will be coming out at the rate of two a month for the next six years, the last in 1964. The first two, entitled "What Is the Bible?" and "What Is Faith?" were published this month. They cost $2.95 each.

The series was conceived by French scholar Henri Daniel-Rops, one of the select 40 members of the Academie Francaise and author of more than 70 books, many on religious subjects. He's written 20 novels.

It was—and is—his aim to publish in one project everything the modern day Catholic would want to know about his religion. But interest is not confined to Catholics. Several Protestant institutions have ordered sets.

Daniel-Rops, editor in chief of the project, wrote the first volume in order of publication, "What Is the Bible?", a historical account of the development of the Bible with a critical explanation of the Old and New Testaments.

Fifty volumes of the encyclopedia already have been published in France and 16 have been brought out in West Germany. Publication also is planned in Italian, Spanish and Japanese language editions.

Hawthorn at first envisioned publishing 5,000 copies of each volume but already there are standing orders for 6,500 copies from bookstores, libraries and other institutions.

The project is not exactly an encyclopedia in the strict sense of the word. It's not designed to replace the 50-year-old Catholic Encyclopedia on reference shelves. It's not arranged alphabetically by articles.

The designation "encyclopedia" was chosen because it is planned to have the series of volumes cover every aspect of its subject.

Titles are divided into 15 classes such as: church history, church organization, basic truths, the nature of man and the relationship or the church to literature art and the modern world.

There are even volumes dedicated to non-Catholic subjects like heresy, Protestantism, the Episcopal Church, Islam, Hinduism, superstition, primitive religions, mystery cults and rationalism.

Each volume is complete in itself. Each is written by a Catholic scholar of note. Most of them are European with their works translated into English. It is planned to have some American scholars in the series.

Church School Issue Faces Calif. Voters

By JOHN MORGANTHALER

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — California will try again to settle a hot religious question at the polls this November. It'll be the second attempt in six years.

The question: Should parochial schools be exempt from property taxes?

In 1952 the voters said "Yes"—by a margin of less than 1 per cent.

This year the question is the same, but the setting is different. Nearly a million more voters have been added.

As in 1952, practically every politician—including the two candidates for governor—is on record for tax exemption. Any other position would alienate the Roman Catholic vote.

Opponents of tax exemption forced it to popular decision in 1952 after the Legislature approved the exemption 108-3. After the people narrowly approved it, opponents carried the fight to the U.S. Supreme Court but lost there also. Now they're trying again.

Opponents deny they are anti-Catholic. They say they oppose state subsidy of any sect.

California has 1,076 elementary and high schools which would be affected. Of the total 643 are Catholic, 390 are Protestant, 4 are Jewish, and 39 are nonsectarian.

The Catholic schools have an enrollment of more than 270,000, more than 80 per cent of the private school total, and about 8 per cent of the state's total school enrollment.

Although California was opened to white settlement by Catholic missionaries in the 18th Century, it is now more strongly Protestant—statistically—than the nation as a whole.

There are 2,977,037 Catholics in the state, or about one out of every five persons. The national rate is more than one out of four.

How much in taxes is involved? State Controller Robert C. Kirkwood said it would have been less than 1¼ million dollars in 1956-57. And he said it would have cost the state 110 million dollars to educate the parochial pupils.

But opponents say the assessed value of private school property has grown from 14 million to 53 million dollars since 1953. They argue taxes should be paid on these properties just as on all other privately owned property.

MY ANSWER by Billy Graham

QUESTION: My husband is a drunkard and I try to live a Christian life, have prayed earnestly, but he persists in his drinking. What can I do to help him overcome this habit? M. A. D.

ANSWER: If a man who overdrinks could see himself as others see him, it might work wonders. I heard of one wife in your predicament who, when her husband was in a drunken stupor, hired a photographer to take his picture, disheveled hair and all. When the husband awoke he found two photographs beside him One taken on his wedding day before booze had taken its toll, and the other a brunken sot. When he saw himself as others saw him, he decided to become a Christian and mend his ways, which he did.

"Oh that some power the
gift would give us,
To see ourselves as others
see us."

But this experiment may not work on every drunken man. You indeed have a heavy cross to bear, but I would suggest that you be faithful as a Christian mother. I know many erring husbands who have been won to Christ by devout, consecrated wives. In God's time, in some way, I'm sure your prayers will be answered. May God bless you and your children.

Christianity On Increase In Indonesia

By DAVID LANCASHIRE

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP — Christianity, brought to this Moslem land by the colonial Dutch and Portuguese, has not only survived the demise of Western rule, it is on the increase.

The Indonesian Ministry of Religious Affairs reports there were less than 4½ million Christians in islands when independence was schieved in 1950. Now there are about six million.

Leaders of the 3½ million Protestants and 2½ million Roman Catholics in the land of 75 million Moslems advance several reasons for the increase.

When the Dutch left Indonesia to go its independent way, the Christian churches began putting emphasis on the training and development of native Indonesian church leaders and clergymen.

"They immediately brought the church closer to the people," says the Rev. Simon Marantika of the National Council of Churches.

When the newly independent government first took steps to spread education among the 3,000 islands, it found the best schools in the country were run by Christian missions. Many students adopted Christianity with their education.

"Also," adds the Rev. Mr. Marantika, "there had been a great deal of unrest in the country and some have come to Christianity as a sort of a sanctuary."

Much of the unrest has been caused by the Darul Islams, a sect of Moslems who have waged bloody warfare for eight years to press their demand for a theocratic Moslem state.

"They are not working against Christianity in particular," says the Rev. W. B. Johnson of the American Southern Baptist Mission, a North Carolinian who came to Indonesia after 39 years in China. "They are against everyone."

Since Darul Islam activity began, the community of 70,000 Christians in central Celebes has swelled to 150,000 as villagers adopted Christianity in opposition to terrorists.

Its leaders feel Christianity will continue to grow as the country develops.

Many Features Are Scheduled At Valley Fair

The Ouachita Valley Fair will feature exhibits from throughout the northeast Louisiana area when it opens October 6, according to John Birdsong, manager.

Birdsong pointed out the midway would feature 12 adult rides and five or six special rides for children.

"In addition, there will be one free show on the midway," the fair manager pointed out. Birdsong described this as a skating act on a five-foot square platform suspended at a height of 60 feet over the fairgrounds.

"Bob Top and Lauren, roller-skating acrobats, will perform their tricks on the tiny platform," Birdsong said. He added the act had been a feature at Madison Square Garden and Ponchartrain Beach.

Birdsong said he expected more entries in the livestock show this year than any time in the past. The 4-H judging will take place on Tuesday, October 7.

As in the past, the last day of the fair will feature "Kids' Day," the manager noted. This occasion is slated for Saturday, October 11.

Complaint Of Spirit Told

MOSCOW (AP)—A Soviet geologist registered a complaint of the spirit Friday in a letter to the newspaper Komsomol Pravda. He wrote that there is plenty of vodka in the remote Siberian area where he works but no wholesome food.

I. Cheban said residents of the area get a big laugh from the current campaign against drunkenness.

"How can it be otherwise if you see vodka everywhere at all times of the day and night but you can't find good food like oranges, lemons and green vegetables?" Cheban asked.

Paul Martin Looks 'Em Over

Leo Young, the Tulane end, achieved college football stardom Friday night, and northeast Louisiana is proud of him. This towering athlete first became known in this area as a grid star at Ferriday High School where he became an all-state player for Ferriday's state champions.

His dad, Leo Young the senior, who is a Ferriday funeral home operator, was formerly of Monroe where he and his brother James "Snooky" Young were quite popular in the 1920s and 30s. Leo, the senior, was the captain of the first football team at Northeast State here when the school was Ouachita Junior College. He also attended Auburn, and, for a while, when the junior Leo was ending his high school career at Ferriday, it was talked that he would also head for Auburn.

We always admired this young man during his football days at Ferriday. He was an all-round boy of good character and we're sure Tulane finds him a type of young man who will take any glory coming his way with the Green Wave in the same modest way he did at Ferriday.

We are glad to have played a role in sponsoring his bid as an all-state high school player, and we'll never forget that Leo came up from Ferriday with his dad one day shortly after his successful election to the all-state team to personally thank us for our faith in his ability.

Tulane has other stars. They played just as important roles Friday. But we look to Leo Young as "our" player and feel particularly proud of him when he has such a night as he did against Texas. So what if the Longhorns did win? Tulane showed it can still play a high caliber brand at ball. Holding Texas to a 21-20 decision is far better than we had expected from the Wave.

While the six-foot-two 190 pound Young in northeast Louisiana's only representative on the Tulane squad, Louisiana State, which it seems, for so long rarely looked to athletes of the Fifth District, now is really depending on players produced in this area. Coach Paul Dietzel, with the kind of schedule his men have to tackle, still can't be sure that a great season is in store, but at least he has won the attention of college football fans throughout this section.

J. W. "Red" Brodnax, the last really fine football star to be developed at Bastrop High, is in his senior year. Brodnax, to us, has always been a great competitor. He and Billy Hendrix of Rayville are the area's only seniors on the Tiger squad. Both are six-footers. Brodnax, a fullback, weighs 198. Hendrix, an end, weighs 185.

In all, there are nine area gridders on the LSU varsity squad. There have been many years in the past when the area was fortunate to have one or two on the squad and frequently there were none.

Juniors of the area include Max Fugler, the fine center and linebacker from Ferriday, who quite possibly will rate as best in the Southeastern Conference; Dave McCarty, the tackle from Rayville; and Manson Nelson, a guard from Ferriday. Unfortunately Nelson suffered a leg fracture in the Rice contest a week ago, and will naturally be sidelined for some time.

Then there are four sophomores getting seasoning this year and figuring high in Dietzel's plans for the future—Albert Dampier, the Clayton guard who played high school ball for Raymond Peace at Sicily Island; Joe Dosher, tackle from Jena; Elton Upshaw, the quarterback wizard at Neville High here not so long ago; and Donnie Daye, the halfback from Ferriday.

Northeast Stops Delta, 23-0

Indians Take 3rd Straight Win Of Season

CLEVELAND, Miss. (Special)—Grinding out all its yardage on the ground, Northeast powered to a 23-0 triumph over Delta State here last night for its third straight victory without a loss.

The revived Redskins punched over a first quarter touchdown,

| STATISTICS | Delta | Northeast |
| Yards rushing | 80 | 265 |
| First downs | 9 | 19 |
| Passes | 5-2 | 5-0 |
| Yards passing | 25 | 0 |
| Passes int. by | 0 | 0 |
| Fumbles lost | 0 | 1 |
| Penalties | 2-30 | 3-35 |
| Punting | 4-26.9 | 2-35.5 |

grabbed another in the third and scored a safety and TD against the stubborn Statesmen in the final period. The win gives Northeast a 3-0 record for the year as they go into Gulf States Conference action next week against Southwestern.

Northeast took the opening kickoff and ground 64 yards for a touchdown with Jim Laudadio going over from five yards out to cap the drive. Fullback Lloyd Ray Smith's charges powered the drive. The big back carried 11 times in the 18-play drive. Laudadio kicked the extra point for a 7-0 margin.

Delta State held until the third when fullback Smokey Stover bulled over from one yard out to end a 44-yard march. Laudadio again kicked the PAT and Jack Rowan's Indians went into the final period with a 14-0 lead.

End Jerry Ford gifted the Indians with their next two points when he tackled Statesman Joe Hood in the end zone. Back to punt with the ball on his own 37, Hood saw the pass from center go over his head. He gave chase back to the end zone and Head dropped him for two points.

A combined second and third team unit scored the final touchdown of the night on a 48-yard push. Ex-Neville star Willie Ragan went over from the one for the touchdown and Laudadio, the point.

A rugged Indian defense led by Joe Driskill, Jim Knox and Wally Cox never permitted Delta State past the Northeast 20. The Statesmen went to the 22 in their most serious drive in the final period with quarterback Sonny Kendricks, the hosts' top back of the night, powering the march.

Auburn Tumbles Tennessee, 13-0

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI)—Deft Lloyd Nix, a 168 - pound quarterback, set up two quick fourth - period touchdowns with elusive running Saturday to power massive Auburn to a 13 - 0 victory over Tennessee.

The lefthanded senior broke open a defensive dogfight by sprinting first 23, then 12 yards in the dying minutes of the third period to put the ball on Tennessee's six. One play later he pitched out to halfback Lamar Rawson who ran across the goal untouched.

Little more than five minutes later, 40,000 fans and a national television audience saw Nix hit end Mike Simmons with a 16-yard bootleg pass to set up Tommy Lorino's 24 - yard sweep with another pitchout.

The powerful Tigers, boasting the nation's longest major college victory string, now at 15 games, found the Volunteers beating them at their own game with a defense, led by center Ray Brann and tackles Joe Schaffer and Bo Shafer, that consistently beat back the Auburn attack.

While the Vols, outweighed better than 20 pounds in the line, were unable to muster any offense of their own — They failed to make a single first down—tailback Billy Majors' fine punting and savage line play stopped Auburn for almost three-fourths of the game.

But Nix broke loose on a 23-yard dash around Tennessee's right end by faking a lateral to Lorino to get the Tigers rolling on a 71 - yard touchdown march. He pitched to Lorino for 16 and followed with a keeper for 12 to the six. Rawson's score came on the first play of the fourth period.

Tulsa Takes 27-14 Victory Over Porkers

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (UPI)—Fullback Bob Brumble and halfback Ronny Morris supplied the punch today as Tulsa University whipped Arkansas 27-14 before 19,000 fans, the first time the Hurricane has won in Razorback stadium in 39 years.

Morris and Brumble, capitalizing on hard blocking by the Hurricane line, bulled for most of Tulsa's 144 yards on the ground.

The last time Tulsa beat Arkansas in Arkansas was in 1919, but Hurricane managed to stop the Razorbacks in Tulsa in 1952.

Tulsa added 51 yards in the air to its ground yardage, while the Porker managed 220 yards passing but only 80 on the ground. Jim Monroe supplied the passing power for the hogs.

LSU From Behind To Beat Stubborn Alabama Eleven

By STAN ATKINS

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — Quarterback Warren Rabb passed for one touchdown and sent speedster Billy Cannon through the line for another as Louisiana State downed Alabama 13-3 Saturday night.

The 190-pound junior from Baton Rouge—also Cannon's home town—tossed nine yards down the middle to right half Johnny Robinson for a second quarter score. The touchdown climaxed a 67-yard drive. Tommy Davis converted.

The other score came in the fourth on 44-yard drive. Cannon picked up 30 of the yards on five carries. The 200-pound All-America candidate lunged over from the 12, trampling three Alabama defenders in the procession.

Alabama took a 3-0 lead in the second quarter on a field goal from the eight. The goal came after Duff Morrison snatched a Cannon fumble and ran it back 45 yards to the LSU five.

The Tide, making its debut under coach Paul (Bear) Bryant, looked its best in three years.

Cannon, although frequently used as a blocker or a decoy, was the leading ground gainer with 86 yards on 12 carries, a nine-yard average. Quarterback Bobby Jackson carried 20 times for 38 yards to pace 'Bama.

LSU had a wide margin in first downs, picking up 17 to Alabama's seven.

Although Alabama showed a vast improvement, the squad still looked far from a winning club. Team speed appeared to be the major lack.

LSU coach Paul Dietzel said Bryant had done an excellent coaching job and he was proud of the way LSU rallied in the second half for the victory.

Andrews, Cook Meet At Bastrop

BASTROP, La. (Special) — Al Andrews, one of the nation's foremost boxers who has fought three world's champions and a host of other front-ranked fighters, will meet Clarence Cook, Bastrop's fighting policeman, here Tuesday night October 7 at the Bastrop Rodeo Arena.

Matchmaker Ray Kruger announced signing of Andrews for the ten-rounder that looms as a "make or break" match for Cook, the well known Louisiana middleweight belter who is on the comeback trail and seeking a return to fistic heights he was so near a couple of years ago.

Andrews has fought Carmen Basilio and Gene Fullmer, both world's champions not so long ago, and Virgil Akins, the current welterweight king. Cook also has fought Akins. In addition to a knockout win over highly regarded Gil Turner, Andrews has met such as Joey Giardello, Joey Giambra, Rocky Castellani, Del Flanagan, Jimmy Martinez and a host of other fine fighters. He has appeared in 22 nationally televised bouts.

Cook, who also fought Akins, Flanagan, and Martinez during his prime, has scored knockouts in two recent tune-up bouts and believes he is ready to start climbing the fistic ladder again.

An eight-round semi-final will match Al Boudreaux, classy Westwego welter, against Mickey Moore in a rematch. Boudreaux got off the floor to score a TKO in seven rounds in their recent match, and Moore has challenged for the return.

All other bouts on the card will be four-rounders—West Monroe's Don Ware vs. Buck Young, New Orleans; Dewayne Garris, Monroe, vs. Jimmy Adams, Newellton; La-Dell Pate, West Monroe, vs. Johnny Allen, Bastrop, (tenative); and Johnny Finch, New Orleans, vs Henry Burton, Monroe, (tenative).

Over 60 Injured As Stands Fall

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — Spectators were plunged into a tangle of timbers when end-zone bleachers collapsed at the Louisiana State-Alabama football game Saturday night. More than 60 persons were injured, some seriously.

Most of the injured appeared to be suffering from cuts and bruises.

Mobile Infirmary had admitted four persons and treated "30 to 40 others" for minor injuries, according to an emergency room nurse.

G. J. Lackey, Tuscaloosa, Ala., whose brother was among the injured, said he and others were plunged into a tangle of timbers.

"We felt it coming and tried to move," said Lackey, "but we were trying to help the others and couldn't. Alabama was driving at that particular time. We were all hollering. Then the stands started falling and we went down like dominoes being knocked over."

Some spectators were pinned beneath the bleachers, described as being about 10 years old.

Bill Sellers, Mobile Press Register reporter, said that shortly before the collapse spectators had left another section of the bleachers and crowded upon the section which gave way.

Lou Issacson, reporter for the Birmingham News, said that he visited two hospitals and found that they had treated more than 60 persons.

Rice Rolls Over Stanford, 30-7

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — A rugged band of Rice Owls exploded for three second-half touchdowns Saturday and spoiled Stanford Coach Jack Curtice's home debut, 30-7.

Rice backs Jon Schandle, Ray Chilton, Bill Schneider, and Bill Bucek showed a sweltering crowd of 29,000 how Texans can score, and a sturdy Owl line threw back all Stanford drives except one.

Tech Rallies In 4th To Win, 14-7

JONESBORO, Ark. (Special) — The Louisiana Tech Bulldogs came from behind in the fourth quarter to down Arkansas State, 14-7, here last night.

The winning Tech touchdown came with eight minutes, nine seconds left in the game. Halfback Paul Hynes dove over the middle from one yard out to cap a 39-yard Tech drive. Quarterback James McCade then hit Hynes in the end zone for the two pointer.

Tech's winning drive was set up when Bulldog end Charles Garris broke through the Indian line to block a quick kick attempt on third down by fullback Bill Nalley. The ball bounced back to the State 18 yard line where the Indians recovered and punted on fourth down to their own 39.

Tech opened the scoring early in the contest when halfback J. W. Slack cracked over from the two yard line with the game three minutes old. The Tech talley was set up by a fumble by State halfback Don Riggs on the first play from scrimmage in the game.

Tech quarterback McCade picked the loose pigskin out of the air and was downed immediately on the State 20. Slack's attempted conversion was wide.

Arkansas State took a 7-6 lead in the waning minutes of the third period when quarterback James Billings sneaked over from the one-foot line. Barefooted kicking Lamar Lee added the point that put the Indians ahead.

Ruston Frosh Play Host To Ouachita Cubs

The Ouachita freshmen eleven, sporting a record of two wins and a single loss, journey to Ruston to take on the Bearkittens Monday afternoon at five o'clock.

Coach Tom Wilson's squad has been without the services of two starters since the opening game of the season. Halfback Reuben Midyette, injured earlier this year, will be back at his starting position for the Ruston scrap. Dewayne Williams, front-line tackle, is still on the alling list.

Wildcat Errors Aid To Ole Miss

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI)—Mississippi turned three Kentucky miscues into touchdowns Saturday night to blast the wild cats 27-6 in a wild and wooly Southeastern Conference battle.

A near-capacity crowd of 26,626 was repeatedly brought to its feet by explosive running plays and the bullet-like passes of Kentucky quarterback Lowell Huges.

Kentucky, which raged up and down the field on Huges' passes, muffed three scoring chances before cashing in in the final period on a 27 yard pass by quarterback Jerry Eisaman to halfback Calvin Bird.

Quarterback Bobby Franklin hit halfback Kent Lovelace in the end one with a 17 yard pass for Mississippi's first score.

Compound penalties ranging from illegal receivers to pushing the quarterback over the goal line cost Kentucky a third-period td. The Wildcats drove from their own 12 to the Ole Miss one on Hughes' passing, and Hughes sneaked over, but it was called back because of pushing by Hodge.

Wildcats Swamp Livingston, 39-0

PINEVILLE, La. (AP)—Charles Ward and Stewart Yarborough each made two touchdowns Saturday night as Louisiana College swamped Livingston (Ala.) State 39-0.

Louisiana College outgained Livingston 362 yards to 157 and in the air 89 yards to 59.

Yarborough scored on 93 and five yard runs, while Ward returned a punt 45 yards and scored on a 1-yard keeper play.

Lamar Hebert kicked three extra points. Joe Stewart tallied on an 8-yard run and Tommy Whitecloud on a 1-yard keeper play.

Paul Martin Looks 'Em Over

Leo Young, the Tulane end, achieved college football stardom Friday night, and northeast Louisiana is proud of him. This towering athlete first became known in this area as a grid star at Ferriday High School where he became an all-state player for Ferriday's state champions.

His dad, Leo Young the senior, who is a Ferriday funeral home operator, was formerly of Monroe where he and his brother James "Snooky" Young were quite popular in the 1920s and 30s. Leo, the senior, was the captain of the first football team at Northeast State here when the school was Ouachita Junior College. He also attended Auburn, and, for a while, when the junior Leo was ending his high school career at Ferriday, it was talked that he would also head for Auburn.

We always admired this young man during his football days at Ferriday. He was an all-round boy of good character and we're sure Tulane finds him a type of young man who will take any glory coming his way with the Green Wave in the same modest way he did at Ferriday.

We are glad to have played a role in sponsoring his bid as an all-state high school player, and we'll never forget that Leo came up from Ferriday with his dad one day shortly after his successful election to the all-state team to personally thank us for our faith in his ability.

Tulane has other stars. They played just as important roles Friday. But we look to Leo Young as "our" player and feel particularly proud of him when he has such a night as he did against Texas. So what if the Longhorns did win? Tulane showed it can still play a high caliber brand at ball. Holding Texas to a 21-20 decision is far better than we had expected from the Wave.

While the six-foot-two 190 pound Young in northeast Louisiana's only representative on the Tulane squad, Louisiana State, which it seems, for so long rarely looked to athletes of the Fifth District, now is really depending on players produced in this area. Coach Paul Dietzel, with the kind of schedule his men have to tackle, still can't be sure that a great season is in store, but at least he has won the attention of college football fans throughout this section.

J. W. "Red" Brodnax, the last really fine football star to be developed at Bastrop High, is in his senior year. Brodnax, to us, has always been a great competitor. He and Billy Hendrix of Rayville are the area's only seniors on the Tiger squad. Both are six-footers. Brodnax, a fullback, weighs 198. Hendrix, an end, weighs 185.

In all, there are nine area gridders on the LSU varsity squad. There have been many years in the past when the area was fortunate to have one or two on the squad and frequently there were none.

Juniors of the area include Max Fugler, the fine center and linebacker from Ferriday, who quite possibly will rate as best in the Southeastern Conference; Dave McCarty, the tackle from Rayville; and Manson Nelson, a guard from Ferriday. Unfortunately Nelson suffered a leg fracture in the Rice contest a week ago, and will naturally be sidelined for some time.

Then there are four sophomores getting seasoning this year and figuring high in Dietzel's plans for the future—Albert Dampier, the Clayton guard who played high school ball for Raymond Peace at Sicily Island; Joe Dosher, tackle from Jena; Elton Upshaw, the quarterback wizard at Neville High here not so long ago; and Donnie Daye, the halfback from Ferriday.

Northeast Stops Delta, 23-0

Indians Take 3rd Straight Win Of Season

CLEVELAND, Miss. (Special)—Grinding out all its yardage on the ground, Northeast powered to a 23-0 triumph over Delta State here last night for its third straight victory without a loss.

The revived Redskins punched over a first quarter touchdown, grabbed another in the third and scored a safety and TD against the stubborn Statesmen in the final period. The win gives Northeast a 3-0 record for the year as they go into Gulf States Conference action next week against Southwestern.

| STATISTICS | Delta | Northeast |

Northeast took the opening kickoff and ground 64 yards for a touchdown with Jim Laudadio going over from five yards out to cap the drive. Fullback Lloyd Ray Smith's charges powered the drive. The big back carried 11 times in the 18-play drive. Laudadio kicked the extra point for a 7-0 margin.

Delta State held until the third when fullback Smokey Stover bulled over from one yard out to end a 44-yard march. Laudadio again kicked the PAT and Jack Rowan's Indians went into the final period with a 14-0 lead.

End Jerry Ford gifted the Indians with their next two points when he tackled Statesman Joe Hood in the end zone. Back to punt with the ball on his own 37, Hood saw the pass from center go over his head. He gave chase back to the end zone and Head dropped him for two points.

A combined second and third team unit scored the final touchdown of the night on a 48-yard push. Ex-Neville star Willie Ragan went over from the one for the touchdown and Laudadio, the point.

A rugged Indian defense led by Joe Driskill, Jim Knox and Wally Cox never permitted Delta State past the Northeast 20. The Statesmen went to the 22 in their most serious drive in the final period with quarterback Sonny Kendricks, the hosts' top back of the night, powering the march.

Auburn Tumbles Tennessee, 13-0

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI)—Deft Lloyd Nix, a 168 - pound quarterback, set up two quick fourth - period touchdowns with elusive running Saturday to power massive Auburn to a 13 - 0 victory over Tennessee.

The lefthanded senior broke open a defensive dogfight by sprinting first 23, then 12 yards in the dying minutes of the third period to put the ball on Tennessee's six. One play later he pitched out to halfback Lamar Rawson who ran across the goal untouched.

Little more than five minutes later, 40,000 fans and a national television audience saw Nix hit end Mike Simmons with a 16-yard bootleg pass to set up Tommy Lorino's 24 - yard sweep with another pitchout.

The powerful Tigers, boasting the nation's longest major college victory string, now at 15 games, found the Volunteers beating them at their own game with a defense, led by center Ray Brann and tackles Joe Schaffer and Bo Shafer, that consistently beat back the Auburn attack.

While the Vols, outweighed better than 20 pounds in the line, were unable to muster any offense of their own — They failed to make a single first down—tailback Billy Majors' fine punting and savage line play stopped Auburn for almost three-fourths of the game.

But Nix broke loose on a 23-yard dash around Tennessee's right end by faking a lateral to Lorino to get the Tigers rolling on a 71 - yard touchdown march. He pitched to Lorino for 16 and followed with a keeper for 12 to the six. Rawson's score came on the first play of the fourth period.

Tulsa Takes 27-14 Victory Over Porkers

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (UPI)—Fullback Bob Brumble and halfback Ronny Morris supplied the punch today as Tulsa University whipped Arkansas 27-14 before 19,000 fans, the first time the Hurricane has won in Razorback stadium in 39 years.

Morris and Brumble, capitalizing on hard blocking by the Hurricane line, bulled for most of Tulsa's 144 yards on the ground.

The last time Tulsa beat Arkansas in Arkansas was in 1919, but Hurricane managed to stop the Razorbacks in Tulsa in 1952.

Tulsa added 51 yards in the air to its ground yardage, while the Porker managed 220 yards passing but only 80 on the ground. Jim Monroe supplied the passing power for the hogs.

LSU From Behind To Beat Stubborn Alabama Eleven

By STAN ATKINS

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — Quarterback Warren Rabb passed for one touchdown and sent speedster Billy Cannon through the line for another as Louisiana State downed Alabama 13-3 Saturday night.

The 190-pound junior from Baton Rouge—also Cannon's home town—tossed nine yards down the middle to right half Johnny Robinson for a second quarter score. The touchdown climaxed a 67-yard drive. Tommy Davis converted.

The other score came in the fourth on 44-yard drive. Cannon picked up 30 of the yards on five carries. The 200-pound All-America candidate lunged over from the 12, trampling three Alabama defenders in the procession.

Alabama took a 3-0 lead in the second quarter on a field goal from the eight. The goal came after Duff Morrison snatched a Cannon fumble and ran it back 45 yards to the LSU five.

The Tide, making its debut under coach Paul (Bear) Bryant, looked its best in three years.

Cannon, although frequently used as a blocker or a decoy, was the leading ground gainer with 86 yards on 12 carries, a nine-yard average. Quarterback Bobby Jackson carried 20 times for 38 yards to pace 'Bama.

LSU had a wide margin in first downs, picking up 17 to Alabama's seven.

Although Alabama showed a vast improvement, the squad still looked far from a winning club. Team speed appeared to be the major lack.

LSU coach Paul Dietzel said Bryant had done an excellent coaching job and he was proud of the way LSU rallied in the second half for the victory.

Andrews, Cook Meet At Bastrop

BASTROP, La. (Special) — Al Andrews, one of the nation's foremost boxers who has fought three world's champions and a host of other front-ranked fighters, will meet Clarence Cook, Bastrop's fighting policeman, here Tuesday night October 7 at the Bastrop Rodeo Arena.

Matchmaker Ray Kruger announced signing of Andrews for the ten-rounder that looms as a "make or break" match for Cook, the well known Louisiana middleweight belter who is on the comeback trail and seeking a return to fistic heights he was so near a couple of years ago.

Andrews has fought Carmen Basilio and Gene Fullmer, both world's champions not so long ago, and Virgil Akins, the current welterweight king. Cook also has fought Akins. In addition to a knockout win over highly regarded Gil Turner, Andrews has met such as Joey Giardello, Joey Giambra, Rocky Castellani, Del Flanagan, Jimmy Martinez and a host of other fine fighters. He has appeared in 22 nationally televised bouts.

Cook, who also fought Akins, Flanagan, and Martinez during his prime, has scored knockouts in two recent tune-up bouts and believes he is ready to start climbing the fistic ladder again.

An eight-round semi-final will match Al Boudreaux, classy Westwego welter, against Mickey Moore in a rematch. Boudreaux got off the floor to score a TKO in seven rounds in their recent match, and Moore has challenged for the return.

All other bouts on the card will be four-rounders—West Monroe's Don Ware vs. Buck Young, New Orleans; Dewayne Garris, Monroe, vs. Jimmy Adams, Newellton; LaDell Pate, West Monroe, vs. Johnny Allen, Bastrop, (tenative); and Johnny Finch, New Orleans, vs Henry Burton, Monroe, (tenative).

OVER ARK. STATE

Tech Rallies In 4th To Win, 14-7

JONESBORO, Ark. (Special) — The Louisiana Tech Bulldogs came from behind in the fourth quarter to down Arkansas State, 14-7, here last night.

| STATISTICS | | |

| Punting | 7-19 | 5-32 |

Tech's winning drive was set up when Bulldog end Charles Garris broke through the Indian line to block a quick kick attempt on third down by fullback Bill Nalley. The ball bounced back to the State 18 yard line where the Indians recovered and punted on fourth down to their own 39.

Tech opened the scoring early in the contest when halfback J. W. Slack cracked over from the two yard line with the game three minutes old. The Tech talley was set up by a fumble by State halfback Don Riggs on the first play from scrimmage in the game.

Tech quarterback McCade picked the loose pigskin out of the air and was downed immediately on the State 20. Slack's attempted conversion was wide.

Arkansas State took a 7-6 lead in the waning minutes of the third period when quarterback James Billings sneaked over from the one-foot line. Barefooted kicking Lamar Lee added the point that put the Indians ahead.

Futch Wins 3 At Speed Bowl

Jerry Smith was second to Futch in the feature event, won the second heat and had the best time trial, 17.7. Johnny Casey was second in the first heat and also in the second heat. G. W. Defee was third in the first heat and H. L. Hale was third in the feature.

Over 60 Injured As Stands Fall

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — Spectators were plunged into a tangle of timbers when end-zone bleachers collapsed at the Louisiana State-Alabama football game Saturday night. More than 60 persons were injured, some seriously.

Most of the injured appeared to be suffering from cuts and bruises.

Mobile Infirmary had admitted four persons and treated "30 to 40 others" for minor injuries, according to an emergency room nurse.

G. J. Lackey, Tuscaloosa, Ala., whose brother was among the injured, said he and others were plunged into a tangle of timbers.

"We felt it coming and tried to move," said Lackey, "but we were trying to help the others and couldn't. Alabama was driving at that particular time. We were all hollering. Then the stands started falling and we went down like dominoes being knocked over."

Some spectators were pinned beneath the bleachers, described as being about 10 years old.

Bill Sellers, Mobile Press Register reporter, said that shortly before the collapse spectators had left another section of the bleachers and crowded upon the section which gave way.

Lou Issacson, reporter for the Birmingham News, said that he visited two hospitals and found that they had treated more than 60 persons.

Ruston Frosh Play Host To Ouachita Cubs

The Ouachita freshmen eleven, sporting a record of two wins and a single loss, journey to Ruston to take on the Bearkittens Monday afternoon at five o'clock.

Coach Tom Wilson's squad has been without the services of two starters since the opening game of the season. Halfback Reuben Midyette, injured earlier this year, will be back at his starting position for the Ruston scrap. Dewayne Williams, front-line tackle, is still on the ailing list.

REBELS, 27-6

Wildcat Errors Aid To Ole Miss

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI)—Mississippi turned three Kentucky miscues into touchdowns Saturday night to blast the wild cats 27-6 in a wild and wooly Southeastern Conference battle.

A near-capacity crowd of 26,626 was repeatedly brought to its feet by explosive running plays and the bullet-like passes of Kentucky quarterback Lowell Huges.

Kentucky, which raged up and down the field on Huges' passes, muffed three scoring chances before cashing in in the final period on a 27 yard pass by quarterback Jerry Eisaman to halfback Calvin Bird.

Quarterback Bobby Franklin hit halfback Kent Lovelace in the end one with a 17 yard pass for Mississippi's first score.

Compound penalties ranging from illegal receivers to pushing the quarterback over the goal line cost Kentucky a third-period td. The Wildcats drove from their own 12 to the Ole Miss one on Hughes' passing, and Hughes sneaked over, but it was called back because of pushing by Hodge.

Other Kentucky drives had died on the Ole Miss four and 17 yard lines.

Ohio State Survives Pass Barrage To Beat Mustangs

By FRITZ HOWELL

Even in defeat, the star of the show was Don Meredith, the Mustang quarterback who completed 19 of 28 passes for 213 yards and one touchdown. He also paced the Texas team on the ground with 25 yards in 10 tries. Meredith scored one six-pointer.

Conversions spelled the difference in the nip-and-tuck battle as the two titans traded touchdowns. The Bucks made good on all extra-point attempts, two of them the new-fangled two-pointers while the Mustangs converted after only one of their three scores.

A crowd of 3,113, largest ever to overflow the Buckeye horseshoe, gave Meredith, last year's collegiate champion passer, a huge ovation in the final quarter when he completed six in a row for 75 yards and the final SMU touchdown.

Don Clark, Ohio's speedy senior halfback, scored Ohio's first two touchdowns, one on a 22-yard run to climax a 41-yard, six-play drive and the second on a two-yard plunge to finish a 15-play surge covering 80 yards. In between those scores, Billy Dunn, substitute SMU quarterback, passed 20 yards to second-string end Henry Christopher for a touchdown. The Mustangs moved 73 yards in 11 plays for the score.

AIRBORNE ATTACK

Virginia Passes Stop Duke, 15-12

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP)—Virginia's winged-T attack became airborne on its first play Saturday and stayed that way to the profound confusion of Duke as the Cavaliers churned to a 15-12 upset football victory over the Blue Devils.

All but discarding their ground attack in favor of Reece Whitley's expert passing until they held a 15-6 advantage in the final period, the Cavaliers were forced to stand off a late Duke comeback to win the Atlantic Coast Conference battle before 15,000.

Virginia scored first on a field goal by end Bob Williams after moving 68 yards to the Duke 11 in the opening quarter—56 of them on Whitley passes.

Then, when Duke grabbed a 6-3 lead, the Cavaliers went back to work in a hurry, scoring on a 32-yard pitch from Whitley to halfback Sonny Randle, and never trailed again.

Sophomore fullback Johnny Barger, on a one-yard plunge climaxing a 40-yard drive, tallied the touchdown that eventually proved the difference in the third quarter. Barger collected 30 of the yards to the goal.

Whitley, once more brilliantly directing Virginia's intricate passing formations, hit on 12 of 17 passes for 169 yards and ran for 19 more yards for a total offense of 188 yards.

TERPS BOUNCE BACK

Maryland Upsets Atlantic Champs

RALEIGH (AP) — Halfback John Forbes scored two touchdowns and set up another with a recovered fumble as Maryland's Terps struck with hurricane force to upset North Carolina State 21-6 here Saturday in an Atlantic Coast Conference football game.

A crowd of 11,000 watched under menacing skies as Forbes tallied from the 4 in the first period ending a 73-yard drive. In the third quarter, Forbes, a 190-pounder from Basking Ridge, N. J., took a screen pass from quarterback Dickie Lewis and scored on a brilliant 71-yard play in which he lost his left shoe.

Maryland, bounding back from the humiliating 34-0 loss to Wake Forest last week, added its third touchdown early in the final quarter when quarterback Bob Ruselvyan knifed over from the 1. Then he ran over the two extra points. Forbes recovered a fumble by halfback Claude Gibson on the Wolfpack 25 to set up the score.

TWIN CITY OVAL

Stock Cars List Fast Field Today

Gary Greenway, the first and one of the few to beat Royce Earl Whitlock in a main event this season, will be back in action as the driver of Lou Craig's No. 16. Greenway has been away from the track for the past several weeks but is back ready for action along with Frank Parker, Shreveport, who is also returning after an absence of a few weeks, to give the modified racers a run for the money in his No. 5.

Whitlock, too, aboard the No. 13 of Huri's Garage, is prepared to face the challenges to his supremacy on the half mile oval. Whitlock gets beaten now and then but his defeats are far between. He has ruled the ranks of local stock car racers for two seasons.

Bobby Russell has a brand new Chevrolet motor in his No. 99 and expects to have H. L. Hale, one of the better drivers, behind the wheel this afternoon. Hale is also listed as the driver for Durbin Wrecking Yard's 39.

Also challenging will be Billy Bayles in Anding Brothers and Bayles' No. 17; "Red" Futch driving No. 7 for Owen's Garage; Joe Mallard ramrodding Keith Kenley's 38; Jerry Smith racing Ollie Hamm's 33 1-3; and Curtis Newsom entering his 44 for which he has not named a driver. At least half a dozen other cars are due to join the field.

Time trials for this entire show of modified racing is scheduled to begin at 1 o'clock followed by heat races, trophy dash, and the featured scramble for all contenders.

OVER WEST VIRGINIA

Sooners Breeze To 47-14 Victory

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — Oklahoma's new rapid-fire multiple offensive sputtered in the early minutes but eventually proved effective as the Sooners raced to a 47-14 opening football game victory over the beefy West Virginia Mountaineers Saturday.

A near-capacity crowd of 58,000 possibly were a bit confused as Coach Bud Wilkinson unveiled a series of wide open plays featuring split ends, flankers, wide laterals and long passes.

This new display was a far cry from Oklahoma's convention ball control game which has kept them at the top of the national rankings for a decade.

The flood gates opened for the Sooners ultimate seven-touchdown romp in the second period. Prentice Gautt, a huge Negro junior fullback, cut through tackle for 27 yards for the initial Sooner score.

TWO POINT MARGIN

Ted Takes Swat Lead, Bosox Win

WASHINGTON (AP)—Ted Williams and Pete Runnels each lashed out three hits Saturday in their down-to-the wire battle for the American League batting championship. But Williams forged into a slim .3267 to .3244 lead as they led the Boston Red Sox to a 9-5 victory over Washington.

The 40-year old Williams, defending champion and seeking his sixth title, hit two singles and his 25th homer in four official trips. He also walked once.

Runnels, 10 years Williams' junior and never a serious contender for batting laurels before this season, cracked out a triple, a single and his eighth homer in his first three trips but went hitless in his last three times at bat. This gave him 3-for-6 for the afternoon.

X-Rays Show No Damage To Burdette

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The National League champion Milwaukee Braves breathed easier Saturday after Xrays showed no serious damage to Lew Burdette's injured pitching hand.

The 31-year old right-hander, the major factor in the Braves' World Series triumph over the Yankees last year, was taken to Milwaukee Hospital just to be on the safe side. Xrays proved negative.

He is expected to start the second game of the fall classic here against Casey Stengel's American League champs.

SCORE TWICE FOR 14-7 WIN

Miss. State Beats Florida With Final Quarter Rally

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (UPI)—Mississippi State uncorked a 76-yard drive for one fourth-period touchdown and recovered a fumble seven yards from pay dirt for another to defeat Florida 14-7 in a bruising game before a crowd of 31,000.

Trailing 7 - 0 as the fourth period opened, Coach Wade Walker's Mississippi State eleven struck hard and fast for 14 points, then staved off a late Florida threat with an alert pass defense.

It was State's first game of the season. Florida beat Tulane last week and now has a 1 - 1 Southeastern Conference record.

For three periods, Saturday's game was a closely contested match featuring some fierce blocking and tackling. Five players were shaken up by the bruising play and one official had to leave the game when bowled over by a Mississippi State player.

State's first score in the final period came on a steady drive that started on the Mississippi State 24. Fullback Jack Batte plunged the final yard. State went ahead 8 - 7 when quarterback Billy Stacy, with two Florida tacklers hanging on, tossed a two-point scoring pass to halfback Robert Collins.

After an exchange of punts, Florida quarterback Jimmy Dunn fumbled on his own seven, and Mississippi State end LaValle White recovered. Halfback Willie Daniel went over from there. Bobby Tribble was stopped in his try for two extra points.

Florida scored its lone touchdown with less than four minutes left in the third period, when halfback Don Lucey intercepted a Joe Miller pass and went 59 yards.

Mississippi State made the only threat of the bruising first half in its final minutes. Halfback Bubber Trammell took in Bobby Green's punt at the State 28, faked to Stacy and crossed to the east sidelines. He was pulled down from behind on the Gator 24.

With nine seconds remaining in the half, Tribble's field goal attempt from the 15-yard line was wide.

Ohio State Survives Pass Barrage To Beat Mustangs

By FRITZ HOWELL

Even in defeat, the star of the show was Don Meredith, the Mustang quarterback who completed 19 of 28 passes for 213 yards and one touchdown. He also paced the Texas team on the ground with 25 yards in 10 tries. Meredith scored one six-pointer.

Conversions spelled the difference in the nip-and-tuck battle as the two titans traded touchdowns. The Bucks made good on all extra-point attempts, two of them the new-fangled two-pointers while the Mustangs converted after only one of their three scores.

A crowd of 3,113, largest ever to overflow the Buckeye horseshoe, gave Meredith, last year's collegiate champion passer, a huge ovation in the final quarter when he completed six in a row for 75 yards and the final SMU touchdown.

Don Clark, Ohio's speedy senior halfback, scored Ohio's first two touchdowns, one on a 22-yard run to climax a 41-yard, six-play drive and the second on a two-yard plunge to finish a 15-play surge covering 80 yards. In between those scores, Billy Dunn, substitute SMU quarterback, passed 20 yards to second-string end Henry Christopher for a touchdown. The Mustangs moved 73 yards in 11 plays for the score.

Virginia Passes Stop Duke, 15-12

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP) —Virginia's winged-T attack became airborne on its first play Saturday and stayed that way to the profound confusion of Duke as the Cavaliers churned to a 15-12 upset football victory over the Blue Devils.

All but discarding their ground attack in favor of Reece Whitley's expert passing until they held a 15-6 advantage in the final period, the Cavaliers were forced to stand off a late Duke comeback to win the Atlantic Coast Conference battle before 15,000.

Virginia scored first on a field goal by end Bob Williams after moving 68 yards to the Duke 11 in the opening quarter—56 of them on Whitley passes.

Then, when Duke grabbed a 6-3 lead, the Cavaliers went back to work in a hurry, scoring on a 32-yard pitch from Whitley to halfback Sonny Randle, and never trailed again.

Sophomore fullback Johnny Barger, on a one-yard plunge climaxing a 40-yard drive, tallied the touchdown that eventually proved the difference in the third quarter. Barger collected 30 of the yards to the goal.

Whitley, once more brilliantly directing Virginia's intricate passing formations, hit on 12 of 17 passes for 169 yards and ran for 19 more yards for a total offense of 188 yards.

TERPS BOUNCE BACK

Maryland Upsets Atlantic Champs

RALEIGH (AP) — Halfback John Forbes scored two touchdowns and set up another with a recovered fumble as Maryland's Terps struck with hurricane force to upset North Carolina State 21-6 here Saturday in an Atlantic Coast Conference football game.

A crowd of 11,000 watched under menacing skies as Forbes tallied from the 4 in the first period ending a 73-yard drive. In the third quarter, Forbes, a 190-pounder from Basking Ridge, N. J., took a screen pass from quarterback Dickie Lewis and scored on a brilliant 71-yard play in which he lost his left shoe.

Maryland, bounding back from the humiliating 34-0 loss to Wake Forest last week, added its third touchdown early in the final quarter when quarterback Bob Ruselvyan knifed over from the 1. Then he ran over the two extra points. Forbes recovered a fumble by halfback Claude Gibson on the Wolfpack 25 to set up the score.

TWIN CITY OVAL

Stock Cars List Fast Field Today

Return of some old contenders and machine improvements for others furnish new zest for stock car racing at the Twin City Speedway off the old Natchitoches road in West Monroe this afternoon.

Gary Greenway, the first and one of the few to beat Royce Earl Whitlock in a main event this season, will be back in action as the driver of Lou Craig's No. 16. Greenway has been away from the track for the past several weeks but is back ready for action along with Frank Parker, Shreveport, who is also returning after an absence of a few weeks, to give the modified racers a run for the money in his No. 5.

Whitlock, too, aboard the No. 13 of Hurl's Garage, is prepared to face the challenges to his supremacy on the half mile oval. Whitlock gets beaten now and then but his defeats are far between. He has ruled the ranks of local stock car racers for two seasons.

Bobby Russell has a brand new Chevrolet motor in his No. 99 and expects to have H. L. Hale, one of the better drivers, behind the wheel this afternoon. Hale is also listed as the driver for Durbin Wrecking Yard's 39.

Also challenging will be Billy Bayles in Anding Brothers and Bayles' No. 17; "Red" Futch driving No. 7 for Owen's Garage; Joe Mallard ramrodding Keith Kenley's 38; Jerry Smith racing Ollie Hamm's 33 1-3; and Curtis Newsom entering his 44 for which he has not named a driver. At least half a dozen other cars are due to join the field.

Time trials for this entire show of modified racing is scheduled to begin at 1 o'clock followed by heat races, trophy dash, and the featured scramble for all contenders.

Northwestern Upsets Wash. State, 29-28

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — Northwestern, a Big 10 doormat which failed to win a game last year, opened its season Saturday with a 29-28 victory over Washington State, one of the leading contenders for the Pacific Coast Conference title.

The triumph was Northwestern's first over a PCC foe since its 20-14 Rose Bowl victory over California in 1949.

OVER WEST VIRGINIA

Sooners Breeze To 47-14 Victory

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — Oklahoma's new rapid-fire multiple offensive sputtered in the early minutes but eventually proved effective as the Sooners raced to a 47-14 opening football game victory over the beefy West Virginia Mountaineers Saturday.

A near-capacity crowd of 58,000 possibly were a bit confused as Coach Bud Wilkinson unveiled a series of wide open plays featuring split ends, flankers, wide laterals and long passes.

This new display was a far cry from Oklahoma's convention ball control game which has kept them at the top of the national rankings for a decade.

The flood gates opened for the Sooners ultimate seven-touchdown romp in the second period. Prentice Gautt, a huge Negro junior fullback, cut through tackle for 27 yards for the initial Sooner score.

TWO POINT MARGIN

Ted Takes Swat Lead, Bosox Win

WASHINGTON (AP)—Ted Williams and Pete Runnels each lashed out three hits Saturday in their down-to-the wire battle for the American League batting championship. But Williams forged into a slim .3267 to .3244 lead as they led the Boston Red Sox to a 9-5 victory over Washington.

The 40-year old Williams, defending champion and seeking his sixth title, hit two singles and his 25th homer in four official trips. He also walked once.

Runnels, 10 years Williams' junior and never a serious contender for batting laurels before this season, cracked out a triple, a single and his eighth homer in his first three trips but went hitless in his last three times at bat. This gave him 3-for-6 for the afternoon.

SCORE TWICE FOR 14-7 WIN

Miss. State Beats Florida With Final Quarter Rally

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (UPI)—Mississippi State uncorked a 76-yard drive for one fourth-period touchdown and recovered a fumble seven yards from pay dirt for another to defeat Florida 14-7 in a bruising game before a crowd of 31,000.

Trailing 7 - 0 as the fourth period opened, Coach Wade Walker's Mississippi State eleven struck hard and fast for 14 points, then staved off a late Florida threat with an alert pass defense.

It was State's first game of the season. Florida beat Tulane last week and now has a 1 - 1 Southeastern Conference record.

For three periods, Saturday's game was a closely contested match featuring some fierce blocking and tackling. Five players were shaken up by the bruising play and one official had to leave the game when bowled over by a Mississippi State player.

State's first score in the final period came on a steady drive that started on the Mississippi State 24. Fullback Jack Batte plunged the final yard. State went ahead 8 - 7 when quarterback Billy Stacy, with two Florida tacklers hanging on, tossed a two-point scoring pass to halfback Robert Collins.

After an exchange of punts, Florida quarterback Jimmy Dunn fumbled on his own seven, and Mississippi State end LaValle White recovered. Halfback Willie Daniel went over from there. Bobby Tribble was stopped in his try for two extra points.

Florida scored its lone touchdown with less than four minutes left in the third period, when halfback Don Lucey intercepted a Joe Miller pass and went 59 yards.

Mississippi State made the only threat of the bruising first half in its final minutes. Halfback Bubber Trammell took in Bobby Green's punt at the State 28, faked to Stacy and crossed to the east sidelines. He was pulled down from behind on the Gator 24.

With nine seconds remaining in the half, Tribble's field goal attempt from the 15-yard line was wide.

Girl Tag Match On Kallio Card

Beauties and a beast share billing at Kallio's Arena tomorrow night when four lovlies tangle in a tag bout and Maurice Deoblo of Madrid, Spain, meets local favorite George Curtis in the semi-final.

Peggy Allen, a frequent performer here, is the lone tag-team member who is not making her local debut. They are Sylvia Torres, blond champion of Cuba, Kitty Adams of Houston and Betty Clark of Roanoke, Virginia. Misses Allen and Torres will meet Kitty and Betty over a 90-minute limit with two falls to win.

Deoblo, hardly a handsome chap, will meet Curtis in the hour-limit semi-final with two falls to win. Reputed to be as mean as he looks, the Spaniard has wrestled around the world.

Miss Torres, called the "Carmen Miranda of Cuba" after the late musical comedy star. Silvia claims to have appeared on television, radio and in night clubs as a singer in her native Havana before deciding to look for an occupation involving more action. She picked of all things, boxing. She then switched to wrestling and came out on top in a tournament for the Cuban championship.

Silvia weighs 135 pounds and stands 5-2. She is said to sometimes revert to her boxing days and throw a few punches. Her partner, Peggy Allen, the Flaming Redhead, plays it rather rough also.

Promoter Gus Kallio, in order to present Monday night's card, has raised admission prices slightly. Reserved seats will go for $2.00, general admission will be $1.50, children under 16 will be admitted for 50 cents and children under seven free.

Bengals Rally In 8th Frame To Trip Tribe

CLEVELAND (AP) — Gus Zernial pinch-singled in the tying run and Al Kaline hit a three-run triple in a five-run, eighth-inning rally that brought the Detroit Tigers fro mbehind and beat the Cleveland Indians 5-1 Saturday.

Paul Foytack, winning his 15th against 13 losses, gave the Tribe only three hits in the first seven innings. Rocky Colavito spoiled Foytack's shutout by doubling after Vic Power walked and Minnie Minoso beat out an infield roller in the fourth.

World Series Opens With Same Cast Of Characters

By JOE REICHLER

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The 1958 World Series opens here Wednesday with the same cast of characters, the same playing sites, the same managers and most likely the same starting pitchers as last year. Even the 7 to 5 odds favoring the New York Yankees over the Milwaukee Braves are identical to those of October 1957. About the only change is the Braves' coaching staff.

Barring an 11th hour switch by Yankee Manager Casey Stengel or Braves Pilot Fred Haney, the first game pitchers, in all probability, will be Whitey Ford and Warren Spahn. These southpaw aces opened the 1957 classic. The Yankees won the opener but the Braves captured the Series, in sever games.

In many ways, this Series shapes up as the most interesting in years, from the fans' standpoint and the most perplexing to figure, from the experts' corner. Perhaps the biggest eyebrow-raiser is the tremendous faith of the odds-makers in the Yankees After all, the American League champs are virtually the same team which lost three of the final four games to the Braves last October, two of them by shutouts. The same team that was beaten three straight times by Lew Burdette, who will attempt to stretch his streak of 24 consecutive World Series scoreless innings against the Yankees, probably in the second game.

Uppermost in everybody's mind, of course, will be the big question: Can Burdette do it again? Other questions that await answers are 1) have Ford and Don Larsen of 1956 perfect game fame fully recovered from their elbow ailments: 2) Will Wes Covington's damaged left knee hold-up for the entire Series? 3) Will a healthy Mickey Mantle and a strong Bill Skowron confirm the belief in some quarters that the principle reason the Braves won last year was because of the crippled condition of these sluggers?

There are other questions. Where will Hogi Berra play on the days when Elston Howard is behind the plate for the Yankees? Will Haney find a place in the Braves' line-up for slugger Joe Adcock, who has lost out to Frank Torre at first base? Will Stengel's radical idea to send an all right-handed hitting line - up against Burdette put an end to the fidgety right-hander's master over the New Yorkers? Is Haney serious in his announced intentions of starting Ernie Johnson, who hasn't started a big league game in nearly four years, in the first game at Yankee Stadium, Saturday?

Yes, indeed, it should be quite an interesting World Series.

An appraisal of the comparative strengths of the teams fails to shed much light as to the final outcome. Milwaukee appears to have the better pitching but the Yankees have a slight edge in hitting, a wider edge in fielding, a still wider edge in over-all speed and an appreciable advantage on the bench.

The critical factor in any World Series is pitching and the Braves have an abundance in that department. In Spahn and Burdette, the Braves have a pair of truly outstanding moundsmen, each capable of starting three games in a seven-game series. Both are primed for the Series, mentally and physically.

The Yankees possibly can match this pair in Ford, a consistently fine performer, and right-hander Bob Turley, who became a 20-game winner for the first time in his career this past season. Ford although he looked impressive in his last two abbreviated starts, has hurled only 12 innings this month and hasn't won a game since he first began complaining about his pitching elbow August 1. Turley's best pitching was done in the first half of the season.

The Yankees' secondary pitching does not compare with that of the Braves, especially if such things as Larsen's swollen elbow, Tom Sturdivant's spike - slashed heel and Ryne Duren's injured knee are taken into account. The likes of Art Ditmar, Johnny Kucks, Bobby Shantz, Duke Maas and Zach Monroe don't measure up to the Braves' Bob Buhl, Carl Willey, Bob Rush, Juan Pizarro, Don McMahon and Johnson.

Army Slaughters South Carolina

WEST POINT, N. Y. (AP) — Pete Dawkins scored four touchdowns and Bob Anderson passed for two Saturday as Army uncovered an eye-popping offensive to clobber South Carolina 48-8, before about 20,000 rain-soaked fans.

Earl Blaik, starting his 25th year as a head coach, had about everyone but the fullback throwing passes in the Cadets' impressive opener. Using an unbalanced line with a wide split end on the strong side—called a "lonesome end" formation—Army outclassed a team that beat Duke a week ago.

Dawkins, captain of the team, brigade commander and head of his class, slipped through from the 4 in the first period, dashed from the 26 in the third, took a pass from Anderson for a 22-yard scoring play, and a 10-yard TD toss from Joe Caldwell. Anderson also threw 3 yards to end Don Usry in the third period for Army's third score within six minutes.

Not until the final period did South Carolina manage to mount a solid threat. Moving against Army's reserves, with King Nixon and Alex Hawkins doing most of the work, South Carolina scored a 1-yard plunge by quarterback Bobby Bunch. The Gamecocks went for the two points and made it on an end run by Hawkins.

Army tried to run it twice for extra points and Maurice Hilliard converted on three of five placements.

Orangemen Win, 24-14, Over Boston

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP)—Three defensive maneuvers by Syracuse linemen gave the Orange the boost it needed to stage a 24-14 uphill victory over Boston College before 15,000 chilly fans here Saturday.

Blocking kicks and recovering forced fumbles set up the situations after the Orange had spotted the Beantown Eagles a 14-0 first period margin.

Purdue Routs Nebraska In Grid Opener

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP)—Purdue's veteran Boilermakers, giving scouts a few tantalizing glimpses of a little sophomore rocket named Jim Tiller, Saturday overwhelmed the Nebraska Cornhuskers 28-0. A crowd of 42,000 saw the first football meeting of the Big Ten and Big Eight representatives.

Tiller, a 153-pounder from Fremont, Ohio, was not one of Purdue's four touchdown scorers. But he ran over a two-point conversion and made a brilliant 49-yard punt return for a touchdown that was erased by a penalty.

Wolverines Squeeze By So. Cal, 20-19

By DAVE DILES

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—An underdog but gallant Southern California team battled Michigan to the wire Saturday before the Wolverines escaped with a 20-19 triumph in their 79th football opener, witnessed by 77,005 spectators.

Dogged by fumbles and penalties when they needed yardage most, the Trojans scored twice in the final period and would have upset their Big Ten opponents in this intersectional clash except for bad breaks.

Southern California suffered a final crushing blow after its last touchdown when it was penalized twice before it could try for the extra point. A pair of five-yard infractions set the Trojans back to the Michigan 13-yard line and they had to try a pass for the extra point.

It was complete, but short and the out-played Wolverines had their 15th victory in 17 meetings against West Coast opponents.

Spahn Chalks Up 22nd Victory

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Warren Spahn marked up his 22nd victory Saturday as the Milwaukee Braves, champions of the National League, whipped the Cincinnati Redlegs 6-1 in their second to last game of the regular season. Spahn hit one of the Braves' three home runs.

He tied Bob Friend of Pittsburgh for the lead in major league victories.

Spahn was pulled for a pinch hitter in the sixth inning. But before the game, Manager Fred Haney said he would use his star left-hander for only five or six innings, presumably saving him for World Series action. Spahn allowed five hits in the innings he pitched.

Spahn opened the scoring with a home run in the third inning, his second of the season. He knocked the ball into the right field stands, scoring behind Casey Wise, who had walked. In that same inning, Red Schoendienst hit his first home run of the year. This one also was good for two runs. It came after Eddie Haas singled to right.

Another Braves' homer was added by Frank Torre, leading off in the fourth inning.

Rutgers Pins 28-0 Surprise On Princeton

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — Bill Austin put on a one-man show Saturday as the Rutgers football team turned in an astonishing 2-0 victory over Princeton, the defending Ivy League champion.

Austin was everywhere, doing everything. If a Princeton pass was intercepted, it was Austin. If it was a big Rutgers ground gain, it was Austin. If it was a Rutgers touchdown pass, it was Austin.

Princeton had entered the game a slight favorite in this 49th meeting of the two schools who started the game of intercollegiate football 90 years ago.

Sub Fullback Sparks Navy To 14-0 Win

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP)—Sophomore Joe Matalavage, a third string fullback, came off the bench to fire Navy to a 14-0 victory over William and Mary Saturday in a football opener played in a driving rain.

The speedy 195-pounder from Mahanoy City, Pa., entered the game late in the second quarter to set up Navy's first touchdown. He sparked a 61-yard drive in the last period which he climaxed with a diving catch of a goal line pass from quarterback Joe Tranchini for the second six-pointer.

98-Yard Run Gives UCLA 18-14 Verdict

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP)—A 98-yard scoring runback of a pass interception by Phil Parslow, second string halfback, Saturday touched off an 18-14 victory for UCLA over Illinois.

Long's passing and running geared an 4-yard touchdown drive in the third period that came minutes after Parslow's electrifying run. It put the Uclans ahead and sent them to their first victory of the campaign. They were trounced 27-6 by Pitt last week.

Twice Long's passes for two points after touchdown failed.

Illinois, guided by 150-pound John Easterbrook, sophomore quarterback whose father played for the Illini 18 years ago, rolled up a 14-6 halftime bulge. Don Grothe's 32-yard run gave the Big Ten team a touchdown in the first quarter and Easterbrook passed for two points and an 18-6 lead.

Long's one-yard plunge after a 15-yard pass to Jim Steffen had put UCLA ahead in the opening minutes.

Girl Tag Match On Kallio Card

Beauties and a beast share billing at Kallio's Arena tomorrow night when four lovlies tangle in a tag bout and Maurice Deoblo of Madrid, Spain, meets local favorite George Curtis in the semi-final.

Peggy Allen, a frequent performer here, is the lone tag-team member who is not making her local debut. They are Sylvia Torres, blond champion of Cuba, Kitty Adams of Houston and Betty Clark of Roanoke, Virginia. Misses Allen and Torres will meet Kitty and Betty over a 90-minute limit with two falls to win.

Deoblo, hardly a handsome chap, will meet Curtis in the hour-limit semi-final with two falls to win. Reputed to be as mean as he looks, the Spaniard has wrestled around the world.

Miss Torres, called the "Carmen Miranda of Cuba" after the late musical comedy star. Silvia claims to have appeared on television, radio and in night clubs as a singer in her native Havana before deciding to look for an occupation involving more action. She picked of all things, boxing. She then switched to wrestling and came out on top in a tournament for the Cuban championship.

Silvia weighs 135 pounds and stands 5-2. She is said to sometimes revert to her boxing days and throw a few punches. Her partner, Peggy Allen, the Flaming Redhead, plays it rather rough also.

Promoter Gus Kallio, in order to present Monday night's card, has raised admission prices slightly. Reserved seats will go for $2.00, general admission will be $1.50, children under 16 will be admitted for 50 cents and children under seven free.

Bengals Rally In 8th Frame To Trip Tribe

CLEVELAND (AP) — Gus Zernial pinch-singled in the tying run and Al Kaline hit a three-run triple in a five-run, eighth-inning rally that brought the Detroit Tigers fro mbehind and beat the Cleveland Indians 5-1 Saturday.

Paul Foytack, winning his 15th against 13 losses, gave the Tribe only three hits in the first seven innings. Rocky Colavito spoiled Foytack's shutout by doubling after Vic Power walked and Minnie Minoso beat out an infield roller in the fourth.

Orangemen Win, 24-14, Over Boston

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP)—Three defensive maneuvers by Syracuse linemen gave the Orange the boost it needed to stage a 24-14 uphill victory over Boston College before 15,000 chilly fans here Saturday.

Blocking kicks and recovering forced fumbles set up the situations after the Orange had spotted the Beantown Eagles a 14-0 first period margin.

Seven times the Eagles fumbled and five times the alert Syracuse took possession. Two came in the last quarter and the host eleven turned the Boston miscues into touchdowns.

Purdue Routs Nebraska In Grid Opener

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP)—Purdue's veteran Boilermakers, giving scouts a few tantalizing glimpses of a little sophomore rocket named Jim Tiller, Saturday overwhelmed the Nebraska Cornhuskers 28-0. A crowd of 42,000 saw the first football meeting of the Big Ten and Big Eight representatives.

Tiller, a 153-pounder from Fremont, Ohio, was not one of Purdue's four touchdown scorers. But he ran over a two-point conversion and made a brilliant 49-yard punt return for a touchdown that was erased by a penalty.

Wolverines Squeeze By So. Cal, 20-19

By DAVE DILES

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—An underdog but gallant Southern California team battled Michigan to the wire Saturday before the Wolverines escaped with a 20-19 triumph in their 79th football opener, witnessed by 77,005 spectators.

Dogged by fumbles and penalties when they needed yardage most, the Trojans scored twice in the final period and would have upset their Big Ten opponents in this intersectional clash except for bad breaks.

Southern California suffered a final crushing blow after its last touchdown when it was penalized twice before it could try for the extra point. A pair of five-yard infractions set the Trojans back to the Michigan 13-yard line and they had to try a pass for the extra point.

It was complete, but short and the out-played Wolverines had their 15th victory in 17 meetings against West Coast opponents.

FORD TO PROBABLY START

World Series Opens With Same Cast Of Characters

By JOE REICHLER

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The 1958 World Series opens here Wednesday with the same cast of characters, the same playing sites, the same managers and most likely the same starting pitchers as last year. Even the 7 to 5 odds favoring the New York Yankees over the Milwaukee Braves are identical to those of October 1957. About the only change is the Braves' coaching staff.

Barring an 11th hour switch by Yankee Manager Casey Stengel or Braves Pilot Fred Haney, the first game pitchers, in all probability, will be Whitey Ford and Warren Spahn. These southpaw aces opened the 1957 classic. The Yankees won the opener but the Braves captured the Series, in sever games.

In many ways, this Series shapes up as the most interesting in years, from the fans' standpoint and the most perplexing to figure, from the experts' corner. Perhaps the biggest eyebrow-raiser is the tremendous faith of the odds-makers in the Yankees After all, the American League champs are virtually the same team which lost three of the final four games to the Braves last October, two of them by shutouts. The same team that was beaten three straight times by Lew Burdette, who will attempt to stretch his streak of 24 consecutive World Series scoreless innings against the Yankees, probably in the second game.

Uppermost in everybody's mind, of course, will be the big question: Can Burdette do it again? Other questions that await answers are 1) have Ford and Don Larsen of 1956 perfect game fame fully recovered from their elbow ailments; 2) Will Wes Covington's damaged left knee hold up for the entire Series? 3) Will a healthy Mickey Mantle and a strong Bill Skowron confirm the belief in some quarters that the principle reason the Braves won last year was because of the crippled condition of these sluggers?

There are other questions. Where will Hogi Berra play on the days when Elston Howard is behind the plate for the Yankees? Will Haney find a place in the Braves' line-up for slugger Joe Adcock, who has lost out to Frank Torre at first base? Will Stengel's radical idea to send an all right-handed hitting line - up against Burdette put an end to the fidgety right-hander's master over the New Yorkers? Is Haney serious in his announced intentions of starting Ernie Johnson, who hasn't started a big league game in nearly four years, in the first game at Yankee Stadium, Saturday?

Yes, indeed, it should be quite an interesting World Series.

An appraisal of the comparative strengths of the teams fails to shed much light as to the final outcome. Milwaukee appears to have the better pitching but the Yankees have a slight edge in hitting, a wider edge in fielding, a still wider edge in over-all speed and an appreciable advantage on the bench.

The critical factor in any World Series is pitching and the Braves have an abundance in that department. In Spahn and Burdette, the Braves have a pair of truly outstanding moundsmen, each capable of starting three games in a seven-game series. Both are primed for the Series, mentally and physically.

The Yankees possibly can match this pair in Ford, a consistently fine performer, and right-hander Bob Turley, who became a 20-game winner for the first time in his career this past season. Ford although he looked impressive in his last two abbreviated starts, has hurled only 12 innings this month and hasn't won a game since he first began complaining about his pitching elbow August 1. Turley's best pitching was done in the first half of the season.

The Yankees' secondary pitching does not compare with that of the Braves, especially if such things as Larsen's swollen elbow, Tom Sturdivant's spike - slashed heel and Ryne Duren's injured knee are taken into account. The likes of Art Ditmar, Johnny Kucks, Bobby Shantz, Duke Maas and Zach Monroe don't measure up to the Braves' Bob Buhl, Carl Willey, Bob Rush, Juan Pizarro, Don McMahon and Johnson.

Army Slaughters South Carolina

WEST POINT, N. Y. (AP) — Pete Dawkins scored four touchdowns and Bob Anderson passed for two Saturday as Army uncovered an eye-popping offensive to clobber South Carolina 48-8, before about 20,000 rain-soaked fans.

Earl Blaik, starting his 25th year as a head coach, had about everyone but the fullback throwing passes in the Cadets' impressive opener. Using an unbalanced line with a wide split end on the strong side—called a "lonesome end" formation—Army outclassed a team that beat Duke a week ago.

Dawkins, captain of the team, brigade commander and head of his class, slipped through from the 4 in the first period, dashed from the 26 in the third, took a pass from Anderson for a 22-yard scoring play, and a 10-yard TD toss from Joe Caldwell. Anderson also threw 3 yards to end Don Usry in the third period for Army's third score within six minutes.

Not until the final period did South Carolina manage to mount a solid threat. Moving against Army's reserves, with King Nixon and Alex Hawkins doing most of the work, South Carolina scored a 1-yard plunge by quarterback Bobby Bunch. The Gamecocks went for the two points and made it on an end run by Hawkins.

Army tried to run it twice for extra points and Maurice Hilliard converted on three of five placements.

Spahn Chalks Up 22nd Victory

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Warren Spahn marked up his 22nd victory Saturday as the Milwaukee Braves, champions of the National League, whipped the Cincinnati Redlegs 6-1 in their second to last game of the regular season. Spahn hit one of the Braves' three home runs.

He tied Bob Friend of Pittsburgh for the lead in major league victories.

Spahn was pulled for a pinch hitter in the sixth inning. But before the game, Manager Fred Haney said he would use his star left-hander for only five or six innings, presumably saving him for World Series action. Spahn allowed five hits in the innings he pitched.

Spahn opened the scoring with a home run in the third inning, his second of the season. He knocked the ball into the right field stands, scoring behind Casey Wise, who had walked. In that same inning, Red Schoendienst hit his first home run of the year. This one also was good for two runs. It came after Eddie Haas singled to right.

Rutgers Pins 28-0 Surprise On Princeton

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — Bill Austin put on a one-man show Saturday as the Rutgers football team turned in an astonishing 2-0 victory over Princeton, the defending Ivy League champion.

Austin was everywhere, doing everything. If a Princeton pass was intercepted, it was Austin. If it was a big Rutgers ground gain, it was Austin. If it was a Rutgers touchdown pass, it was Austin.

Princeton had entered the game a slight favorite in this 49th meeting of the two schools who started the game of intercollegiate football 90 years ago.

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP)—Sophomore Joe Matalavage, a third string fullback, came off the bench to fire Navy to a 14-0 victory over William and Mary Saturday in a football opener played in a driving rain.

The speedy 195-pounder from Mahanoy City, Pa., entered the game late in the second quarter to set up Navy's first touchdown. He sparked a 61-yard drive in the last period which he climaxed with a diving catch of a goal line pass from quarterback Joe Tranchini for the second six-pointer.

98-Yard Run Gives UCLA 18-14 Verdict

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP)—A 98-yard scoring runback of a pass interception by Phil Parslow, second string halfback, Saturday touched off an 18-14 victory for UCLA over Illinois.

Long's passing and running geared an 4-yard touchdown drive in the third period that came minutes after Parslow's electrifying run. It put the Uclans ahead and sent them to their first victory of the campaign. They were trounced 27-6 by Pitt last week.

Twice Long's passes for two points after touchdown failed.

Illinois, guided by 150-pound John Easterbrook, sophomore quarterback whose father played for the Illini 18 years ago, rolled up a 14-6 halftime bulge. Don Grothe's 32-yard run gave the Big Ten team a touchdown in the first quarter and Easterbrook passed for two points and an 18-6 lead.

Sophomores Lead MSU In 32-12 Victory

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Michigan State combined crushing ground power and the liberal use of some sparkling sophomores to overrun California 32-12 in the 1958 Spartan football debut Saturday.

It was the 11th consecutive Spartan victory over West Coast opponents in recent years. The last time a West Coast team beat MSU was when Oregon State pulled a 25-20 upset in 1949.

Irish Pushed To Topple Indiana

By JERRY LISKA
Associated Press Sports Writer

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Notre Dame's vaunted football machine collided with a granite underdog, Indiana's inspired Hoosiers, and needed to pull out all stops for an 18-0 season opening victory Saturday.

Although a substitute halfback, sophomore Bill Mack scored for Notre Dame on an 11-yard run in the second quarter, the Irish appeared to have more than they could handle until they slugged across two more touchdowns in the final quarter.

Quarterback Bob Williams finally got the Irish on the move midway in the fourth quarter and scampered 20 yards on scoring run to cap a 71-yard drive.

The third Irish touchdown was a gift. Indiana's hard-working tailback Tom Kenrick, fumbled and Notre Dame's Monty Stickles grabbed the ball on the Indiana 7. Two plays later, Williams shot a four-yard touchdown pass to Stickles.

Indiana, battling every inch of the way, made its deepest penetration, to Notre Dame's 5 as the game ended with a flare of bad temper.

With time running out, there was some swinging as Notre Dame's Al Sabal tackled Indiana's Tom Campbell and then was piled into by Hoosier Bob Boak.

It was Indiana's first start under former Wyoming coach, Phil Dickens who sat out last season for violation of the Big Ten recruiting code.

Penn Handed Worst Defeat In Five Years

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Penn State walloped Penn with such ridiculous ease Saturday it was difficult to decide whether the Nittany Lions were living up to their lofty pre-season ratings or this was the worst Penn football team in Coach Steve Sebo's sad five-year regime. The final score was 43-0.

State, smarting from last week's opening game upset by Nebraska, dashed whatever hopes Penn followers might have had that this was the year of football resurgence for the Quakers. The Lions unleashed a ground and air attack that pulverized the forlorn Ivy Leaguers.

U.S. Business Shows Signs Of Recovery

NEW YORK (AP) — Business moved from summer into fall this week with signs of recovery busting out all over.

Shoppers with plenty of folding money jammed the nation's department stores. Well-heeled investors and speculators gave the stock market one of its busiest trading sessions of the year.

Sales on the New York Stock Exchange this week totaled 18,481,130 shares as stock averages pushed into new high ground. Stock sales for the previous week were 18,111,266 shares and in the corresponding 1957 week totaled 12,640,380 shares.

Bond sales had a par value of $31,451,100 this week compared to $32,290,000 in the previous week and $23,265,100 in the same week last year.

Stee output and petroleum production set new 1958 highs Machine tool builders reported a September pickup in new orders. In the building industry, contracts awarded for future construction soared to the highest dollar total ever recorded.

Even the long - depressed railroad industry produced some cheerful news: Red ink on railroad ledgers was gradually giving way to black, and freight carloadings were picking up briskly (last week's total of 667,277 cars was the latest word from Detroit where a large segment of the auto industry was hobbled by strikes just as production of the new 1959 cars was about to get rolling.

At week's end General Motors reported 45,000 men idle at 19 plants. Ford closed its huge River Rouge steel works. When strikes against its suppliers cut off the flow of parts, American Motors flagged down production of Ramblers.

Chrysler Corp., also beset with labor troubles, postponed the introduction of its 1959 De Soto, Chrysler and Imperial cars. Instead of bowing Oct. 16 as originally planned, the new models won't appear in dealers' showrooms until Oct. 24.

The cost of borrowing money inched up again this week and even Uncle Sam felt the pinch. Seeking to raise 3½ billion dollars in cash, the U.S. Treasury offered investors two new issues of short-term securities. The interest is double what the treasury offered seven weeks ago.

Try To Head Off Meeting Of Ku Klux

BRAGGS, Ala. (UPI) — Local residents trying to headoff a scheduled state - wide Ku Klux Klan meeting here Saturday night said a petition given the owner of the land rented for the occasion has been ignored.

Jack Griffin, 42, said the petition "has about 50 names on it... but apparently aren't going to pay any attention to it." He said pamphlets announcing the meeting have been circulated throughout Alabama. Braggs, an unincorporated community about 30 miles south of Montgomery, has no police force.

"I think I can speak for most of the residents," Griffin said, "and we're definitely against such a meeting. We've never had any racial trouble and we feel that a Klan meeting would be detrimental to the whole community."

Griffin, a civil service employe at Craig AFB, Selma, said he met with Lorenzo Bender of Braggs, who owns the land, and a representative of the Klan "but I guess they're just going to go ahead with the meeting."

He said Lowndes County Sheriff Frank Ryals "can't do anything because of course the meeting isn't illegal."

Tavern Owner Is Killing Suspect

HATTIESBURG, Miss. (UPI)— A tavern owner remained in jail here Saturday after he was denied bail Friday on a charge of killing Thomas W. Johnson, 31, of Carnes community.

County Judge William Harralson refused to allow bail for Marvin "Red" Lord, 49, declaring, "voluntary intoxication is no defense for a charge of murder."

Lord was alleged to have spent Thursday afternoon drinking while driving around the countryside. It was charged he cleared out his tavern by firing his gun in the air after Johnson threatened to beat him. Then he was alleged to have shot Johnson in front of the tavern.

Clemson Downs Tar Heels, 26-21

By DEL BOOTH

CLEMSON, S. C. (AP)—Clemson passed a major obstacle in its drive for national and Atlantic Coast Conference football honors Saturday with a stirring 26-21 victory over North Carolina. A record crowd of 40,000 that overflowed Clemson's newly enlarged stadium, saw the lead change hands five times.

Clemson won in the final period on an 80 - yard drive. Halfback George Usry, who scored twice, furnished the clincher with a two-yard run with five minutes to go.

Clemson scored its first two touchdowns in the 93-degree sunshine as time ran out at the end of the first and second periods.

All the scoring except Clemson's opener was on sustained drives for more than half the field.

Holy Cross Fumbles Give Pitt 17-0 Win

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Pitt quarterbacks Ivan Toncic and Ed Sharockman, a pair of winged-T magicians, reached deep into their bag of tricks Saturday—and with the help of two alert fumble recoveries—pulled out a 17-0 football victory over Holy Cross.

The combination of Toncic, guard John Guzik and end Art Gob clicked for Pitt's first touchdown in the opening quarter. Sharockman directed drives leading to a third-quarter field goal and a final-quarter touchdown.

The Panthers traveled 62 yards for the first TD after Guzik recovered a tumble by Holy Cross quarterback Tom Greene. Toncic hit Gob with a five-yard heave for the score on fourth down. Then Toncic kicked the conversion.

With Toncic on the sidelines in the second half as a result of a torn rib cartilage, the signal-calling chores fell to Sharockman, a sophomore from St. Clair, Pa., and Peter Prince, a junior from Nashua, N.H.

Sharockman geared the Panthers on two penetrating drives, ending with a 17-yard field goal by Norton Seaman in the third quarter and a 20-yard touchdown run by Chuck Reinhold in the final period. Seaman kicked the point.

Round Table Falls To Clem In Woodward

Round Table, needing $25,141 to catch Nashua who retired with $1,288,565, wasn't even in the money, finishing a dismal fifth 6½ lengths behind the winner. Reneged was third and Third Brother fourth.

For Willie Shoemaker, Clem's jockey, it was another banner afternoon, and marked the sixth consecutive Saturday he had won a major race. The little Texan used to ride Round Table, but has been aboard Clem in his last two winning races.

Sophomores Lead MSU In 32-12 Victory

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Michigan State combined crushing ground power and the liberal use of some sparkling sophomores to overrun California 32-12 in the 1958 Spartan football debut Saturday.

It was the 11th consecutive Spartan victory over West Coast opponents in recent years. The last time a West Coast team beat MSU was when Oregon State pulled a 25-20 upset in 1949.

Irish Pushed To Topple Indiana

By JERRY LISKA
Associated Press Sports Writer

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Notre Dame's vaunted football machine collided with a granite underdog, Indiana's inspired Hoosiers, and needed to pull out all stops for an 18-0 season opening victory Saturday.

Although a substitute halfback, sophomore Bill Mack scored for Notre Dame on an 11-yard run in the second quarter, the Irish appeared to have more than they could handle until they slugged across two more touchdowns in the final quarter.

Quarterback Bob Williams finally got the Irish on the move midway in the fourth quarter and scampered 20 yards on scoring run to cap a 71-yard drive.

The third Irish touchdown was a gift. Indiana's hard-working tailback Tom Kenrick, fumbled and Notre Dame's Monty Stickles grabbed the ball on the Indiana 7. Two plays later, Williams shot a four-yard touchdown pass to Stickles.

Indiana, battling every inch of the way, made its deepest penetration, to Notre Dame's 5 as the game ended with a flare of bad temper.

With time running out, there was some swinging as Notre Dame's Al Sabal tackled Indiana's Tom Campbell and then was piled into by Hoosier Bob Boak .

It was Indiana's first start under former Wyoming coach, Phil Dickens who sat out last season for violation of the Big Ten recruiting code.

Penn Handed Worst Defeat In Five Years

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Penn State walloped Penn with such ridiculous ease Saturday it was difficult to decide whether the Nittany Lions were living up to their lofty pre-season ratings or this was the worst Penn football team in Coach Steve Sebo's sad five-year regime. The final score was 43-0.

State, smarting from last week's opening game upset by Nebraska, dashed whatever hopes Penn followers might have had that this was the year of football resurgence for the Quakers. The Lions unleashed a ground and air attack that pulverized the forlorn Ivy Leaguers.

U.S. Business Shows Signs Of Recovery

NEW YORK (AP) — Business moved from summer into fall this week with signs of recovery busting out all over.

Shoppers with plenty of folding money jammed the nation's department stores. Well-heeled investors and speculators gave the stock market one of its busiest trading sessions of the year.

Sales on the New York Stock Exchange this week totaled 18,481,130 shares as stock averages pushed into new high ground. Stock sales for the previous week were 18,111,266 shares and in the corresponding 1957 week totaled 12,640,380 shares.

Bond sales had a par value of $31,451,100 this week compared to $32,290,000 in the previous week and $23,265,100 in the same week last year.

Stee output and petroleum production set new 1958 highs. Machine tool builders reported a September pickup in new orders. In the building industry, contracts awarded for future construction soared to the highest dollar total ever recorded.

Even the long - depressed railroad industry produced some cheerful news: Red ink on railroad ledgers was gradually giving way to black, and freight carloadings were picking up briskly (last week's total of 667,277 cars was the latest word from Detroit where a large segment of the auto industry was hobbled by strikes just as production of the new 1959 cars was about to get rolling.

At week's end General Motors reported 45,000 men idle at 19 plants. Ford closed its huge River Rouge steel works. When strikes against its suppliers cut off the flow of parts, American Motors flagged down production of Ramblers.

Chrysler Corp., also beset with labor troubles, postponed the introduction of its 1959 De Soto, Chrysler and Imperial cars. Instead of bowing Oct. 16 as originally planned, the new models won't appear in dealers' showrooms until Oct. 24.

The cost of borrowing money inched up again this week and even Uncle Sam felt the pinch. Seeking to raise 3½ billion dollars in cash, the U.S. Treasury offered investors two new issues of short-term securities. The interest is double what the treasury offered seven weeks ago.

Clemson Downs Tar Heels, 26-21

By DEL BOOTH

CLEMSON, S. C. (AP)—Clemson passed a major obstacle in its drive for national and Atlantic Coast Conference football honors Saturday with a stirring 26-21 victory over North Carolina. A record crowd of 40,000 that overflowed Clemson's newly enlarged stadium, saw the lead change hands five times.

Clemson won in the final period on an 80 - yard drive. Halfback George Usry, who scored twice, furnished the clincher with a two-yard run with five minutes to go.

Clemson scored its first two touchdowns in the 93-degree sunshine as time ran out at the end of the first and second periods.

All the scoring except Clemson's opener was on sustained drives for more than half the field.

Holy Cross Fumbles Give Pitt 17-0 Win

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Pitt quarterbacks Ivan Toncic and Ed Sharockman, a pair of winged-T magicians, reached deep into their bag of tricks Saturday—and with the help of two alert fumble recoveries—pulled out a 17-0 football victory over Holy Cross.

The combination of Toncic, guard John Guzik and end Art Gob clicked for Pitt's first touchdown in the opening quarter. Sharockman directed drives leading to a third-quarter field goal and a final-quarter touchdown.

The Panthers traveled 62 yards for the first TD after Guzik recovered a fumble by Holy Cross quarterback Tom Greene. Toncic hit Gob with a five-yard heave for the score on fourth down. Then Toncic kicked the conversion.

With Toncic on the sidelines in the second half as a result of a torn rib cartilage, the signal-calling chores fell to Sharockman, a sophomore from St. Clair, Pa., and Peter Prince, a junior from Nashua, N.H.

Sharockman geared the Panthers on two penetrating drives, ending with a 17-yard field goal by Norton Seaman in the third quarter and a 20-yard touchdown run by Chuck Reinhold in the final period. Seaman kicked the point.

Round Table Falls To Clem In Woodward

Round Table, needing $25,141 to catch Nashua who retired with $1,288,565, wasn't even in the money, finishing a dismal fifth 6½ lengths behind the winner. Reneged was third and Third Brother fourth.

For Willie Shoemaker, Clem's jockey, it was another banner afternoon, and marked the sixth consecutive Saturday he had won a major race. The little Texan used to ride Round Table, but has been aboard Clem in his last two winning races.

Try To Head Off Meeting Of Ku Klux

BRAGGS, Ala. (UPI) — Local residents trying to headoff a scheduled state - wide Ku Klux Klan meeting here Saturday night said a petition given the owner of the land rented for the occasion has been ignored.

Jack Griffin, 42, said the petition "has about 50 names on it... but apparently aren't going to pay any attention to it." He said pamphlets announcing the meeting have been circulated throughout Alabama. Braggs, an uninincorporated community about 30 miles south of Montgomery, has no police force.

"I think I can speak for most of the residents," Griffin said, "and we're definitely against such a meeting. We've never had any racial trouble and we feel that a Klan meeting would be detrimental to the whole community."

Griffin, a civil service employe at Craig AFB, Selma, said he met with Lorenzo Bender of Braggs, who owns the land, and a representative of the Klan "but I guess they're just going to go ahead with the meeting."

He said Lowndes County Sheriff Frank Ryals "can't do anything because of course the meeting isn't illegal."

Tavern Owner Is Killing Suspect

HATTIESBURG, Miss. (UPI)—A tavern owner remained in jail here Saturday after he was denied bail Friday on a charge of killing Thomas W. Johnson, 31, of Carnes community.

County Judge William Harralson refused to allow bail for Marvin "Red" Lord, 49, declaring, "voluntary intoxication is no defense for a charge of murder."

Lord was alleged to have spent Thursday afternoon drinking while driving around the countryside. It was charged he cleared out his tavern by firing his gun in the air after Johnson threatened to beat him. Then he was alleged to have shot Johnson in front of the tavern.

City With Ultramodern Buildings Rising In Brazil

By JULIUS GOLDEN

BRASILIA, Brazil (AP)—Deep in the tropical wilderness, a piledriver slams its shaft home. The clamor of thousands of workers mixes with that of the hammering tools. Red dust floats lazily through the tropical air.

A city of ultramodern buildings is rising here, embodying the hopes for the future of the 5 million people who inhabit this vast land of Brazil.

They call it Brasilia.

Brasilia, the future capital of Brazil, is located almost 600 miles northwest of Rio de Janeiro — the present capital — in the heart of the tropics. But since its altitude is about 3,000 feet, the climate is mild throughout the year.

The government will move here officially April 21, 1960 — if all goes well. Only two years ago the future seat of government was the home of wild animals, poisonous snakes and an occasional adventurous homesteader.

In the last two years the new city has grown with amazing rapidity. Until a short time ago everything — construction materials included — had to be flown in. Now new highways connect Brasilia with coastal Brazil.

Inspired by the almost obsessive dream of President Juscelino Kubitschek, architects, construction workers and laborers have poured their hearts into construction of the new city.

Although a new capital was envisioned more than a century ago, it was Kubitschek who, in the face of stiff opposition, made its construction a reality. Most of the criticism came from Rio de Janeiro, which sees itself being relegated to a secondary position in a future Brail.

The critical sneers of yesterday have died away. Those who believed the capital could never be moved, now realize the shift is as certain as Kubitschek's determination. And Kubitschek, ignoring those who called Brasilia folly at a time when Brazil's economy is ailing, declared:

"From this central plateau, this solitude which soon will be transformed into a brain of high national decisions, I set eyes once more on the tormorrow of my native land and foresee this dawn with unbreakable faith and limitless confidence for its great destiny."

Brasilia today has a population of more than 30,000 — almost all construction workers and laborers or shopkeepers supplying essential goods.

It has the look of a prairie boom town except where the presidential Palace of Dawn and the Brasilia Hotel thrust their futuristic appearance into the scene. Rising today are handsome ministries and congressional buildings. U. S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, who visited here in August, tightened the nut on the first steel girder of the Foreign Ministry building.

Both the Brasilia Hotel and the presidential palace set the architectural tone. The hotel is a huge concrete edifice looking like a giant, rectangular block of cement supported on stilts. The presidential palace — built at an estimated cost of three million dollars — is a marble, aluminum and glass dream resting on seemingly delicate wing-shaped supports. An artificial lake will complete the palace grounds.

Already completed are more than 500 brick and cement dwellings that will house government workers, and more are rising daily.

New highways, completed or near completion will connect Brasilia with equatorial Belem, 70 miles to the north at the mouth of the Amazon, and to Goiana, 134 miles to the southwest, capital of the state of Goias where Brasilia is located. Roads under construction will eventually connect Brasilia with Rio de Janeiro, 54 miles to the southwest, and to Sao Paulo, the industrial center of this nation, 605 miles south.

Brasilia, which will have all conviences, even U. S. designed golf courses, was laid out in the form of a giant cross, looking much like an airplane with tremendous wings and a small fuselage. It was designed by Lucio Costa, a famous Brazilian architect. The buildings were designed by Oscar Niemeyer, Brazil's world - famous architect and personal friend of Kubitschek.

Niemeyer, who was told beauty came before cost in constructing the new city, spends a great deal of time here.

Brasilia is planned for a maximum population of 50,000. There will be two main thoroughfares — one making up the horizontal piece of the cross and the other the vertical. The intersecting streets on the horizontal thoroughfare will be lined with residential areas. The vertical piece will be the government area — sites of ministries, Congress, embassies — and and the business and banking areas. Embassy Row is already laid out on paper and lots have been assigned.

Many may well ask why Brazil, which already has one of the most beautiful capitals in the world in Rio de Janeiro, should want to move.

Kubitschek said in a recent speech:

"We cannot go on forever being a territory spotted with deserts, with most of the population glued to the seacoast and with the richest zones of our territory abandoned."

Rio itself is overcrowded and fraught with serious problems ranging from traffic to lack of drinking water.

Kubitschek hopes that by moving the capital, vast new areas will be opened in the interior. The construction of the highway between Brasilia and Belem has already opened one new area. In many ways the move compares with the westward movement of the pioneers in the United States 100 years ago.

The new city will cost millions of dollars, but just exactly how much is not known. Israel Pinheiros, head of Novacap, the company building the city on government appropriations, has estimated the cost of the buildings alone at about 137 million dollars. Railroads into the city will cost another 17 million. The whole works will probably reach 200 million dollars.

The United States has loaned Brazil 10 million dollars to aid in Brasilia's construction.

On the other hand, Novacap is selling land to future builders and making back some of the expenditures.

The costs have caused criticism since Brazil now is in the midst of an economic crisis. It recently borrowed 158 million dollars from the United States to pay debts. Critics argue the money appropriated for Brasilia could be better spent bolstering the economy.

But when the capital is moved in 1960, a vision of the past will become a reality. Even back in the days of the empire — in 1822 — one adviser to the emperor spoke of a new capital in the interior. Since the start of the republic in 1889, successive constitutions have mentioned the new capital.

Today the dream is coming true.

By G. K. HODENFIELD
AP Educational Writer

It's easy to say, and a lot of people have said it: "There's nothing wrong with education in this country that a little more money won't cure."

Now the government has stepped in with a 900-million-dollar program to finance four years of federal aid to education. It features loans to college students, cash grants for graduate study, and pump-priming to strengthen the teaching of science, mathematics and modern foreign languages.

This probably is not the cure for all the ills that have beset education. However it's still too early to know.

One thing seems certain: the program should increase the supply of teachers (present shortage: about 135,000.)

But will the program enable more students to go to college? Will it increase the number of Americans proficient in foreign language? Will it furnish more scientists and engineers?

Maybe.

Let's look at the student loan program.

This provides 10 - year, 3 per cent loans for college students, up to $1,000 a year but not more than a total of $5,000. Repayment must begin a year after the borrower leaves college.

Preference goes to good students who (1) want to teach, or (2) have shown particular aptitude in science, mathematics or foreign language.

If the borrower actually goes into teaching in a public school, up to half the amount borrowed will be canceled, at the rate of 10 per cent a year for the first five years.

The loan program has raised two questions:

1. Is it really going to do the job for which it was designed — help more of the nation's bright students get a college education?

2. Is it a good idea for a graduate to come out of college already burdened with a debt of $4,000 or $5,000?

Most educators say any young person with good grades and real determination can get a college education. Old fashioned as it may sound, thousands of young people are working their way through college every year.

John N. Stalnaker, president of the National Merit Scholarship Foundation, told a congressional committee his group identified 15,000 of the nation's brightest high school seniors last year. A sample check, he said, showed 97 per cent of the top 7,500 went to college, as did 95 per cent of the lower 7,500.

Loan program or no loan program, the best seem to be going to college. It may be on their own hook or it may be with the aid of one of the 300,000 scholarships — totaling around 70 million dollars — available each year through universities, industry and private organizations.

Certainly, a student loan program can be a helping hand, giving the student less time working and more time studying. But there probably never will be accurate figures showing how many students went to college because the federal loan program existed.

Congress eliminated all provisions for federal scholarships from the legislation. But it did provide fellowships for graduate work — 1,000 for the fiscal year ending next June 30 and 1,500 for each of the following three fiscal years.

The fellowships may be awarded for up to three years of graduate work — the time normally required to earn a doctor's degree. They offer cash awards of $2,000 for the first year, $2,220 for the second and $2,400 for the third, all plus $400 a year for each dependent.

This part of the law strikes directly at a growing American problem by giving preference to persons interested in teaching at institutions of higher education. The number of doctor's degrees awarded has been steadily declining. So has the percentage of those who go into teaching after earning their doctorate.

This project can hardly fill the estimated need for 180,000 to 270,000 college instructors during the next 12 years. But if the fellowship program is a success, its benefits should be spread all along the educational line.

Better teachers in colleges and universities mean better teachers in grade and high schools.

Science, mathematics and foreign languages have long been the weak sisters in America's educational family, though not as weak as many post - Sputnik critics would have you believe.

To meet this problem, Congress authorized expenditure of 70 million dollars a year for four years for "minor" remodeling of laboratories and the purchase of special equipment.

But this program has a built - in stop light. The states have to match the federal grants, dollar for dollar. If the states figure they are spending enough money as it is, they can block the program before it gets started.

The U. S office of education doesn't look for a miracle from the program. The best it expects is that the teaching of science, math and modern foreign languages will be given a solid push.

Another portion of the bill tries to deal with the tragic loss of some of the nation's brightest students who end their education below the college level — some 200,000 of them each year. These aren't necessarily the ones with the top grades; some of them flunk out and others drop out for no apparent reason.

The bill provides a testing, guidance and counseling program. The idea is basic: guide the high school student into fields of study best suited to his abilities and encourage the more able ones to prepare for college.

The bill authorizes 15 million dollars a year for four years to finance state programs for testing, guidance and counseling. For the fiscal year ending next June 30, the states need put up no money. After that it's on a 50-50 basis.

Another part of the bill calls for the establishment of institutes at colleges and universities for training counselors and guidance officers.

Congress also authorized the expenditure of 18 million dollars during the next four school years to finance a study of how such things as television, radio, film strips and the like can best be fitted to the nation's educational needs.

This is an experimental look - see project with potential far - reaching effects. However, its short - range effect probably won't be noticeable.

Another provision is for establishment of foreign language and area centers to train individuals in the language, background and customs of foreign lands.

These are the high spots of the aid to education bill.

People opposed to any sort of federal aid to education will continue to say it's going to lead to federal control of schools. And folks who think this is a false assumption will continue to say the aid program doesn't go far enough —that it ignores the pressing problems of classroom shortage and low teachers' salaries.

The truth probably lies somewhere in between. It's no crash program which is going to change the face of American education overnight. But it goes much farther than the government has ever gone before.

Extravagance Stressed In Modern Bath

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Porcelain and chrome may suit us average Americans. But the big-money crowd from coast to coast is going in for marble tubs and golden plumbing.

Arthur Ward, head of a 100-year-old company that is the Tiffany of the custom period hardware business, finds that his gold plumbing fittings sales have increased over 400 per cent in the past two years and, despite the recession, are still increasing.

"Gold-plated bathroom fixtures have always been the ultimate in luxury and always popular with those who could afford them," says Ward. "But recently there has been even more interest.

"I suspect part of it is the conspicuous consumption motive: 'Look, I can even afford golden faucets! But there's also the fact that people have concentrated on the kitchen until just about everything that can be done has been done. Now they are looking at the bathroom. Bathrooms are getting bigger — becoming combination dressing rooms — and there is a definite trend toward sunken tubs."

Ward says that the gold plumbing fixtures part of P. E. Guerin's business — he's the third generation of the family to head the company — hasn't seen such a landslide of business since the good old pre-depression days when steel's Charlie Schwab ordered himself a bathtub cut from a solid block of onyx.

Today gold bathroom accessories are so popular that a "mass" market for this extravagance has developed. Gold plumbing "masses" are built of folks living in homes costing a minimum of $40,000. In a recent listing of the 10 richest men in the country, Ward counted seven buyers of Guerin hardware.

If the chrome fittings in your porcelain bathroom basin, two water faucets and a mixing spout cost $25, gold plated replacements would set you back between $125 and $600, Ward says, depending on the amount of detail.

At the moment, the very rich are giving Louis XVI the big play in bathrooms. In the $40,000 houses the big interest is in Renaissance and empire periods.

"There used to be a steady demand for Renaissance—15th century French, dolphins and empire; 19th century French, swans," Ward says. "Now, too many people are using them, and dophins and swans have become cliches. So the big period is the delicate Louis XVI."

Ward delights in the validity of period hardware designs, and he regrets that many have little respect for — and less knowledge of — purity of periods, even in bathroom decor.

He recalls with dismay receiving blueprints for an expansive bathroom from a decorator who proposed to combine Louis XV faucets and spout with Renaissance mirror trim, Louis XVI lighting fixtures and empire legs and feet on the marble washbasin.

"A mish mash," he declares. "Bronx Renaissance. But if the nouveaux don't know it, what are you going to do?"

Ward's big problem is the diminishing supply of skilled craftsmen, whose delicate finishing work makes the difference between mass market fixtures and the expensive product. Of his four craftsmen, the youngest is 64 and the oldest is 87 — and Ward hired the 87-year-old just the other day. Young people just aren't going into the craft anymore.

"But the demand for authentic period hardware has held up," Ward says. "It is just that it is more spread out. Big houses are disappearing. In the old days it was not unusual to get a single order for $100,000 worth of hardware for a house. The biggest order we've had since the war was for $40,000 — a millionaire was decorating a seven-room apartment."

Old Biblical Port Of Elath Reborn

By JOHN RODERICK

ELATH, Israel (AP) — A thousand years before Christ, the proud merchant fleets of King Solomon, laden with precious copper, rode at anchor off this ancient port.

Rusty ships carrying equally precious cargoes — oil and goods for growing, young Israel — lie motionless today in the same deep blue waters off modern Elath, reborn as a port city only two years ago.

The Elath of biblical times, which thrived on the commerce from Solomon's copper mines, 15 miles north of here, languished and died in the centuries that followed.

BRITISH

When the British broke the 300-year Turkish grip on the Holy Land in World War I, they found it a barren strip of coast, withering under the hot blasts from the Negev Desert. It's only use as a small military outpost.

Israel's 1956 military campaign against Egypt in the Sinai made Elath suddenly important. Before that expedition hostile Arab neighbors had effectively barred ships of all nations from reaching Israel's southernmost coast through the Dead Sea.

The Israeli victory secured the Straits of Tiran, leading into the Gulf of Aqaba, against further interference. Ships began moving, for the first time, to Elath. Today, it is an active port.

It had taken Israel eight years to acquire this window on Asia and Africa. Her leaders energetically exploited the situation, speedily constructing port facilities and offering inducements in the way of tax exemptions to anyone who would choose to settle in Elath.

Some 6,000 men — and a few women—have made Elath their home, working in the port, building homes and shops, and planning ambitiously for the future.

SPARSELY

The streets are sparsely settled, but they are wide and paved, ready for the bigger buildings her frontier-style citizens expect tomorrow.

Israel's newly - important southern gateway to the East occupies a scant six - mile frontage on the Red Sea. At night, the lights of Jordan's southern port of Aqaba twinkle a few thousand yards away. Next to it is Saudi Arabia. The sandy wastes of Egypt's Sinai Desert stretch to the west.

Israel is aware that these Arab neighbors are hostile. Two corvettes keep a vigilant eye out for unusual developments, and Israeli torpedo boats police the adjacent waters.

But Israeli troops, here in small numbers, give little evidence of belligerency. They join tourists on the beaches to splash in the extraordinarily clear waters of the gulf within sight of Jordan's shores.

The border line between the two countries is mined and patrols stand guard to prevent infiltration.

But there are few incidents.

The driest area in Israel, Elath has a rainfall of 1.2 inches annually contrasted to the 37.4 inches which falls in the upper Galilee.

And the summer temperatures are high — averaging 78 to 105 degrees Fahrenheit in August. In winter, its mild, temperate weather, rarely falling below 50 degrees or exceeding 70, makes it a favorable Israeli winter resort.

The Elath Hotel, a splendid modern building all of whose air conditioned rooms face the sea, has just been completed to meet the tourist influx. Its five stories tower over the buildings in the little city, built on the hillside half a mile away.

Most of the new port's inhabitants live either in jointly shared bachelor quarters, one or two stories high, or have their own, small apartments.

The city's principal building is the Philip Murray Community Center, contributed by the AFL-CIO to honor the late American labor leader. Without it, Elath would be bleak, indeed. It houses a library, an auditorium for vintage motion pictures, a snack bar and a game room. It is the most popular place in town.

POPULARITY

Next in popularity are the city's few cafes, mostly out of doors, where her rough-and-ready inhabitants sit under bright stars or a big moon drinking Israeli beer, soft drinks or coffee. Sometimes, when the crews of visiting ships come ashore, they are lively spots.

Elath is a city of men with a job to do under difficult physical circumstances. And many of them reflect their surroundings, unshaven, shirttails out, ready for a quarrel. Security officers report fairly frequent personal clashes. But big crimes are scarce.

Although some of the men unstrap their pistols and lay them on the table when they sit down to dinner in the restaurants, there is no swashbuckling, no lightning draws.

But the conventions are considerably more relaxed here than elsewhere in Israel. The Sabbath for example, which is strictly observed in Tel Aviv and Jerusalem, is liberally interpreted. Restaurants stay open. Instead of remaining indoors, Elathians move about freely.

But the government has decided that though it is remote it shall not be inaccessible. An excellent, macadam road now runs from Elath to Tel Aviv on the Mediterranean.

And, Arkia, the internal airline, makes eight to ten flights a day between the two cities, covering the distance in slightly more than an hour.

Besides the road and the airline, Elath is linked to the rest of Israel by an oil pipeline which pumps the liquid black cargoes from ocean tankers to the north.

And in process of construction is a railway which also will eventually tie Elath with the north. It is expected to be completed by 1963.

Solomon's copper mine is the sole visible relic of the Biblical Elath. The ancient mine has little or no yield today, but the deposits have been probed. In 1957 it was established that 10½ million tons of proved copper ore reserves exist, ready for exploitation.

King Solomon's copper is one of the last souvenirs available to air travelers leaving Israel. In a box at Lod Airport there are samples of the geenish ore, with a printed invitation to take some of it home as a memento.

Munich Pact Of 20 Years Still Appeasement Symbol

(During his recent speech to the nation on the Formosa crisis, President Eisenhower cited the Munich Agreement of 1938 in warning against appeasement of Red China. Tuesday, Sept. 30, will mark the 20th anniversary of that fruitless attempt to avert World War II. The following dispatch recounts the tragic events that led up to and followed "Munich").

By JOSEPH W. GRIGG

LONDON (UPI) —"This is peace in our time," cried the old man with the umbrella, waving a scrap of paper.

"Peace," roared back the crowd jamming the sidewalks outside 10 Downing St. Then it burst into a storm of frantic cheering.

The date was Sept. 30, 1938. Neville Chamberlain, Prime Minister of Britain, a "man of peace to the depths of my soul," had just flown back to London from Munich. There, only a few hours earlier, along with Adolf Hitler of Germany, Benito Mussolini of Italy and Edouard Daladier of France, he had signed the Munich Agreement, carving up little Czechoslovakia.

With him, Chamberlain also brought back a document to which he and Hitler had signed their names only that morning, pledging "the desire of our two people never to go to war with one another again."

That warm, muggy September night in 1938, Neville Chamberlain, the "man of peace," the man who had won "peace in our time," was a national hero.

But a later year, Britain and France were locked in World War II with a Nazi Germany which had broken every pledge made to Chamberlain. The very name of Munich had become for all time the symbol of appeasement, defeat and sell - out. Two years later, Chamberlain, chased from office a broken and discarded man, was dead.

But on Sept. 30, 1938, Britain felt only immense national relief at being rescued from the brink of the abyss.

The Czechoslovak crisis had been boiling up for a year and a half — in fact, ever since Hitler grabbed Austria in the spring of 1938.

Nearly 3,000,000 of Czechoslovakia's 14,700,000 population were German - speaking. Most of them lived in the Sudetenland, the strip of territory bordering Czechoslovakia's frontiers with the Reich.

Within days after the Austrian Anschluss, the Sudeten Germans began agitating for an Anschluss of their own. To back their demands, Hitler moved troops toward the Czech border.

The government of President Edouard Benes in Prague offered negotiations and concessions. But the only answer of Sudeten bosses Konrad Henlein and Karl - Herman Frank, both Nazi henchmen of Hitler, was to increase their demands. With Hitler's Army and Luftwaffe massing menacingly, tension mounted. The Chamberlain government sent Lord Runciman to Prague as mediator in the hope of avoiding a conflict.

Benes offered new concessions, including virtual autonomy for the Sudeten—everything they wanted, in fact, short of handing the territory over to Nazi Germany.

On Sept. 12, in a speech to the Nazi Party's annual congress at Nuremberg, Hitler upped his demands and called for "the right of self - determination" for the Sudetens. At the same time, he ordered his general staff to prepare for "Operation Green" — the invasion of Czechoslovakia. Now he would be satisfied with nothing short of outright annexation of the Sudetenland.

On Sept. 15 Chamberlain himself flew to Berchtesgaden on the first of three "peace" missions he was to make during the Czechoslovak crisis. He returned a worried and shaken man after Hitler told him in a three-hour harangue that he was willing to risk a world war to obtain the Sudetenland.

Chamberlain consulted with the British cabinet and on Sept. 19 he urged Benes to surrender the predominantly German areas of the Sudetenland in exchange for "general guarantees" against unprovoked aggression.

The Czechs accepted—reluctantly—in order to save themselves from isolation. On Sept. 22 Chamberlain flew to see Hitler again, this time at Bad Godesberg on the Rhine, to tell him Benes had agreed to give up the Sudetenland.

But once again Hitler upped the ante.

He told a shocked and angered Chamberlain that it now was too late for the terms the Prime Minister had pressured Benes in to accepting. He demanded nothing short of immediate Czech withdrawal from the Sudetenland and completion of the handover by Oct. 1, failing which Hitler would destroy Czechoslovakia by force.

On Sept. 23 the Czechs mobilized. Next day Chamberlain returned to London. France, bound by treaty to come to Czechoslovakia's aid, mobilized 500,000 men. The British government distributed gas masks and began digging air raid shelters in London's parks.

With war clouds rolling up fast, Chamberlain made still another desperate attempt to save the peace.

He dispatched his close advisor, Sir Horace Wilson, to Berlin with a final appeal to Hitler to agree to an "orderly settlement" by an international conference. That same night, Sept. 26, in a speech at Berlin's Sportpalast, Hitler delivered an ultimatum demanding that the Sudetenland be surrendered by Oct. 1. Once this was done, he declared, "I shall have no further territorial claims in Europe."

Twice in the next 24 hours, President Roosevelt appealed to Hitler to avoid war. Hitler's reply was to give orders for "Operation Green" to begin Sept. 30.

The night of Sept. 27 Chamberlain broadcast a pathetic message to the British people speaking of "a quarrel in a far - away country between peoples of whom we know nothing."

Next day, Mussolini urged Hitler to avoid force. As Chamberlain addressed the House of Commons on the afternoon of Sept. 28, he was brought a message announcing that Hitler had agreed to a four - power meeting at Munich next day.

On Sept. 29, Chamberlain, Hitler, Mussolini and Daladier met at the "Fuehrerhaus" in Munich. At 2 a.m. on the morning of Sept. 30 they put their names to the Munich agreement.

It provided that the Czechs should begin evacuating the Sudetenland on Oct. 1 and that the surrender should be completed by Oct. 10. An international commission was to supervise a plebiscite in the areas without an overwhelming German population.

Later that morning Chamberlain visited Hitler again before returning to London and signed with him the document pledging the desire of both peoples "never to go to war with one another again."

Six months later, Hitler invaded Czechoslovakia and a year later the world was plunged into the greatest conflict in its history. Even that was not the end.

China, Korea, Indo - China, Malaya, Suez, Algeria, Cyprus — hardly for a day have the guns been silent.

Adenauer Begins 10th Year At Helm Of West Germany

BONN, Germany (AP)—When Parliament opens its new session this week, Konrad Adenauer — the world's busiest octogenarian — will launch his 10th year at the helm of West Germany.

For a decade now Adenauer, who will be 83 in January, has been a seemingly ageless champion of unity and strength in Western Europe. His solemn stony face is familiar around the world and that stern visage has generated the widespread legend that he is a man stiff, deliberate, forbidding.

But the legend is all wrong: the exterior is a mask.

Konrad Adenauer has a wild passion for speed and a kittenish sense of humor, a man who likes nothing better than a good joke or a glass of good wine. And what's more, he is sometimes as impulsive as a schoolboy.

It is, no doubt, the look of the man that has caused the legend to arise. When in repose his face is about as expressive as a wrinkled cabbage.

His expression, however, by no means mirrors what is inside the man. In a literal sense it is a false front. Forty years ago Adenauer's passion for speed led to a serious automobile accident and the facial mask was carved by plastic surgery.

There are few persons inside this country who see Adenauer as an ordinary human being. His passionate supporters consider him a kind of saint. His equally passionate opponents belabor him an an arrogant — if benevolent—dictator.

His is neither saint nor dictator — but there is truth on both sides.

His devotion to Roman Catholic principles is absolute and his views are thoroughly colored by Catholic dogma. And he can be as supremely high-handed as a Ceaser.

They call him "Der Alte" —or "The Old Man" — but that's just a name.

He is an astonishing human phenomenon whose physical stamina has been known to wear out men many years younger than himself.

Up every morning at the crack of dawn, he has his bedroom lights burning long after the residents of his sleepy village of Rhoendorf across the Rine from Bonn have gone to sleep.

But it isn't often high-level politics that keeps the lamp glowing. More frequently it's a detective thriller in his lap.

Adenauer fancies himself an expert on all sorts of things, including such assorted items as 15th century painting, the intricacies of flower cultivation, mystery storeis and the complexities of wine growing.

One of this country's most popular guessing games is what keeps Adenauer going at an age when most men would be content to languish in their armchairs and quietly contemplate the lives behind them.

Some suggest the Chancellor's striking physical prowess is due to injections of monkey gland fluid, but there is no evidence to support this.

Another cause is certainly Adenauer's capacity to relax when necessary. That's where gardening and music appear.

Adenauer himself has three rules which he sometimes lists as his secret for a long life: 1. You must come from good stock, 2, you must eat sparingly, and 3, you must have a purpose in life.

His purpose: "To lead Germany back into the family of nations and help in the unification of Western Europe."

MIXED-UP SPEED

HAMPTON, Va. (AP)—Hampton Patrolman R. B. Robertson, investigating an accident in which one auto rammed the rear of another, was told by the driver of the front car "I was doing 40 m.p.h."

Then the driver of the second car, when questioned by Robertson, said he "was only going 38 m.p.h."

City With Ultramodern Buildings Rising In Brazil

By JULIUS GOLDEN

BRASILIA, Brazil (AP)—Deep in the tropical wilderness, a piledriver slams its shaft home. The clamor of thousands of workers mixes with that of the hammering tools. Red dust floats lazily through the tropical air.

A city of ultramodern buildings is rising here, embodying the hopes for the future of the 5 million people who inhabit this vast land of Brazil.

They call it Brasilia.

Brasilia, the future capital of Brazil, is located almost 600 miles northwest of Rio de Janeiro — the present capital — in the heart of the tropics. But since its altitude is about 3,000 feet, the climate is mild throughout the year.

The government will move here officially April 21, 1960 — if all goes well. Only two years ago the future seat of government was the home of wild animals, poisonous snakes and an occasional adventurous homesteader.

In the last two years the new city has grown with amazing rapidity. Until a short time ago everything — construction materials included — had to be flown in. Now new highways connect Brasilia with coastal Brazil.

Inspired by the almost obsessive dream of President Juscelino Kubitschek, architects, construction workers and laborers have poured their hearts into construction of the new city.

Although a new capital was envisioned more than a century ago, it was Kubitschek who, in the face of stiff opposition, made its construction a reality. Most of the criticism came from Rio de Janeiro, which sees itself being relegated to a secondary position in a future Brail.

The critical sneers of yesterday have died away. Those who believed the capital could never be moved, now realize the shift is as certain as Kubitschek's determination. And Kubitschek, ignoring those who called Brasilia folly at a time when Brazil's economy is ailing, declared:

"From this central plateau, this solitude which soon will be transformed into a brain of high national decisions, I set eyes once more on the tormorrow of my native land and foresee this dawn with unbreakable faith and limitless confidence for its great destiny."

Brasilia today has a population of more than 30,000 — almost all construction workers and laborers or shopkeepers supplying essential goods.

It has the look of a prairie boom town except where the presidential Palace of Dawn and the Brasilia Hotel thrust their futuristic appearance into the scene. Rising today are handsome ministries and congressional buildings. U. S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, who visited here in August, tightened the nut on the first steel girder of the Foreign Ministry building.

Both the Brasilia Hotel and the presidential palace set the architectural tone. The hotel is a huge concrete edifice looking like a giant, rectangular block of cement supported on stilts. The presidential palace — built at an estimated cost of three million dollars — is a marble, aluminum and glass dream resting on seemingly delicate wing-shaped supports. An artificial lake will complete the palace grounds.

Already completed are more than 500 brick and cement dwellings that will house government workers, and more are rising daily.

New highways, completed or near completion will connect Brasilia with equatorial Belem, 70 miles to the north at the mouth of the Amazon, and to Goiana, 134 miles to the southwest, capital of the state of Goias where Brasilia is located. Roads under construction will eventually connect Brasilia with Rio de Janeiro, 54 miles to the southwest, and to Sao Paulo, the industrial center of this nation, 605 miles south.

Brasilia, which will have all conviences, even U. S. designed golf courses, was laid out in the form of a giant cross, looking much like an airplane with tremendous wings and a small fuselage. It was designed by Lucio Costa, a famous Brazilian architect. The buildings were designed by Oscar Niemeyer, Brazil's world - famous architect and personal friend of Kubitschek.

Niemeyer, who was told beauty came before cost in constructing the new city, spends a great deal of time here.

Brasilia is planned for a maximum population of 50,000. There will be two main thoroughfares — one making up the horizontal piece of the cross and the other the vertical. The intersecting streets on the horizontal thoroughfare will be lined with residential areas. The vertical piece will be the government area — sites of ministries, Congress, embassies — and and the business and banking areas. Embassy Row is already laid out on paper and lots have been assigned.

Many may well ask why Brazil, which already has one of the most beautiful capitals in the world in Rio de Janeiro, should want to move.

Kubitschek said in a recent speech:

"We cannot go on forever being a territory spotted with deserts, with most of the population glued to the seacoast and with the richest zones of our territory abandoned."

Rio itself is overcrowded and fraught with serious problems ranging from traffic to lack of drinking water.

Kubitschek hopes that by moving the capital, vast new areas will be opened in the interior. The construction of the highway between Brasilia and Belem has already opened one new area. In many ways the move compares with the westward movement of the pioneers in the United States 100 years ago.

The new city will cost millions of dollars, but just exactly how much is not known. Israel Pinheiros, head of Novacap, the company building the city on government appropriations, has estimated the cost of the buildings alone at about 137 million dollars. Railroads into the city will cost another 17 million. The whole works will probably reach 200 million dollars.

The United States has loaned Brazil 10 million dollars to aid in Brasilia's construction.

On the other hand, Novacap is selling land to future builders and making back some of the expenditures.

The costs have caused criticism since Brazil now is in the midst of an economic crisis. It recently borrowed 158 million dollars from the United States to pay debts. Critics argue the money appropriated for Brasilia could be better spent bolstering the economy.

But when the capital is moved in 1960, a vision of the past will become a reality. Even back in the days of the empire — in 1822 — one adviser to the emperor spoke of a new capital in the interior. Since the start of the republic in 1889, successive constitutions have mentioned the new capital.

Today the dream is coming true.

At the same time, he ordered his general staff to prepare for "Operation Green" — the invasion of Czechoslovakia. Now he would be satisfied with nothing short of outright annexation of the Sudetenland.

On Sept. 15 Chamberlain himself flew to Berchtesgaden on the first of three "peace" missions he was to make during the Czechoslovak crisis. He returned a worried and shaken man after Hitler told him in a three-hour harangue that he was willing to risk a world war to obtain the Sudetenland.

Chamberlain consulted with the British cabinet and on Sept. 19 he urged Benes to surrender the predominantly German areas of the Sudetenland in exchange for "general guarantees" against unprovoked aggression.

The Czechs accepted—reluctantly—in order to save themselves from isolation. On Sept. 22 Chamberlain flew to see Hitler again, this time at Bad Godesberg on the Rhine, to tell him Benes had agreed to give up the Sudetenland.

But once again Hitler upped the ante.

He told a shocked and angered Chamberlain that it now was too late for the terms the Prime Minister had pressured Benes in to accepting. He demanded nothing short of immediate Czech withdrawal from the Sudetenland and completion of the handover by Oct. 1, failing which Hitler would destroy Czechoslovakia by force.

On Sept. 23 the Czechs mobilized. Next day Chamberlain returned to London. France, bound by treaty to come to Czechoslovakia's aid, mobilized 500,000 men. The British government distributed gas masks and began digging air raid shelters in London's parks.

With war clouds rolling up fast, Chamberlain made still another desperate attempt to save the peace.

He dispatched his close advisor, Sir Horace Wilson, to Berlin with a final appeal to Hitler to agree to an "orderly settlement" by an international conference. That same night, Sept. 26, in a speech at Berlin's Sportpalast, Hitler delivered an ultimatum demanding that the Sudetenland be surrendered by Oct. 1. Once this was done, he declared, "I shall have no further territorial claims in Europe."

Twice in the next 24 hours, President Roosevelt appealed to Hitler to avoid war. Hitler's reply was to give orders for "Operation Green" to begin Sept. 30.

The night of Sept. 27 Chamberlain broadcast a pathetic message to the British people speaking of "a quarrel in a far - away country between peoples of whom we know nothing."

Next day, Mussolini urged Hitler to avoid force. As Chamberlain addressed the House of Commons on the afternoon of Sept. 28, he was brought a message announcing that Hitler had agreed to a four - power meeting at Munich next day.

On Sept. 29, Chamberlain, Hitler, Mussolini and Daladier met at the "Fuehrerhaus" in Munich. At 2 a.m. on the morning of Sept. 30 they put their names to the Munich agreement.

It provided that the Czechs should begin evacuating the Sudetenland on Oct. 1 and that the surrender should be completed by Oct. 10. An international commission was to supervise a plebiscite in the areas without an overwhelming German population.

Later that morning Chamberlain visited Hitler again before returning to London and signed with him the document pledging the desire of both peoples "never to go to war with one another again."

Six months later, Hitler invaded Czechoslovakia and a year later the world was plunged into the greatest conflict in its history. Even that was not the end.

China, Korea, Indo - China, Malaya, Suez, Algeria, Cyprus — hardly for a day have the guns been silent.

By G. K. HODENFIELD
AP Educational Writer

It's easy to say, and a lot of people have said it: "There's nothing wrong with education in this country that a little more money won't cure."

Now the government has stepped in with a 900-million-dollar program to finance four years of federal aid to education. It features loans to college students, cash grants for graduate study, and pump-priming to strengthen the teaching of science, mathematics and modern foreign languages.

This probably is not the cure for all the ills that have beset education. However it's still too early to know.

One thing seems certain: the program should increase the supply of teachers (present shortage: about 135,000.)

But will the program enable more students to go to college? Will it increase the number of Americans proficient in foreign language? Will it furnish more scientists and engineers?

Maybe.

Let's look at the student loan program.

This provides 10 - year, 3 per cent loans for college students, up to $1,000 a year but not more than a total of $5,000. Repayment must begin a year after the borrower leaves college.

Preference goes to good students who (1) want to teach, or (2) have shown particular aptitude in science, mathematics or foreign language.

If the borrower actually goes into teaching in a public school, up to half the amount borrowed will be canceled, at the rate of 10 per cent a year for the first five years.

The loan program has raised two questions:

1. Is it really going to do the job for which it was designed — help more of the nation's bright students get a college education?

2. Is it a good idea for a graduate to come out of college already burdened with a debt of $4,000 or $5,000?

Most educators say any young person with good grades and real determination can get a college education. Old fashioned as it may sound, thousands of young people are working their way through college every year.

John N. Stalnaker, president of the National Merit Scholarship Foundation, told a congressional committee his group identified 15,000 of the nation's brightest high school seniors last year. A sample check, he said, showed 97 per cent of the top 7,500 went to college, as did 95 per cent of the lower 7,500.

Loan program or no loan program, the best seem to be going to college. It may be on their own hook or it may be with the aid of one of the 300,000 scholarships — totaling around 70 million dollars — available each year through universities, industry and private organizations.

Certainly, a student loan program can be a helping hand, giving the student less time working and more time studying. But there probably never will be accurate figures showing how many students went to college because the federal loan program existed.

Congress eliminated all provisions for federal scholarships from the legislation. But it did provide fellowships for graduate work — 1,000 for the fiscal year ending next June 30 and 1,500 for each of the following three fiscal years.

The fellowships may be awarded for up to three years of graduate work — the time normally required to earn a doctor's degree. They offer cash awards of $2,000 for the first year, $2,220 for the second and $2,400 for the third, all plus $400 a year for each dependent.

This part of the law strikes directly at a growing American problem by giving preference to persons interested in teaching at institutions of higher education. The number of doctor's degrees awarded has been steadily declining. So has the percentage of those who go into teaching after earning their doctorate.

This project can hardly fill the estimated need for 180,000 to 270,000 college instructors during the next 12 years. But if the fellowship program is a success, its benefits should be spread all along the educational line.

Better teachers in colleges and universities mean better teachers in grade and high schools.

Science, mathematics and foreign languages have long been the weak sisters in America's educational family, though not as weak as many post - Sputnik critics would have you believe.

To meet this problem, Congress authorized expenditure of 70 million dollars a year for four years for "minor" remodeling of laboratories and the purchase of special equipment.

But this program has a built - in stop light. The states have to match the federal grants, dollar for dollar. If the states figure they are spending enough money as it is, they can block the program before it gets started.

The U. S office of education doesn't look for a miracle from the program. The best it expects is that the teaching of science, math and modern foreign languages will be given a solid push.

Another portion of the bill tries to deal with the tragic loss of some of the nation's brightest students who end their education below the college level — some 200,000 of them each year. These aren't necessarily the ones with the top grades; some of them flunk out and others drop out for no apparent reason.

The bill provides a testing, guidance and counseling program. The idea is basic: guide the high school student into fields of study best suited to his abilities and encourage the more able ones to prepare for college.

The bill authorizes 15 million dollars a year for four years to finance state programs for testing, guidance and counseling. For the fiscal year ending next June 30, the states need put up no money. After that it's on a 50-50 basis.

Another part of the bill calls for the establishment of institutes at colleges and universities for training counselors and guidance officers.

Congress also authorized the expenditure of 18 million dollars during the next four school years to finance a study of how such things as television, radio, film strips and the like can best be fitted to the nation's educational needs.

This is an experimental look - see project with potential far - reaching effects. However, its short - range effect probably won't be noticeable.

Another provision is for establishment of foreign language and area centers to train individuals in the language, background and customs of foreign lands.

These are the high spots of the aid to education bill.

People opposed to any sort of federal aid to education will continue to say it's going to lead to federal control of schools. And folks who think this is a false assumption will continue to say the aid program doesn't go far enough —that it ignores the pressing problems of classroom shortage and low teachers' salaries.

The truth probably lies somewhere in between. It's no crash program which is going to change the face of American education overnight. But it goes much farther than the government has ever gone before.

Old Biblical Port Of Elath Reborn

By JOHN RODERICK

ELATH, Israel (AP) — A thousand years before Christ, the proud merchant fleets of King Solomon, laden with precious copper, rode at anchor off this ancient port.

Rusty ships carrying equally precious cargoes — oil and goods for growing, young Israel — lie motionless today in the same deep blue waters off modern Elath, reborn as a port city only two years ago.

The Elath of biblical times, which thrived on the commerce from Solomon's copper mines, 15 miles north of here, languished and died in the centuries that followed.

BRITISH

When the British broke the 300-year Turkish grip on the Holy Land in World War I, they found it a barren strip of coast, withering under the hot blasts from the Negev Desert. It's only use as a small military outpost.

Israel's 1956 military campaign against Egypt in the Sinai made Elath suddenly important. Before that expedition hostile Arab neighbors had effectively barred ships of all nations from reaching Israel's southernmost coast through the Dead Sea.

The Israeli victory secured the Straits of Tiran, leading into the Gulf of Aqaba, against further interference. Ships began moving, for the first time, to Elath. Today, it is an active port.

It had taken Israel eight years to acquire this window on Asia and Africa. Her leaders energetically exploited the situation, speedily constructing port facilities and offering inducements in the way of tax exemptions to anyone who would choose to settle in Elath.

Some 6,000 men — and a few women—have made Elath their home, working in the port, building homes and shops, and planning ambitiously for the future.

SPARSELY

The streets are sparsely settled, but they are wide and paved, ready for the bigger buildings her frontier-style citizens expect tomorrow.

Israel's newly - important southern gateway to the East occupies a scant six - mile frontage on the Red Sea. At night, the lights of Jordan's southern port of Aqaba twinkle a few thousand yards away. Next to it is Saudi Arabia. The sandy wastes of Egypt's Sinai Desert stretch to the west.

Israel is aware that these Arab neighbors are hostile. Two corvettes keep a vigilant eye out for unusual developments, and Israeli torpedo boats police the adjacent waters.

But Israeli troops, here in small numbers, give little evidence of belligerency. They join tourists on the beaches to splash in the extraordinarily clear waters of the gulf within sight of Jordan's shores.

But there are few incidents.

The driest area in Israel, Elath has a rainfall of 1.2 inches annually contrasted to the 37.4 inches which falls in the upper Galilee.

And the summer temperatures are high — averaging 78 to 105 degrees Fahrenheit in August. In winter, its mild, temperate weather, rarely falling below 50 degrees or exceeding 70, makes it a favorable Israeli winter resort.

The Elath Hotel, a splendid modern building all of whose air conditioned rooms face the sea, has just been completed to meet the tourist influx. Its five stories tower over the buildings in the little city, built on the hillside half a mile away.

Most of the new port's inhabitants live either in jointly shared bachelor quarters, one or two stories high, or have their own, small apartments.

The city's principal building is the Philip Murray Community Center, contributed by the AFL-CIO to honor the late American labor leader. Without it, Elath would be bleak, indeed. It houses a library, an auditorium for vintage motion pictures, a snack bar and a game room. It is the most popular place in town.

POPULARITY

Next in popularity are the city's few cafes, mostly out of doors, where her rough-and-ready inhabitants sit under bright stars or a big moon drinking Israeli beer, soft drinks or coffee. Sometimes, when the crews of visiting ships come ashore, they are lively spots.

Elath is a city of men with a job to do under difficult physical circumstances. And many of them reflect their surroundings, unshaven, shirttails out, ready for a quarrel. Security officers report fairly frequent personal clashes. But big crimes are scarce.

Although some of the men unstrap their pistols and lay them on the table when they sit down to dinner in the restaurants, there is no swashbuckling, no lightning draws.

But the conventions are considerably more relaxed here than elsewhere in Israel. The Sabbath for example, which is strictly observed in Tel Aviv and Jerusalem, is liberally interpreted. Restaurants stay open. Instead of remaining indoors, Elathians move about freely.

But the government has decided that though it is remote it shall not be inaccessible. An excellent, macadam road now runs from Elath to Ted Aviv on the Mediterranean.

And, Arkia, the internal airline, makes eight to ten flights a day between the two cities, covering the distance in slightly more than an hour.

Besides the road and the airline, Elath is linked to the rest of Israel by an oil pipeline which pumps the liquid black cargoes from ocean tankers to the north.

And in process of construction is a railway which also will eventually tie Elath with the north. It is expected to be completed by 1963.

Solomon's copper mine is the sole visible relic of the Biblical Elath. The ancient mine has little or no yield today, but the deposits have been probed. In 1957 it was established that 10½ million tons of proved copper ore reserves exist, ready for exploitation.

King Solomon's copper is one of the last souvenirs available to air travelers leaving Israel. In a box at Lod Airport there are samples of the geenish ore, with a printed invitation to take some of it home as a memento.

Adenauer Begins 10th Year At Helm Of West Germany

BONN, Germany (AP)—When Parliament opens its new session this week, Konrad Adenauer — the world's busiest octogenarian — will launch his 10th year at the helm of West Germany.

For a decade now Adenauer, who will be 83 in January, has been a seemingly ageless champion of unity and strength in Western Europe. His solemn stony face is familiar around the world and that stern visage has generated the widespread legend that he is a man stiff, deliberate, forbidding.

But the legend is all wrong: the exterior is a mask.

Konrad Adenauer has a wild passion for speed and a kittenish sense of humor, a man who likes nothing better than a good joke or a glass of good wine. And what's more, he is sometimes as impulsive as a schoolboy.

It is, no doubt, the look of the man that has caused the legend to arise. When in repose his face is about as expressive as a wrinkled cabbage.

His expression, however, by no means mirrors what is inside the man. In a literal sense it is a false front. Forty years ago Adenauer's passion for speed led to a serious automobile accident and the facial mask was carved by plastic surgery.

There are few persons inside this country who see Adenauer as an ordinary human being. His passionate supporters consider him a kind of saint. His equally passionate opponents belabor him an an arrogant — if benevolent— dictator.

His is neither saint nor dictator — but there is truth on both sides.

His devotion to Roman Catholic principles is absolute and his views are thoroughly colored by Catholic dogma. And he can be as supremely high-handed as a Ceaser.

They call him "Der Alte" —or "The Old Man" — but that's just a name.

He is an astonishing human phenomenon whose physical stamina has been known to wear out men many years younger than himself.

Up every morning at the crack of dawn, he has his bedroom lights burning long after the residents of his sleepy village of Rhoendorf across the Rine from Bonn have gone to sleep.

But it isn't often high-level politics that keeps the lamp glowing. More frequently it's a detective thriller in his lap.

Adenauer fancies himself an expert on all sorts of things, including such assorted items as 15th century painting, the intricacies of flower cultivation, mystery storeis and the complexities of wine growing.

One of this country's most popular guessing games is what keeps Adenauer going at an age when most men would be content to languish in their armchairs and quietly contemplate the lives behind them.

Some suggest the Chancellor's striking physical prowess is due to injections of monkey gland fluid, but there is no evidence to support this.

Another cause is certainly Adenauer's capacity to relax when necessary. That's where gardening and music appear.

Adenauer himself has three rules which he sometimes lists as his secret for a long life: 1. You must come from good stock, 2, you must eat sparingly, and 3, you must have a purpose in life.

His purpose: "To lead Germany back into the family of nations and help in the unification of Western Europe."

Extravagance Stressed In Modern Bath

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Porcelain and chrome may suit us average Americans. But the big-money crowd from coast to coast is going in for marble tubs and golden plumbing.

Arthur Ward, head of a 100-year-old company that is the Tiffany of the custom period hardware business, finds that his gold plumbing fittings sales have increased over 400 per cent in the past two years and, despite the recession, are still increasing.

"Gold-plated bathroom fixtures have always been the ultimate in luxury and always popular with those who could afford them," says Ward. "But recently there has been even more interest.

"I suspect part of it is the conspicuous consumption motive: 'Look, I can even afford golden faucets!' But there's also the fact that people have concentrated on the kitchen until just about everything that can be done has been done. Now they are looking at the bathroom. Bathrooms are getting bigger — becoming combination dressing rooms — and there is a defilnite trend toward sunken tubs."

Ward says that the gold plumbing fixtures part of P. E. Guerin's business — he's the third generation of the family to head the company — hasn't seen such a landslide of business since the good old pre-depression days when steel's Charlie Schwab ordered himself a bathtub cut from a solid block of onyx.

Today gold bathroom accessories are so popular that a "mass" market for this extravagance has developed. Gold plumbing "masses" are built of folks living in homes costing a minimum of $40,000. In a recent listing of the 10 richest men in the country, Ward counted seven buyers of Guerin hardware.

If the chrome fittings in your porcelain bathroom basin, two water faucets and a mixing spout cost $25, gold plated replacements would set you back between $125 and $600, Ward says, depending on the amount of detail.

At the moment, the very rich are giving Louis XVI the big play in bathrooms. In the $40,000 houses the big interest is in Renaissance and empire periods.

"There used to be a steady demand for Renaissance—15th century French, dolphins and empire; 19th century French, swans," Ward says. "Now, too many people are using them, and dophins and swans have become cliches. So the big period is the delicate Louis XVI."

Ward delights in the validity of period hardware designs, and he regrets that many have little respect for — and less knowledge of — purity of periods, even in bathroom decor.

He recalls with dismay receiving blueprints for an expansive bathroom from a decorator who proposed to combine Louis XV faucets and spout with Renaissance mirror trim, Louis XVI lighting fixtures and empire legs and feet on the marble washbasin.

"A mish mash," he declares. "Bronx Renaissance. But if the nouveaux don't know it, what are you going to do?"

Ward's big problem is the diminishing supply of skilled craftsmen, whose delicate finishing work makes the difference between mass market fixtures and the expensive product. Of his four craftsmen, the youngest is 64 and the oldest is 87 — and Ward hired the 87-year-old just the other day. Young people just aren't going into the craft anymore.

"But the demand for authentic period hardware has held up," Ward says. "It is just that it is more spread out. Big houses are disappearing. In the old days it was not unusual to get a single order for $100,000 worth of hardware for a house. The biggest order we've had since the war was for $40,000 — a millionaire was decorating a seven-room apartment."

MIXED-UP SPEED

HAMPTON, Va. (AP)—Hampton Patrolman R. B. Robertson, investigating an accident in which one auto rammed the rear of another, was told by the driver of the front car "I was doing 40 m.p.h."

Then the driver of the second car, when questioned by Robertson, said he "was only going 38 m.p.h."

-THE ARTS-

American Art Comes Into Its Own, Experts Report

By W. G. ROGERS

NEW YORK, (AP) — What has happened to American art in the past 25 years?

Two men as closely associated with the change as anyone in the country, indeed probably the best informed pair you could find, the retiring director of the Whitney Museum of American Art and his successor, have these things to say:

We have ceased to be dominated by foreigners.

Social realism has almost disappeared as subject matter; and our one new contribution to the wide outside art world, our one easily exportable discovery, is abstract expressionism — Jackson Pollock, Philip Guston and William de Kooning being perhaps its best known practitioners.

There are more young painters than ever.

Prices have skyrocketed. 10 to 15 living Americans are paid $8,000 to $10,000 or more for a canvas.

Regional art seems to be dying out, with Texas and the Northwest its last strongholds; and it is now possible, as never before, to get almost as rounded and accurate idea of American art as a whole from the work done in San Francisco or Chicago or New Orleans say, as from New York work itself.

EXPERTS WITH TREASURE: Herman More (left), retiring director, and Lloyd Goodrich, incoming director of Whitney Museum of American Art, view a work by U.S. painter Stuart Davis.

ARTIST'S PLACE

Finally, today's artist is more thoughtful and introspective, less Bohemian and bearded, and more secure and confident of a place in his community.

Herman More, curator of the museum from its founding in 1930 down in this city's nearest approach to Bohemia, Greenwich Village, became director in 1948 at the death of Mrs. Juliana Force. This month he goes off up the Hudson to settle in a country home where, he hopes, "I may be able again to do a little of the painting that I had to abandon when I became curator and director."

His successor, Lloyd Goodrich, also used to paint but he gave it up long ago and, with the support of the museum's founder, Gertrude Vanderbilt Whitney, a sculptor, began to write about painters. Two of his first ambitious works are standard studies of Homer and Eakins.

There are evidently fewer changes in the steadfast Whitney itself than in the art of which it has been the eloquent advocate and devoted supporter, as Goodrich sees it.

"The museum pioneered in the field of American art," he recalled. "To begin with, it was interested in 19th Century men, too, but for some years it has concentrated on work dated from 1900 on.

"At the start we had, it was felt, a sort of missionary job to do. If the public liked American art at all, it was only the most conservative and least venturesome. So for a while we did battle with the conservatives. Now we no longer believe that is necessary. We try to keep a balance between old and new, conservative and advanced.

"But as always before, we hold no special brief for any 'school' of art. We shall continue to try to represent all factions and all tendencies."

The character of the audience has not changed much. It was considerably bewildered at its first contact with social realism. More remembered; and then later it was just about as much bewildered by its first sight of abstract expressionism.

"But there is a tremendous increase in the audience numerically, and in public interest in general," Goodrich said. "Average attendance in the last few years in its old downtown center on 8th Street was 70,000 a year. In the four years since it has moved into the middle of the exhibition area, on West 54th Street adjoining the Museum of Modern Art, the attendance has jumped to 260,000 a year, or almost four times as much. There are many foreign visitors."

The museum circulates some shows to other cities, and it keeps an eye out for good out-of-town shows to bring here —among them was a Stuart Davis exhibition that first opened in the Walker Art Gallery in Minneapolis, and there is upcoming an Arthur Dove collection borrowed from Los Angeles. The museum also more than ever before follows the work of artists not only in its vicinity but all across the country, and several times a year holds viewings to which artists may submit work for the staff's benefit.

The Whitney has never awarded prizes or medals, but it has always made purchases. As of last year it owned almost 1,200 works, half of them paintings, plus about 200 watercolors, 200 drawings and almost 200 pieces of sculpture. Especially well represented in the painting collection are Alexander Brook, Charles Burchfield, John Steuart Curry, Arthur B. Davies, Adolf Dehn, Ernest Fiene, Yasuo Kuniyoshi, John Marin, Reginald Marsh, Kenneth Hayes Miller, Henry Schnakenberg, John Sloan, Eugene Speicher. Among the sculptors are Alexander Calder, Jo Davidson, Gaston Lachaise, Theodore Roszak and William Zorach.

Ounce Dice Trice And Object-Lesson

OUNCE DICE TRICE. By Alastair Reid, drawings by Ben Shahn. Atlantic - Little, Brown. $3.50 THE OBJECT - LESSON. By Edward Gorey. Doubleday. $2. MR. OTIS. By Stewart H. Holbrook. Macmillan. $3.

Ounce thing these trice books have in common is pictures, and about the only other thing, besides of course being put together on a scribbitch of papers, is that they don't resemble other books.

Can you define piddocks, mumruffin, pobbies, thrumbled, puggree, paxwax, tirrivee or jiggerypokery? Then turn to Alastair Reid and study Shahn's illustrations. Reid the poet made a collection of his own made-up words, not words a la Stein, not a la Joyce but most engagingly Alastair. He counts ounce dice trice quartz quince sago serpent oxygen nitrogen denim. When he drives over a manhole cover it goes kinclunk; phlooph is sitting on a cushion; tris-tras is cutting paper; and ram tam gee pickagee — wouldn't you know it?—is feeling good, or the way you are after reading these pages and enjoying Shahn's wonderfully devised illustrations.

Gorey's "Object-Lesson" according to the jacket is a "moral tale about Nothing - at - All." It is told in grim gray pictures with captiones. It is a sort of nightmarish concoction about the inside-out and upside-down land of topsy-turvydom.

"Mr. Otis" is another spoof at "art moderne," and this time it's even documented: Holbrook's book has nearly 30 "reproductions" in color of the art of the until now unknown Mr. Otis. Modern are will probably never survive this blow by Mr. Holbrook — I mean Mr. Otis — I mean Mr. Holbrook.

Ugly American Is Cold Warning

THE UGLY AMERICAN. By William J. Lederer and Eugene Burdick. Norton. $3.75.

In the distant Asian country of Sarkhan, where skins are brownish, peasants abound without shoes, rice is the diet, roads are footpaths and Communists threaten, we Americans have an ambassador and some other officials madly busy, racing around in imported cars, never missing a cocktail party, and never failing to entertain a senator in the cause of democracy and an everlasting free world.

So we read at least in this novel - with - a - message. Foreign affairs are entrusted to back-slappers and glad - handers and they make mistakes galore. Lederer and Burdick say:

They can't speak the language of the land they work in; they are surrounded by spies as valets or phone operators; they hobnob with the rich and know nothing about the common people; they pick the wrong women to make love to; and they kick right back to the states as hard and fast as they can the men really doing a good job for democracy—not the one who wants to spend millions but the little fellow who would step up egg production, or help the natives fix up a water pump. And when a sympathetic, understanding and enterprising ambassador does reach Sarkhan, the horror - stricken state department tells him to stop sticking his neck out and relieves him of his post.

All these characters, the very very good and the very very bad, appear in the pages written by this angry and dedicated pair. In an epilogue they say the names and setting are fictitious, but the incidents genuine. They point to the painstaking and effective care with which the Russians staff their embassies, and accuse us of losing every diplomatic battle with the Reds, each defeat a little one but all of them adding up to catastrophe. It's a slap - bang kind of novel, blunt and forthright; indeed you might have mistrusted a glib, facile style suggestive of the ambassadorial protocol and folderol which they attack. It's as eloquent a warning about the cold war as Nevil Shute's "On the Beach" was about the atomic war.

Describes Courage In Brilliant Work

More terrible events took place in World War II than the death of teen-age Anne Frank in the German camp of Belsen. Other people suffered hardships and torture to which she was not exposed. Her lot could not have been worse than the lot of millions who died because they had the wrong blood in their veins.

But though the best living writers tried, no one has stated the case for the victims of racial persecution with such overpowering eloquence as Anne in her "Diary" — the play was good, the book was incomparable. From all around the world, from Warsaw to Hiroshima and Warsaw again, came the most poignant revelations, but the most heart-rending of all was this little girl's record of her hiding in an Amsterdam attic with her family.

Schnabel, a German, has interviewed 42 people who knew the Franks in Frankfurt, their Holland exile, Auschwitz and finally Belsen. His book is the essential conclusion to this unbearably tragic tale; it fills it out: the account of her fright, her ambition to write, the betrayal and the possible betrayer, the fact that the Franks were caught so close, but not quite close enough, to Germany's collapse, the unspeakably brave friends and the unspeakably despicable racial persecutors.

Execution Is Stark Look At What War Is

EXECUTION. By Colin McDougall. St. Martin's Press. $3.50.

A Canadian infantry unit fights the war from the invasion of Sicily to the landing in Italy, the Monte Cassino assault and on toward the ultimate victory in this novel which comes down to us, as so few do, from Canada.

The first man we meet, and in his first action, too, is Krasnick, from a farm, who swears, though his Bren is trained on them, that he won't shoot horses. Then comes a searing encounter with two Italian deserters, big Jim and little Joe, amiable and unwarlike if any men ever were, soon buddies of the Canadians and cooks for them, and exchanging pats on the back with their captors — until an infuriated high command, hearing of this fraternization, orders the pair shot.

Now at last war is brought home to these well meaning soldiers, and brought home to the shocked reader, too, with a stinging impact. McDougall's chief character is Adam, lieutenant at the start, who not only allows the execution but also, as he says, takes part in the horribly bungled affair. From then on he and his men, whether in leave areas or in the battle line, learn more than before to value friendship and love, yet at the same time discover that war admits of no values, no loyalties, faiths, humanities, no mercy, no justice if they balk military matters in the least. No book since Zweig's "The Case of Sergeant Grischa" has shown so appallingly the inexorable brutality of the war machine.

The sweep of action will set your nerves atingle, and there is a sweep of thought to match. McDougall asks his sorely tried soldiers the ultimate question—what is life worth? They answer the hardest way.

Women and Thomas Harrow, by John P. Marquand (Little, Brown): In his latest novel, Marquand broods on the life and loves of Thomas Harrow, playwright, and his three successive wives. The story opens with Tom in his 50's apparently at the peak of his career but secretly confused by his memories and a little frightened. Tom's troubled musings stem from his occupational habit of viewing his life in play form. If he could have supervised the entrances, rearranged the events and rehearsed the lines, the result would have been much more artistic and not the badly acted performance he had made of it all. This is a keenly analytical, sharply focused novel that can be read with enjoyment for the story itself and for the deep and wise implications that Marquand has so skillfully woven into it.

A Ring Has No End, by Thomas Armstrong (Sloane): Russia is a land of excesses —of splendor, of squalor, of power and brutality. This novel follows the fortunes of a family from the Crimean war through the revolution of 1917. The Kaivanovs were a dynasty founded by soldiers. Their wealth corrupted the men of the family and it was a woman—Princess Anastasia —who carried the name through the dark days of tragedy which fastened Communism on the land. A book like this can have no happy ending, nor can it offer many surprises to the well-informed reader. But it does offer an absorbing narrative, sometimes frightening, sometimes infuriating, with characters and circumstances that recall the sweep and the grandeur of a day that is past.

Earthshaker, by Robert W. Krepps (Macmillan): The author is a top-flight adventure novelist specializing in the African South and the American West. He combines these enthusiasms in this story about a disgraced U. S. cavalry scout seeking a fabulous treasure in South Africa in 1893. The book is principally of interest for its portrait of Lobengula, the Earthshaker, last warrior-king of the Zulu-Matabele tribe. Krepps has released another novel simultaneously with Earthshaker—Gamble My Last Game (Macmillan) — in which he tells of a roving Irish gambler whose Indian mistress was murdered within hours of their arrival in Bloody Pike. His attempt to find the murderer and his romance with a young widow make an unusually fascinating addition to Western fiction.

GUIDE TO GOOD READING

Great Variety In Reading Material

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

Books of fiction added to the collection of the Ouachita Parish Public Library in the past week offer a great variety of reading material. The settings of these stories range over the entire earth, so that there is something for every type of reader. The popularity of the old West in song and story is one of the literary phenomona of this age. Today we have two new books of this type. "Warlock" is the title of the novel by Oakley Hall. It is the story of a Western marshall and all those followers of "Gunsmoke" will love it. "Cottonwoods Grow Tall" by Margaret Bell Houston has its setting in frontier Texas and deals with the career of a valiant and unusual woman.

Readers of historical novels will find two books to interest them. "Red Queen, White Queen" by Henry Treece is a story of Roman occupation of Britain in the time of Nero. This presents a picture of an Empire which was tottering and a people who wanted liberty. "The Devil's Bride" written by Carter A. Vaughan has its setting at the time of the American Revolution, but is concerned with the adventures of a young American and a Turkish princess. It is a story of romance, intrigue and adventure, strictly escape literature.

The other books of fiction this week all have a present day background, set in many parts of the world. "Close Quarters" by Angela Thirkell is another of her Barsetshire chronicles set in a small corner of England. "Arena" by Charles Grayson deals with the adventures of a sports correspondent in New York and Madrid. Devotees of the bull fight will want to read this book. "Gazella" is the title of Stuart Cloete's latest book, which has its setting in present day Africa. No one has Stuart Cloete's magic of evoking the spell of the Dark Continent. He knows her forests, primitive beasts, and black men torn between tribal witchcraft and the twentieth century. He has presented it all in this book. "The Sons of Avrom" by Roger Ikor is the story of a family who fled the Czarist regime in Russia and settled in France. It is a long rich story and makes fascinating reading. "The Exodus" by Leon Uris is a novel of present day Israel and gives a fascinating picture of a people's dream to establish a homeland, to live in Freedom, to build cities, turn deserts into gardens and live far from the shadow of oppression. It is the story of men in mortal struggle and of men and women in love.

Several outstanding books were added to the non-fiction collection of the library during the past week. "Masters of French Painting" by George Besson is a very lovely and comprehensive study of the subject. "Gaugin drawings" presents reproductions of the work of this master artist. Three very practical books are "The Science of Skin and Scuba diving." "How to Get into Television" by Robert Solotaire and "Electricity in Agricultural Engineering" by Truman E. Heinton. "Schubert" by Maurice Brown is a very fine critical biography of this outstanding musician. Stories of the Civil War are always popular and this week we have another history of this conflict called "The Story of the Civil War" written by Col. Red Reeder. Last of all there is a book which should be of interest to teachers and to parents called "A Teacher Is A Person". The author of this book is Charles H. Wilson.

Once Upon A City Describes NYC 1890-1910

ONCE UPON A CITY: New York from 1890 to 1910 as photographed by Byron and described by Grace M. Mayer. Macmillan. $15.

Led by Joseph Byron, the Byron family came to this country from England in 1888 and over the years father, son Peter and other members took 10,000 pictures of New York City. The collection has been compared to the irreplaceable Atget photographic record of Paris, and that is as high as praise can go. The 10,000 photos were presented by Peter Byron in 1942 to the Museum of the City of New York, which has got from them three major exhibitions and now this book, on which an immense amount of most knowledgeable and loving care has been spent by Miss Mayer, the museum's curator of prints.

Over 200 photographs are reprinted here, and with each one Miss Mayer writes an article describing the scene, the time, the characters, the relationship to the larger metropolitan setting. There are the square, street, parade, theater, restaurant, hotel, private home, roof garden, Coney Island, wedding, funeral, horsecar, auto, bicycle, sweat shop, immigrant — this is an incredibly rich and varied collection. Miss Mayer works in an odd word every now and then — cynosuric, synonymical, recountal, mollificatory; but they are no older than the sights themselves. It would be impossible to find anyone alive so informed about turn-of-the century New York as the encyclopedic Miss Mayer.

American Art Comes Into Its Own, Experts Report

By W. G. ROGERS

NEW YORK, (AP) — What has happened to American art in the past 25 years?

Two men as closely associated with the change as anyone in the country, indeed probably the best informed pair you could find, the retiring director of the Whitney Museum of American Art and his successor, have these things to say:

We have ceased to be dominated by foreigners.

Social realism has almost disappeared as subject matter; and our one new contribution to the wide outside art world, our one easily exportable discovery, is abstract expressionism — Jackson Pollock, Philip Guston and William de Kooning being perhaps its best known practitioners.

There are more young painters than ever.

Prices have skyrocketed: 10 to 15 living Americans are paid $8,000 to $10,000 or more for a canvas.

Regional art seems to be dying out, with Texas and the Northwest its last strongholds; and it is now possible, as never before, to get almost as rounded and accurate idea of American art as a whole from the work done in San Francisco or Chicago or New Orleans say, as from New York work itself.

EXPERTS WITH TREASURE: Herman More (left), retiring director, and Lloyd Goodrich, incoming director of Whitney Museum of American Art, view a work by U.S. painter Stuart Davis.

ARTIST'S PLACE

Finally, today's artist is more thoughtful and introspective, less Bohemian and bearded, and more secure and confident of a place in his community.

Herman More, curator of the museum from its founding in 1930 down in this city's nearest approach to Bohemia, Greenwich Village, became director in 1948 at the death of Mrs. Juliana Force. This month he goes off up the Hudson to settle in a country home where, he hopes, "I may be able again to do a little of the painting that I had to abandon when I became curator and director."

His successor, Lloyd Goodrich, also used to paint but he gave it up long ago and, with the support of the museum's founder, Gertrude Vanderbilt Whitney, a sculptor, began to write about painters. Two of his first ambitious works are standard studies of Homer and Eakins.

There are evidently fewer changes in the steadfast Whitney itself than in the art of which it has been the eloquent advocate and devoted supporter, as Goodrich sees it.

"The museum pioneered in the field of American art," he recalled. "To begin with, it was interested in 19th Century men, too, but for some years it has concentrated on work dated from 1900 on.

"At the start we had, it was felt, a sort of missionary job to do. If the public liked American art at all, it was only the most conservative and least venturesome. So for a while we did battle with the conservatives. Now we no longer believe that is necessary. We try to keep a balance between old and new, conservative and advanced.

"But as always before, we hold no special brief for any 'school' of art. We shall continue to try to represent all factions and all tendencies."

The character of the audience has not changed much. It was considerably bewildered at its first contact with social realism, More remembered; and then later it was just about as much bewildered by its first sight of abstract expressionism.

"But there is a tremendous increase in the audience numerically, and in public interest in general," Goodrich said. "Average attendance in the last few years in its old downtown center on 8th Street was 70,000 a year. In the four years since it has moved into the middle of the exhibition area, on West 54th Street adjoining the Museum of Modern Art, the attendance has jumped to 260,000 a year, or almost four times as much. There are many foreign visitors."

The museum circulates some shows to other cities, and it keeps an eye out for good out-of-town shows to bring here —among them was a Stuart Davis exhibition that first opened in the Walker Art Gallery in Minneapolis, and there is upcoming an Arthur Dove collection borrowed from Los Angeles. The museum also more than ever before follows the work of artists not only in its vicinity but all across the country, and several times a year holds viewings to which artists may submit work for the staff's benefit.

The Whitney has never awarded prizes or medals, but it has always made purchases. As of last year it owned almost 1,200 works, half of them paintings, plus about 200 watercolors, 200 drawings and almost 200 pieces of sculpture. Especially well represented in the painting collection are Alexander Brook, Charles Burchfield, John Steuart Curry, Arthur B. Davies, Adolf Dehn, Ernest Fiene, Yasuo Kuniyoshi, John Marin, Reginald Marsh, Kenneth Hayes Miller, Henry Schnakenberg, John Sloan, Eugene Speicher. Among the sculptors are Alexander Calder, Jo Davidson, Gaston Lachaise, Theodore Roszak and William Zorach.

Ounce Dice Trice And Object-Lesson

OUNCE DICE TRICE. By Alastair Reid, drawings by Ben Shahn. Atlantic - Little, Brown. $3.50 THE OBJECT - LESSON. By Edward Gorey. Doubleday. $2. MR. OTIS. By Stewart H. Holbrook. Macmillan. $3.

Ounce thing these trice books have in common is pictures, and about the only other thing, besides of course being put together on a scribbitch of papers, is that they don't resemble other books.

Can you define piddocks, mumruffin, pobbies, thrumbled, puggree, paxwax, tirrivee or jiggerypokery? Then turn to Alastair Reid and study Shahn's illustrations. Reid the poet made a collection of his own made-up words, not words a la Stein, not a la Joyce but most engagingly Alastair. He counts ounce dice trice quartz quince sago serpent oxygen nitrogen denim. When he drives over a manhole cover it goes kinclunk; phlooph is sitting on a cushion; tris-tras is cutting paper; and ram tam gee pickagee — wouldn't you know it?—is feeling good, or the way you are after reading these pages and enjoying Shahn's wonderfully devised illustrations.

Gorey's "Object-Lesson" according to the jacket is a "moral tale about Nothing - at - All." It is told in grim gray pictures with captiones. It is a sort of nightmarish concoction about the inside-out and upside-down land of topsy-turvydom.

"Mr. Otis" is another spoof at "art moderne," and this time it's even documented: Holbrook's book has nearly 30 "reproductions" in color of the art of the until now unknown Mr. Otis. Modern are will probably never survive this blow by Mr. Holbrook — I mean Mr. Otis — I mean Mr. Holbrook.

Ugly American Is Cold Warning

THE UGLY AMERICAN. By William J. Lederer and Eugene Burdick. Norton. $3.75.

In the distant Asian country of Sarkhan, where skins are brownish, peasants abound without shoes, rice is the main diet, roads are footpaths and Communists threaten, we Americans have an ambassador and some other officials madly busy, racing around in imported cars, never missing a cocktail party, and never failing to entertain a senator in the cause of democracy and an everlasting free world.

So we read at least in this novel - with - a - message. Foreign affairs are entrusted to back-slappers and glad - handers and they make mistakes galore. Lederer and Burdick say:

They can't speak the language of the land they work in; they are surrounded by spies as valets or phone operators; they hobnob with the rich and know nothing about the common people; they pick the wrong women to make love to; and they kick right back to the states as hard and fast as they can the men really doing a good job for democracy—not the one who wants to spend millions but the little fellow who would step up egg production, or help the natives fix up a water pump. And when a sympathetic, understanding and enterprising ambassador does reach Sarkhan, the horror - stricken state department tells him to stop sticking his neck out and relieves him of his post.

All these characters, the very very good and the very very bad, appear in the pages written by this angry and dedicated pair. In an epilogue they say the names and setting are fictitious, but the incidents genuine. They point to the painstaking and effective care with which the Russians staff their embassies, and accuse us of losing every diplomatic battle with the Reds, each defeat a little one but all of them adding up to catastrophe. It's a slap - bang kind of novel, blunt and forthright; indeed you might have mistrusted a glib, facile style suggestive of the ambassadorial protocol and folderol which they attack. It's as eloquent a warning about the cold war as Nevil Shute's "On the Beach" was about the atomic war.

Describes Courage In Brilliant Work

More terrible events took place in World War II than the death of teen-age Anne Frank in the German camp of Belsen. Other people suffered hardships and torture to which she was not exposed. Her lot could not have been worse than the lot of millions who died because they had the wrong blood in their veins.

But though the best living writers tried, no one has stated the case for the victims of racial persecution with such overpowering eloquence as Anne in her "Diary" — the play was good, the book was incomparable. From all around the world, from Warsaw to Hiroshima and Warsaw again, came the most poignant revelations, but the most heart-rending of all was this little girl's record of her hiding in an Amsterdam attic with her family.

Schnabel, a German, has interviewed 42 people who knew the Franks in Frankfurt, their Holland exile, Auschwitz and finally Belsen. His book is the essential conclusion to this unbearably tragic tale; it fills it out; the account of her fright, her ambition to write, the betrayal and the possible betrayer, the fact that the Franks were caught so close, but not quite close enough, to Germany's collapse, the unspeakably brave friends and the unspeakably despicable racial persecutors.

Execution Is Stark Look At What War Is

EXECUTION. By Colin McDougall. St. Martin's Press. $3.50.

A Canadian infantry unit fights the war from the invasion of Sicily to the landing in Italy, the Monte Cassino assault and on toward the ultimate victory in this novel which comes down to us, as so few do, from Canada.

The first man we meet, and in his first action, too, is Krasnick, from a farm, who swears, though his Bren is trained on them, that he won't shoot horses. Then comes a searing encounter with two Italian deserters, big Jim and little Joe, amiable and unwarlike if any men ever were, soon buddies of the Canadians and cooks for them, and exchanging pats on the back with their captors — until an infuriated high command, hearing of this fraternization, orders the pair shot.

Now at last war is brought home to these well meaning soldiers, and brought home to the shocked reader, too, with a stinging impact. McDougall's chief character is Adam, lieutenant at the start, who not only allows the execution but also, as he says, takes part in the horribly bungled affair. From then on he and his men, whether in leave areas or in the battle line, learn more than before to value friendship and love, yet at the same time discover that war admits of no values, no loyalties, faiths, humanities, no mercy, no justice if they balk military matters in the least. No book since Zweig's "The Case of Sergeant Grischa" has shown so appallingly the inexorable brutality of the war machine.

The sweep of action will set your nerves atingle, and there is a sweep of thought to match. McDougall asks his sorely tried soldiers the ultimate question—what is life worth? They answer the hardest way.

Women and Thomas Harrow, by John P. Marquand (Little, Brown): In his latest novel, Marquand broods on the life and loves of Thomas Harrow, playwright, and his three successive wives. The story opens with Tom in his 50's apparently at the peak of his career but secretly confused by his memories and a little frightened. Tom's troubled musings stem from his occupational habit of viewing his life in play form. If he could have supervised the entrances, rearranged the events and rehearsed the lines, the result would have been much more artistic and not the badly acted performance he had made of it all. This is a keenly analytical, sharply focused novel that can be read with enjoyment for the story itself and for the deep and wise implications that Marquand has so skillfully woven into it.

A Ring Has No End, by Thomas Armstrong (Sloane): Russia is a land of excesses —of splendor, of squalor, of power and brutality. This novel follows the fortunes of a family from the Crimean war through the revolution of 1917. The Kaivanovs were a dynasty founded by soldiers. Their wealth corrupted the men of the family and it was a woman—Princess Anastasia —who carried the name through the dark days of tragedy which fastened Communism on the land. A book like this can have no happy ending, nor can it offer many surprises to the well-informed reader. But it does offer an absorbing narrative, sometimes frightening, sometimes infuriating, with characters and circumstances that recall the sweep and the grandeur of a day that is past.

Earthshaker, by Robert W. Krepps (Macmillan): The author is a top-flight adventure novelist specializing in the African South and the American West. He combines these enthusiasms in this story about a disgraced U. S. cavalry scout seeking a fabulous treasure in South Africa in 1893. The book is principally of interest for its portrait of Lobengula, the Earthshaker, last warrior-king of the Zulu-Matabele tribe. Krepps has released another novel simultaneously with Earthshaker—Gamble My Last Game (Macmillan) — in which he tells of a roving Irish gambler whose Indian mistress was murdered within hours of their arrival in Bloody Pike. His attempt to find the murderer and his romance with a young widow make an unusually fascinating addition to Western fiction.

GUIDE TO GOOD READING

Great Variety In Reading Material

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

Books of fiction added to the collection of the Ouachita Parish Public Library in the past week offer a great variety of reading material. The settings of these stories range over the entire earth, so that there is something for every type of reader. The popularity of the old West in song and story is one of the literary phenomona of this age. Today we have two new books of this type. "Warlock" is the title of the novel by Oakley Hall. It is the story of a Western marshall and all those followers of "Gunsmoke" will love it. "Cottonwoods Grow Tall" by Margaret Bell Houston has its setting in frontier Texas and deals with the career of a valiant and unusual woman.

Readers of historical novels will find two books to interest them. "Red Queen, White Queen" by Henry Treece is a story of Roman occupation of Britain in the time of Nero. This presents a picture of an Empire which was tottering and a people who wanted liberty. "The Devil's Bride" written by Carter A. Vaughan has its setting at the time of the American Revolution, but is concerned with the adventures of a young American and a Turkish princess. It is a story of romance, intrigue and adventure, strictly escape literature.

The other books of fiction this week all have a present day background, set in many parts of the world. "Close Quarters" by Angela Thirkell is another of her Barsetshire chronicles set in a small corner of England. "Arena" by Charles Grayson deals with the adventures of a sports correspondent in New York and Madrid. Devotees of the bull fight will want to read this book. "Gazella" is the title of Stuart Cloete's latest book, which has its setting in present day Africa. No one has Stuart Cloete's magic of evoking the spell of the Dark Continent. He knows her forests, primitive beasts, and black men torn between tribal witchcraft and the twentieth century. He has presented it all in this book. "The Sons of Avrom" by Roger Ikor is the story of a family who fled the Czarist regime in Russia and settled in France. It is a long rich story and makes fascinating reading. "The Exodus" by Leon Uris is a novel of present day Israel and gives a fascinating picture of a people's dream to establish a homeland, to live in Freedom, to build cities, turn deserts into gardens and live far from the shadow of oppression. It is the story of men in mortal struggle and of men and women in love.

Several outstanding books were added to the non-fiction collection of the library during the past week. "Masters of French Painting" by George Besson is a very lovely and comprehensive study of the subject. "Gaugin drawings" presents reproductions of the work of this master artist. Three very practical books are "The Science of Skin and Scuba diving." "How to Get into Television" by Robert Solotaire and "Electricity in Agricultural Engineering" by Truman E. Heinton. "Schubert" by Maurice Brown is a very fine critical biography of this outstanding musician. Stories of the Civil War are always popular and this week we have another history of this conflict called "The Story of the Civil War" written by Col. Red Reeder. Last of all there is a book which should be of interest to teachers and to parents called "A Teacher Is A Person". The author of this book is Charles H. Wilson.

If you are not using the services of your Parish Library, we invite your patronage.

Once Upon A City Describes NYC 1890-1910

ONCE UPON A CITY: New York from 1890 to 1910 as photographed by Byron and described by Grace M. Mayer. Macmillan. $15.

Led by Joseph Byron, the Byron family came to this country from England in 1888 and over the years father, son Peter and other members took 10,000 pictures of New York City. The collection has been compared to the irreplaceable Atget photographic record of Paris, and that is as high as praise can go. The 10,000 photos were presented by Peter Byron in 1942 to the Museum of the City of New York, which has got from them three major exhibitions and now this book, on which an immense amount of most knowledgeable and loving care has been spent by Miss Mayer, the museum's curator of prints.

Over 200 photographs are reprinted here, and with each one Miss Mayer writes an article describing the scene, the time, the characters, the relationship to the larger metropolitan setting. There are the square, street, parade, theater, restaurant, hotel, private home, roof garden, Coney Island, wedding, funeral, horsecar, auto, bicycle, sweat shop, immigrant — this is an incredibly rich and varied collection. Miss Mayer works in an odd word every now and then — cynosuric, synonymical, recountal, mollificatory; but they are no older than the sights themselves. It would be impossible to find anyone alive so informed about turn-of-the century New York as the encyclopedic Miss Mayer.

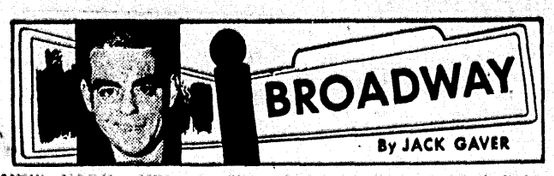
SHIRLEY TEMPLE'S STORYBOOK
"The Wild Swans"
Beautiful Hair BRECK
TODAY 4:00 to 5:00 P.M.
CHANNEL 8



NEW YORK (UPI) — Since each annual edition of "Ice Capades" costs well into six figures to mount, not to mention weekly running costs, and since the current show is the 19th of the series, it follows that there must be legions of loyal ice show fans throughout the country. With ticket money.

Personally, I swore off ice shows about 10 years ago. That was after annual (sometimes semi-annual) reviewing of same in the since - demolished Center Theater in Rockefeller Center over a period of eight seasons. Because they were, technically, theatrical revues, I had to cover them.

By the time these productions were discontinued, I had had it. The scenery and costumes were different every time, but there are only so many things that can be done in a certain number of ways on ice skates. Although there was a new face now and then, the Center's performers generally seemed to remain the same.

So when the city's ice show quota boiled down to the annual limited engagements of a couple of arena - type touring productions in Madison Square Garden, it was a relief not to have to cover them.

But I broke down this month and went to the annual fall opening of John H. Harris' "Ice Capades" at the Garden. And I enjoyed it.

It seems that every year observers report that "Ice Capades" is a bigger and better show than ever. The same will have to be said about this 19th edition.

This is a smooth, swift, integrated creation with opulent production numbers and individual performances that are breathtaking at times. The fans in the 23 cities up, down and across the country that will get the show between now and May 17 can count on getting their money's worth.

The spectacle numbers, in which the 20 Ice Ca'pets" and 20 Ice Cadets shine with their involved precision work, include an opening based on the ballet "Les Sylphides," a truncated version of "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" based on Walt Disney's film treatment of same, a medley of numbers from four operas, a navy tribute called "Anchors Asway," a series of all - time Tin Pan Alley song hits and "Salute to the Black Watch," which, of course, is as Scottish as a frozen haggis.

As for individuals — there are so many good ones — first mention has to go to 21-year-old Ronnie Robertson, who must be the doggonedest thing ever seen on the blades. His spins are, to put it inadequately, "impossible."

There are plenty of comedy numbers, always vitally important to an ice show, with turns by such as that perennial clown, Freddie Trenkler; midget Paul Castle; and Hugh Forgie and Stig Larson, whose badminton on skates is as hilarious as it is astounding. Also there are the terrific adagio team of Romayne and Steele; Cathy Machado; comedians Labrecque and Gray; funnyman Eric Waite; Helga and Jimmy Grogan.

Air Force Says 'Man High III' Will Be Fired

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UPI)— The Air Force said Friday it will send its "Man High III" balloon 20 miles into the stratosphere at dawn Monday with a lone volunteer huddled in a tightly sealed cabin.

The Air Force's third trip to the fringes of outer space will be made by a volunteer jet pilot, 1st Lt. Clifford McClure, 26, Anderson, S.C.

McClure, who considers floating high above the earth "great fun," was scheduled for a second practice flight in a smaller, open gondola craft late Friday night.

High winds of 7 knots, however, postponed the scheduled test flight until dawn. Air force officials said the delay would not have any effect on the proposed stratosphereic ascent on Monday.

He floated 200 miles across North Dakota Thursday with instructor Lee Lewis on his eight-hour "maiden" balloon excursion. He was required to stay aloft eight more hours, then take a solo jaunt before taking the Man High trip.

RECORDS

By WILLIAM D. LAFFLER

NEW YORK —(UPI) — "Louis and The Good Book" (Decca DL-8741) is one of the best of the thousands of records that Armstrong has made.

Here is a selection of spirituals sung with great feeling by a man digging back to the roots of his religious heritage.

Among the 12 spirituals are two written by Robert MacGimsey, a white man who grew up in the rich delta plantation country of northeast Louisiana and captured in "Shadrach" and "Jonah and the Whale" the fervor and religious zeal of the Negroes around him.

Other hymns in this group include "Down by the Riverside" and "Ezekiel Saw De Wheel." Armstrong uses his trumpet sparingly, relying more on his voice and those of the Sy Oliver Choir.

"Al Hirt Swingin' Dixie" is another fine recording (Audio Fidelity AFLP 1877) for the jazz fan. Hirt upholds the Dixieland tradition with much respect; too much respect, perhaps, on some numbers in which his combo plays with a precision that is almost distracting.

Other good jazz LP's: "Goin' to Kansas City Blues" by Jimmy Witherspoon with Jay McShann and his Band (RCA Victor LPM-1639), "Terry Gibbs plays the Duke" (EmArcy MG 36128), "In Love With Red" by Red Nichols and the Augmented Pennies (Capitol T999) and "Sax Appeal" by the Hollywood Saxophone Quartet (Liberty LRP 3080).

Turntable Talk — "The Day I Died" is a gruesome title but another hit for the Paymates (Roulette R-4100) . . . "Knish Doctor" by Mickey Katz (Capitol F-4037) should end the witch-doctor fad. A hilarious takeoff. The "Poiple Kishke Eater" is the funny flip-over . . . Pop Organist Lenny Dee gives new sound to two mellow oldies, "After You've Gone" and "June Night" (Decca 9-30718) . . .

Patty McCormack, who scored a hit on Broadway as a homicidal brat a few seasons back, has four good little singles on "Kathy-O" (Dot DEP-1067) . . . Jack Paar fans may like "Funny What You Learn from Women" and "Blue Wiggle," a gimmick record (RCA Victor 47-7306) . . . Young Scott Engel should catch on with "Paper Doll" and "Bluebell" (Orbit R-512).

LP of the Week—"Paris-1925" by Zizi Jeanmairie and Roland Petit (Columbia WL-12). Husband and wife team combine talents of fine selection of Gallic tunes of three decades ago.

By DELOS SMITH

NEW YORK — (UPI) — If the record - makers have their way, you'll be collecting prima donnas instead of menus or stamps. Nothing like a batch of prima donnas to freshen up the home.

Angel has Callas, London has Tebaldi, and now Columbia has latched onto Antonietta Stella. Angel and London have been slapping one another around competitively with prima donnas for years. Now it will be a three-way battle.

Columbia's first Stella offering is a complete "La Boheme" in which Gianni Poggi is her tenor foil. The chorus, orchestra, and lesser cast members belong to the San Carlo Opera of Naples and the conductor was Fancesco Molinari - Pardelli (Columbia-M-21401).

The chances are you have a "La Boheme" in your collection. If it is the Renata Tebaldi "La Boheme," the new Stella one won't send you because Tebaldi by voice alone can out-emote any prime donna today.

But if it is the Maria Callas "La Boheme," the sheer purity and beauty of Stella's voice will interest you. Callas must be seen as well as heard for maximum impact. As singer-actress she's tops but on records you can be only a singer.

The death of Ralph Vaughan Williams coincides, by chance, with the issuance of a record that represents his essence as a composer most satisfactorily.

It was made by Sir Malcolm Sargent with the London Symphony and its chorus. The chorus was needed for "Toward the Unknown Region," a moving song. Also on the record is Williams' youthful overture, "The Wasps," his most played work, the fantasia on "Greensleeves," and the powerful "Serenade to Music" for four soloists, chorus and orchestra (Angel 35564).

Eleven of the tuneful, emotion-charged compositions of Fritz Kreisler have been arranged for string orchestra and recorded by the ear-stunning, technically brilliant "Concertmasters of New York." The pieces include such old-time standbys as "Caprice Viennois," "Liebesfreud," and "Tambourin Chinois" which are most beguiling — when they are well - played and you haven't heard them in a long time. (Decca-9986)

Stereoscope — Vanguard's stereophonic recording of "Scheherazade" is a real buy. The suggested list price is only $2.98 but it is an excellent introduction to the new marvels of stereo. (Vanguard SRV-103-Sd).

NEW YORK (UPI) — Since each annual edition of "Ice Capades" costs well into six figures to mount, not to mention weekly running costs, and since the current show is the 19th of the series, it follows that there must be legions of loyal ice show fans throughout the country. With ticket money.

Personally, I swore off ice shows about 10 years ago. That was after annual (sometimes semi-annual) reviewing of same in the since - demolished Center Theater in Rockefeller Center over a period of eight seasons. Because they were, technically, theatrical revues, I had to cover them.

By the time these productions were discontinued, I had had it. The scenery and costumes were different every time, but there are only so many things that can be done in a certain number of ways on ice skates. Although there was a new face now and then, the Center's performers generally seemed to remain the same.

So when the city's ice show quota boiled down to the annual limited engagements of a couple of arena - type touring productions in Madison Square Garden, it was a relief not to have to cover them.

But I broke down this month and went to the annual fall opening of John H. Harris' "Ice Capades" at the Garden. And I enjoyed it.

It seems that every year observers report that "Ice Capades" is a bigger and better show than ever. The same will have to be said about this 19th edition.

This is a smooth, swift, integrated creation with opulent production numbers and individual performances that are breathtaking at times. The fans in the 23 cities up, down and across the country that will get the show between now and May 17 can count on getting their money's worth.

The spectacle numbers, in which the 20 Ice Ca'pets" and 20 Ice Cadets shine with their involved precision work, include an opening based on the ballet "Les Sylphides," a truncated version of "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" based on Walt Disney's film treatment of same, a medley of numbers from four operas, a navy tribute called "Anchors Asway," a series of all - time Tin Pan Alley song hits and "Salute to the Black Watch," which, of course, is as Scottish as a frozen haggis.

As for individuals — there are so many good ones — first mention has to go to 21-year-old Ronnie Robertson, who must be the doggonedest thing ever seen on the blades. His spins are, to put it inadequately, "impossible."

There are plenty of comedy numbers, always vitally important to an ice show, with turns by such as that perennial clown, Freddie Trenkler; midget Paul Castle; and Hugh Forgie and Stig Larson, whose badminton on skates is as hilarious as it is astounding. Also there are the terrific adagio team of Romayne and Steele; Cathy Machado; comedians Labrecque and Gray; funnyman Eric Waite; Helga and Jimmy Grogan.

The itinerary includes in order: Cleveland, Cincinnati, Philadelphia, Buffalo, Toronto, Montreal, Syracuse, Rochester, N.Y., Springfield, Mass., Raleigh, Charlotte, Boston, Providence, New Haven, Washington, Hershey, Detroit, St. Louis, Milwaukee, Omaha, Chicago, Denver and Los Angeles.

Sketches Of Candidates Teekell, McSween Given

TEEKELL

Long replied the Eighth is his home district and the winner will be his congressman.

As the spotlight centered on the colorful antics of the governor and McSween, Teekell labored persistently in the shadows.

Born March 12, 1922, at Elmer in Rapides Parish and reared on a farm near Pitkin in Vernon Parish, Teekell draws his greatest strength from farm areas.

He led in the first primary over eight foes because of his strength in the seven rural parishes of the district. McSween topped the field in Rapids, where Alexandria is located.

Teekell, serving a second term as Rapides Parish representative, is most effective talking to farmers.

After finishing Pitkin High School in 1939, young Teekell joined the Civilian Conservation Corps, working mainly in reforestation and soil erosion projects.

During World War Two, he served with the 99th Combat Infantry Division and was cited by British Field Marshal Montgomery for action in the battle of the Bulge. Teekell's unit received a presidential citation in the same battle.

Returning to Louisiana, Teekell attended Louisiana State University, graduating in 1948 with a bachelor's degree in government. In 1951, he graduated from the LSU law school.

Teekell joined the law firm of McSween, Eubank and McSween, remaining there one year before starting his own practice in Alexandria.

In 1954, the young lawyer was elected to complete the unexpired House term of the late James R. Eubanks, his former law partner. He was re-elected in 1956 with Long's backing.

Teekell was married shortly before the 1956 Legislature. He has one daughter, Lisa Renee.

He is a Baptist, Mason and belongs to three veterans groups, VFW, American Legion and Amvets.

In the Legislature, he has sponsored the measure providing a bonus for veterans of World War One, along with a number of other measures for veterans.

He is chairman of a joint legislative committee on hospitals and institutions which has investigated the state penitentiary and a number of hospitals and mental institutions.

Teekell describes himself as "associated politically with the Long administration. I have nevertheless differed with Gov. Long in many instances. . I have always considered myself an independent minded legislator."

MCSWEEN

ALEXANDRIA, La. (AP)—Harold B. McSween, 32, almost unknown two years ago, slapped hard at the political prestige of Gov. Earl Long in a name-calling election fight.

The young attorney and educator has turned loose his own brand of political lightning, trying to shake off the underdog role in his bid for Congress.

Long, astonished at McSween, a vote grabbing newcomer in his home district, raced around the territory with fired-up stumping speeches.

And McSween countered the personal onslaught of his powerful attacker by saying, "I don't have a governor behind me. I think the people want an independent candidate."

Personable, firm-jawed and friendly, the well-built McSween has attracted admiring anti-Long support from outside his district.

McSween's weapon is a simple one. He is battling the Longs by taking the fight to them. A sock 'em campaigner, he figures the only way to trip the Long power is to "take the offensive fast, hit 'em in the teeth."

Politicians on both sides of the fence rated the runoff a tossup, with Teekell holding the edge because of Long's undisputed ability to muster ballots with his gallus-snapping personality.

Longs and anti-Longs throughout the state watched the scrap, which could influence events leading to the 1959 race for governor.

McSween pushed aside one member of the Long family in his climb toward political recognition. He defeated Mrs. Clara Long Knott, the governor's sister in a 1956 contest for the State Board of Education.

Young McSween stepped ahead of another Long, state Sen. Speedy Long of Jena, who finished third in the nine - way congressional race. Teekell and McSween ran one-two.

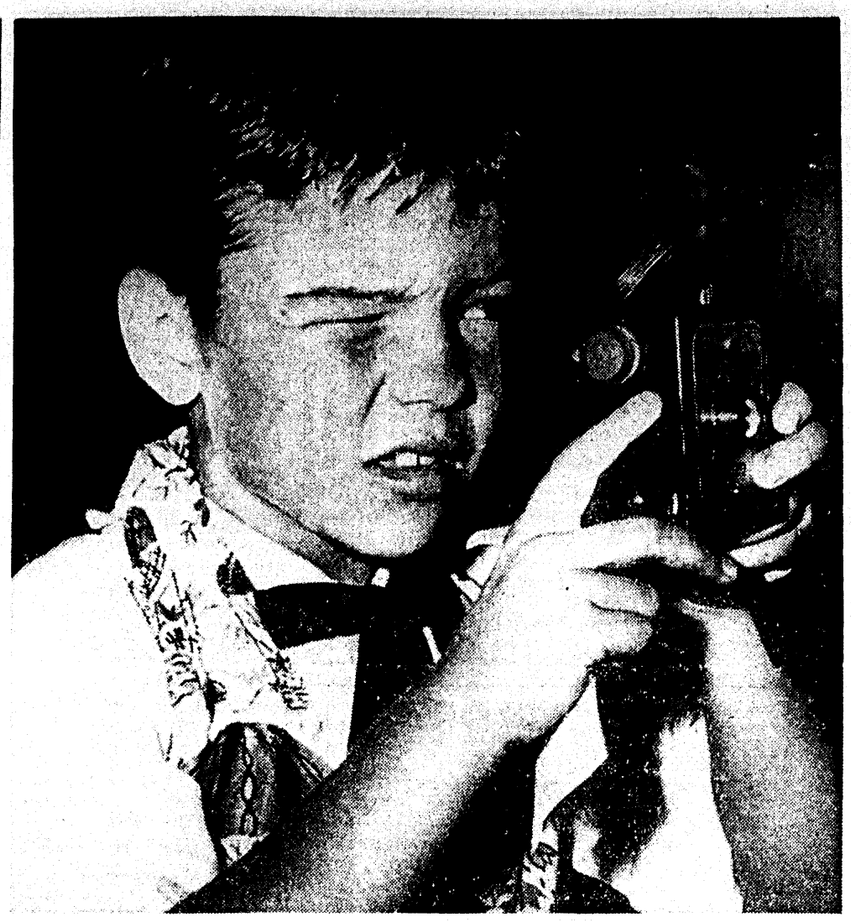
McSween attributes his 1956 vote victory over Mrs. Knott, 21,374 to 17,959, to two factors. He feels he was better qualified because he served on the Rapides Parish School Board, "and I emphasized there are other people in Louisiana besides the Longs capable of holding high public office," he said.

Long flung personal taunts at McSween as the "spoiled son" of a rich papa and a "fair-haired, silver spoon boy."

McSween, the governor remarked, would have been a lot better off "if he hadn't just about asked Uncle Earl to step in."

McSween, a resident of Alexandria all his life, is the son of John H. McSween, distinguished head of one of the city's oldest law firms, McSween and McSween.

For 25 years, his father was a partner of the late U. S. Sen. John Overton.



PRESIDENT TELLS HIM TO WRITE —"He told me to write him a letter," said little ten-year-old Patrick Charles Regan, of Unionville, Pa., after he approached President Eisenhower at Ligonier's bi-centennial celebration and asked the President for his autograph, The President had Secret Service men obtain the boy's name and told them to tell the boy to write and he'd answer Patrick personally. # Appeal On Mix Rejected In Va.

United Press International

A federal appeals court Saturday rejected last-ditch pleas that it postpone integration of public schools in Warren County and Norfolk, Va., for one year.

The ruling by the U.S. 4th Circuit Court of Appeals in Baltimore apparently meant Gov. J. Lindsay Almond Jr., would move to close Norfolk's six white junior and senior high schools and remove them from the school system under Virginia's anti-integration laws.

It also meant Warren County's only high school, locked up by Almond because of integration Sept. 14, would remain closed.

In Arkansas, Little Rock voters went to the polls Saturday to determine whether they want their schools reopened segregated or integrated.

The election was a preliminary to a plan which would lease the schools to a corporation and reopen them as private, segregated institutions.

The Supreme Court announced Saturday night it will meet Monday to hand down its formal opinion spelling out its Sept. 12 order directing immediate racial integration of the Little Rock public schools.

The U. S. Court of Appeals in St. Louis was unable to take any action on a request by the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People for an immediate hearing and a temporary restraining order against the Little Rock school board's leasing of school property to a private corporation.

Thurgood Marshall, the NAACP's chief counsel in New York, said he planned to file such a petition. But it had not been received by the time the clerk's office closed for the weekend.

213 Oil Wells Completed In Tex. Last Week

The cumulative total for the year rose to 9,272, well under the 11,824 tallied during the comparable period in 1957.

However, addition of 42 new gas wells pushed the total for 1958 to 1,666, slightly ahead of last year's 1,477.

There were 84 wildcat wells reported, of which 78 were dry holes. The other six were producing oil.

The total average calendar day allowable as of Saturday was 3,220,476 barrels of oil, an increase of 9,379 barrels daily for the week.

Sketches Of Candidates Teekell, McSween Given

TEEKELL

Long replied the Eighth is his home district and the winner will be his congressman.

As the spotlight centered on the colorful antics of the governor and McSween, Teekell labored persistently in the shadows.

Born March 12, 1922, at Elmer in Rapides Parish and reared on a farm near Pitkin in Vernon Parish, Teekell draws his greatest strength from farm areas.

He led in the first primary over eight foes because of his strength in the seven rural parishes of the district. McSween topped the field in Rapids, where Alexandria is located.

Teekell, serving a second term as Rapides Parish representative, is most effective talking to farmers.

After finishing Pitkin High School in 1939, young Teekell joined the Civilian Conservation Corps, working mainly in reforestation and soil erosion projects.

During World War Two, he served with the 99th Combat Infantry Division and was cited by British Field Marshal Montgomery for action in the battle of the Bulge. Teekell's unit received a presidential citation in the same battle.

Returning to Louisiana, Teekell attended Louisiana State University, graduating in 1948 with a bachelor's degree in government. In 1951, he graduated from the LSU law school.

Teekell joined the law firm of McSween, Eubank and McSween, remaining there one year before starting his own practice in Alexandria.

Nuptial Vows Repeated In Choudrant

At seven o'clock in the evening in the Alabama Presbyterian Church Miss Janie O'Neal became the bride of James Lowery. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. James Lee O'Neal of Choudrant and the late Mr. O'Neal. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Lowery of Ruston.

The Rev. Dr. S. E. McFaddin officiated over the double ring ceremony. Vows were read before an altar artistically decorated with ivy and tall burning white tapers.

BRIDAL GOWN

The bride was escorted to the altar by her brother, James Robert O'Neal, who gave her in marriage. She wore a gown of white net and lace over satin and featured a fitted bodice of lace and long sleeves. She carried a white Bible topped with a white orchid.

H. J. Lowery served his brother as best man. The ushers were Herbert Farmer and Harold Lowery.

The Secret Of Youth Is Work

NEW YORK (UPI)—The secret of youth? Work, says an 82-year-old coed at New York University.

The words of wisdom come from Mrs. Else Koepke, undoubtedly one of the oldest students returning to any campus this fall and also undoubtedly one of the youngest.

"I have always had work to to do," said the sprightly, German born Mrs. Koepke. "Always around the house . . . I still do all my own cleaning and cooking. I used to have a big garden, but since living in an apartment I cannot do that anymore.

"I am blessed with good health; otherwise I could not do all the things I still do. I did setting-up exercise morning.

Leads Own Life

Mrs. Koepke, born in Berlin, grew up in Hamburg where she was married and then moved to Bremen where she lived until her husband's death in the middle 1940's.

She came to the United States 10 years ago, at the invitation of a daughter, Mrs. Eva Opton, one of her two living children. A son and daughter were lost in World War II.

"But before I came, I insisted I should have my own life," said Mrs. Koepke in an interview. "I have an apartment quite near my daughter, so I have a family and my own life too." She also has become a citizen.

Mrs. Koepke has been taking courses in her great "love"—literature—at NYU's Division of General Education virtually ever since she arrived.

Youngest In Class

"If open-mindedness and enthusiasm are characteristics of the young, then Mrs. Koepke is the youngest student in class," said Prof. Nathan Teitel, who taught her last year.

Said Mrs. Koepke: "I will go to school as long as my mental and physical capacities hold out. Going to school keeps you young too."

This fall, Mrs. Koepke, who has 16 grand and great-grandchildren, enrolled in an afternoon course in which she will review works already familiar to her—reading Shakespeare, Milton, Dante, and other "greats" of literature. She goes to class by subway, and does all her reading without the aid of eyeglasses.

Beanie Building Successful And New Business

By GAY PAULEY

LOCUST VALLEY, N.Y. (UPI) —The beanie, "old hat" in the world of fashion, is building a successful new business for Mrs. Robert B. Smith.

All because the young matron thought up amusing ways to re-do the small, brimless felts which are classics of headcovers.

Now, children in all parts of the country are wearing beanies decorated with small, felt skunks and proclaiming "Hi, Stinky"; beanies with a red-nosed penguin and the words "Cool, man, cool"; beanies with an alligator and "See you later."

Mrs. Smith, whose husband is with a New York bank, got into the beanie business as a result of a doll shop she opened in this Long Island suburb.

HUSBAND HAS IDEA

"And I got into the doll business because I have three small girls," said the tall, brown-haired Mrs. Smith. "I always have sewed, and I started designing doll clothes for the kids. Pretty soon, I was also sewing for the neighbors children."

Three years ago she opened the "Little Women" shop. "This summer," she said, "I decided I needed some gimmick to perk up sales. My husband said, 'Why not do something with hats? Everybody loves a hat'."

Her first beanie featured a glue-on mouse and a big - lettered "EEK." But she dreamed up "about 40" different styles and with Mrs. Robert Dunne, a neighbor and "my right arm" in the doll shop, they went in search of a manufacturer.

MRS. DONALD RAY MCGOUGH

One deft cook has a neat way of preparing a lattice-top pie crust. She draws a pattern of the lattice on a square of waxed paper using one of her small fry's crayons. Then she turns the crayoned side face down and arranges the pastry strips in place. The latticed pastry and the waxed paper are flipped over the top of her filled bottom crust, then the paper is removed and the edge of the pie is finished by crimping.

On September 20, in the St. Matthews Catholic Church of Monroe, Miss Carol Ann Caruso and Henry England Cole, both of Monroe, were united in marriage. The bride's parents are Mrs. Arlie Jenkins of Knoxville, Tenn., and Vincent James Caruso of Covington, Ky. Parents of the groom are Mrs. Mildred Cole of Marshall, Texas, and John F. Cole of Rusk, Texas.

Father Roy L. DeCaigney performed the double ring ceremony before pink gladioli and greenery. Leon Hammond was the organist and accompanied Mrs. Leonard Hearton who was the soloist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was gowned in silk organdy over taffeta with a veil of silk illusion. She carried a bouquet of pink roses mounted on a prayer book.

Beanie Building Successful And New Business

By GAY PAULEY

All because the young matron thought up amusing ways to re-do the small, brimless felts which are classics of headcovers.

Now, children in all parts of the country are wearing beanies decorated with small, felt skunks and proclaiming "Hi, Stinky"; beanies with a red-nosed penguin and the words "Cool, man, cool"; beanies with an alligator and "See you later."

Mrs. Smith, whose husband is with a New York bank, got into the beanie business as a result of a doll shop she opened in this Long Island suburb.

HUSBAND HAS IDEA

"And I got into the doll business because I have three small girls," said the tall, brown-haired Mrs. Smith. "I always have sewed, and I started designing doll clothes for the kids. Pretty soon, I was also sewing for the neighbors children."

Three years ago she opened the "Little Women" shop. "This summer," she said, "I decided I needed some gimmick to perk up sales. My husband said, 'Why not do something with hats? Everybody loves a hat'."

Her first beanie featured a glue-on mouse and a big - lettered "EEK." But she dreamed up "about 40" different styles and with Mrs. Robert Dunne, a neighbor and "my right arm" in the doll shop, they went in search of a manufacturer.

Miss Young Is Betrothed To Rev. R. Cook

MATRON-OF-HONOR

Mrs. G. L. Shepard of West Monroe, will serve her sister as matron of honor. The bridesmaids will be Mrs. Jack Rawls of Bastrop, Mrs. Charles Brown of Monroe, Miss Linda Garrett, Miss Glenda Sue Young, Miss Linda Lavendar of West Monroe, and Mrs. Joe Herndon of Waco, Texas.

Dr. Jack Rawls of Bastrop will serve the groom as best man. The ushers will be G. L. Shepard, Judge E. L. Gladney, Jr., L. E. Rawls, J. A. Davenport, H. Duke Shackleford, Anthony Pierce and George H. Goodwin. The organist will be L. Slade Brown.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Ouachita Parish High School, attended La. Tech, University of Houston, and received a B. A. degree from Northeast Louisiana State College.

The Rev. Cook is a graduate of Fortier High School, New Orleans, attended University of Wisconsin and Nashotah Seminary, Nashotah, Wisconsin.

Vows Exchanged By Miss Lanier And D. McGough

The marriage of Miss Julia Jean Lanier, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Lanier, and Donald Ray McGough, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. McGough, all of this city, was an event of September ninth, at seven - thirty in the evening.

The Rev. Jimmie Bolton performed the ceremony in the First Baptist Church of Columbia, before standards of white gladioli, chrysanthemums and greenery.

BRIDE'S GOWN

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was gowned in nylon lace and taffeta. The finger tip veil of illusion was attached to a crown of lace and seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of tuberoses centered by a white orchid.

Ronny Brothers at the organ, and Mrs. John Merideth at the piano accompanied Mrs. Charles Pollard, the soloist.

Miss Joyce Lanier served the bride as maid of honor. She was gowned in taffeta featuring a draped neckline and bouffant skirt. Her headdress was of matching material. She carried a nosegay of carnations.

Serving as bridesmaid was Miss Betty Sue McGough. She was dressed identical to the maid of honor. Flower girl was Sheila McGough. She carried a basket of rose petals.

Frank McGough served his brother as best man. The groomsmen and ushers were Jimmy McGough, Oscar Evans and Arlis Grant.

RECEPTION

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of Mrs. L. R. Adams in Columbia.

The bride's table was covered with a lace cloth and held the tiered wedding cake as the central decor. To one end was the crystal punch service. Mrs. Gene Brazzell served punch and serving cake was Mrs. Charles Pollard. Mrs. Oscar Evans registered the guests.

Following a wedding trip, the couple are at home in Columbia, where the bride is a teacher in the business department at Columbia High School, and the groom is director of music at the First Baptist Church.

MRS. DONALD RAY MCGOUGH

One deft cook has a neat way of preparing a lattice-top pie crust. She draws a pattern of the lattice on a square of waxed paper using one of her small fry's crayons. Then she turns the crayoned side face down and arranges the pastry strips in place. The latticed pastry and the waxed paper are flipped over the top of her filled bottom crust, then the paper is removed and the edge of the pie is finished by crimping.

The weather for the week has prevented the wearing of any of our new fall clothes. Surely after October first, things will cool off a bit. A little cool, crisp-but-sunny "suit weather" is in order for Indian summer. Then we can wear the new hats—a sure cure for the blues which we get about this time of year. Philene Hammer expresses this woebegone tag - end - of - a-heat - wave feeling in her "September Song and Dance":

Every man I meet of late
Would be my pal, my brother;
And I, who once was whistle bait,
Now feel like Whistler's mother.

Biggest party of the week was the annual silver tea given by the Children of the American Revolution, Lt. Joseph Bowmar chapter. The young people did themselves proud on this party, given at MERLE ADAMS'; but the weather and about five inches of rain kept most of the new fall hats at home . . . Presenting a charming picture were the girls in colonial costumes, who greeted guests with a curtsey. These were ANN ARMSTRONG, KAY ADAMS, BARBARA BUCKNER, MARY LOUISE GUYTON, and JUDITH LIL MORGAN of Ruston.

A real scene - stealer was six - months - old LEAH JUNE EBY, youngest member of this CAR chapter, who was registered at birth. She wore an exquisite christening dress of white batiste and received her guests with radiant smiles.

Green and white was used in decorations in living and dining rooms. White stock with white grapes was seen on the mantel, and centering the dining table was a colonial bouquet of gardenias and white calladium . . . Punch was served in the den, where a champagne beige Belgian linen cloth was most effective against the paneled walls. Bronze mums and frosted green grapes floated on the ice in the punch bowl, which was placed in a wicker basket. Wicker serving pieces were used to pass chicken salad sandwiches, cheese straws, pecan rounds, and tiny date cookies.

DR. and MRS. ROSCOE ROY SPENCER of Sarasota, Florida, have been here visiting their son and his family, the NAT SPENCERS. Dr. Spencer was the medical director of the National Cancer Institute in Bethesda, Maryland, prior to his retirement. A number of entertainments have been planned for the guests. LAURA JOHNSON planned a boat ride for Sunday night, but due to rain it became an indoor dinner . . . A family group met at the TRIPP FAULKS, JR., for dessert and coffee Wednesday night. Three generations of both families came to a total of thirteen persons at the party.

A lovely home luncheon was MAE WALSWORTH'S compliment to Mrs. Spencer last Friday. The table was centered with an exquisite figurine holding an epergne filled with yellow chrysanthemums. Twelve ladies were seated for the meal consisting of shrimp salad in avocados, potato puffs, asparagus casserole, and meringues filled with lime sherbert.

Wednesday LESSIE GARRETT and FRANCES M'HENRY hosted a small coffee honoring Mrs. Spencer. Conversation piece of the party was the "Queen Elizabeth's Taste" cake . . . JEAN GENTRY complimented the visitor with a seated conversational hour Thursday morning. An unusual treatment of roses with pine branches centered the serving table, where JEAN HUENEFELD poured coffee. Party sandwiches and dainty confections, including Jean's homemade divinity, were served.

Also in honor of Mrs. Spencer was the seated coffee hosted by WILHEMINA INABNET and BOBBIE INABNET on Friday. Milk glass plates shaped to hold matching cups were used to serve the light brunch of chicken salad finger sandwiches, miniature doughnuts, and nuts. Twelve ladies attended the party.

The A. E. ALLENS are planning to leave next month to make their home in Atlanta, Texas, near Texarkana. Bonnette was honored with a farewell party at the home of BEA JOHN Monday afternoon. The hostess was wearing a two-piece navy winter cotton with a blouson back, while the guest of honor chose a brown floral printed sheath. An autumn dried arrangement was the decoration in the living room. DORIS HARBUCK poured coffee at the dining table, which was centered with pink double asters and salvia. Sandwiches and little cookies were served to about twenty guests.

ANN BERNHARDT hosted a bridge party at the Lotus Club on Thursday. Four tables played, with JEAN DAVIS winning high; GAIL FORTENBERRY, second; and DOLLY PETRUS, low. Chocolate cream pie was served.

A small coffee Wednesday at the home of MARY WEBSTER welcomed newcomers DARLENE LINER and MARTHA SNIVLEY. Co - hostess was WAENA MAYO. Darlene comes to us from Houma. Martha is a former resident of Washington, D. C., but lived in New Orleans during the past few months. Bronze magnolia leaves were used with bittersweet in an interesting arrangement in the living room. Fruit in a compote centered the dining table, where homemade sweet rolls and brownies were served with coffee. About fourteen guests attended.

Wednesday at Bayou DeSiard Country club, PAT BAGWELL entertained at bridge. Guests included members of a Wednesday club at which Pat is a frequent substitute. Prize winners were CISSY RYAN, high; ANN BERNHARDT, second; and NANCY DAVIS, low. Chocolate nut sundaes were served to three tables of players.

The Dunns are on their way home from a vacation in Miami, Florida, progressing with a leisurely tour through the South. The Worthens joined them for a weekend in New Orleans before they came here the first of the week.

'Twas good to see FRAN M'CROCKLIN back in town after several months in Brazil. She landed in Miami early in the month and spent nearly a week there. She also stopped in Mansfield for a visit with her mother, MRS. O. F. HANCOCK, before coming to Monroe. Mrs. Hancock came with her daughter for a visit last week and has now returned home.

The ARTHUR SMITHS JR., are in Baton Rouge this weekend. They are making the acquaintance of Syndie's new little relative, DARI ROWE. Dari is the daughter of the CHARLES ROWES. Her mother, the former Ann Barron, has been a frequent visitor to Monroe.

A skating party marked ANDY MINTZ'S eighth birthday Wednesday. The group played the stop the music game, with MOISE WOODBURN and AMY NELL RILEY winning the prizes. Modeling clay was given as a favor to the forty children attending. Doughnuts, candy and soft drinks were the refreshments.

Nine years old last weekend was PETEY SMITH. He celebrated by taking seven little friends to the picture show. After the movies, the group went to an ice cream parlor for banana splits.

SHERRY DICKENHORST passed up a birthday party this year. She was ten years old Tuesday, the age for beginning the study of American history in the fifth grade. So on Friday she flew with her parents, the DICK DICKENHORSTS, to Washington, D. C., for a weekend of sightseeing. Sherry's birthday party. They will be back tomorrow.

Here is Andrew Marve"'s poem "To His Coy Mistress," which is a great favorite of Charles Laughton's for reading aloud:

Had we but world enough and time,
This coyness, Lady, were no crime.
We would sit down and think which way
To walk and pass our long love's day.
An hundred years should go to praise
Thine eyes and on thy forehead gaze:
An age at least to every part,
And the last age should show your heart.
For Lady, you deserve this state.
Now would I love at lower rate.
But at my back I always hear
Time's winged chariot hurrying near;
And yonder all before us lie
Deserts of vast eternity.
The grave's a fine and private place,
But none, I think, do there embrace .
Now therefore, while the youthful hue
Sits on thy skin like morning dew,
Now let us sport us while we may,
And now, like amorous birds of prey,
Let us roll all our strength and all
Our sweetness up into one ball.
And tear our pleasures with rough strife
Through the iron gates of life:
Thus, though we cannot make our sun
Stand still, yet we will make him run.

Household Hints

United Press International

Stretch butter when making sandwiches by whipping in evaporated milk. It won't alter the flavor and makes the butter easier to spread.

When buying eggs, look for a carton that has small slits on the bottom. The slits allow a broken egg to run out and prevent the consumer from "getting stuck" with hidden breakage.

Girl Scout News

There's a lot going on. Training and neighborhood and mother's meetings, all for the sole purpose of making good Scouting possible for girls, have been occupying the time of Scout adults, while girls are concerned with resumption of troop activities, plans for the year, for out of door activities while the weather is good.

Troop 8 has often held the honor of being the first troop to reregister in the fall. This year, however, it holds second place, Troop 2 having been the first to comply with registration requirements. A salute to both for continuity of leadership and good program!

Registering for the third year of Scouting and the first in the Intermediate program are the following fifth grade girls at Georgia Tucker School: Beverly Buscanics, Susan Cochran, Nancy Edelman, Louise Hunnicutt, Mary Tom Keller, Donna Jean King, Sharon Masur, Paula Meek, Cheryl Montgomery, Linda Porter, Janna Rorex, Delane Ruddick, Sandra Seale, Ilala Snapp, Gale Summerfield, Sherry Usrey, Mimi Williamson. Leaders are Mrs. W. T. King and Mrs. George Rorex, and serving on the troop committee are Mrs. T. M. Keller, Mrs. Billy Seale, Mrs. Leo Montgomery, Mrs Sylvian Masur, Mrs. John Summerfield.

A "fly-up", or first year Intermediate troop, too, Troop 8 is registering for its fourth year, with Mrs. E. M. Varnado and Mrs. C. E. Leath as leaders and Mrs. J. T. Avery, Mrs. G. R. Fowler, Mrs. Ellis V. Hunt, Mrs. E. B. Pounds, Mrs. Martin Schempf, Mrs. W. H. Chambliss on the troop committee. The following girls, fifth graders at Plum Street School, comprise the troop: Judy Avery, Linda Bradshaw, Cynthia Chambliss, Anita Christman, Kathy Davis, Sandra Fowler, Earlynn Gewin, Mary Lou Gibson, Branda Hale, Connie Sue Halley, Charlotte Hicks, Judy Hunt, Linda Ann Hunt, Carol Johnson, Sherry Lasuzzo, Leslie Leath, Suzette Lindsey, Joyce Maddox, Sheila McGough, Nancy Pounds, Linda Reneau, Mary Louise Schempf, Judy Varnado, Charlotte Wiggins, Linda Kay Willard.

The Program committee of the council, Mrs. Leon Noland, Jr., chairman, urges girls to take their pieces of pottery to the office to be exhibited at the Columbia Art Festival on October 11. "The girls in many troops, as well as those who worked on the Pottery badge requirements have excellent pieces which will help to make an attractive exhibit to show what Girl Scouting teaches in crafts," Mrs. Noland said.

The Neighborhood coffee at Mrs. Caldwell's last week was quite a success we hear, stirring up enthusiasm for the neighborhood association. Events for adults this week are a training session for second year Brownie leaders Wednesday morning, a continuation of training for new leaders on Thursday, training for leaders of older Intermediate troops on Friday mornings at 9:30 at the office.

For their fiftieth wedding anniversary, the Harris home was beautifully decorated using a gold theme. The table, covered with a handsome lace cloth over yellow, had an unusual and exquisite centerpiece composed of large and small yellow mums arranged around two large wedding rings and four large yellow candles. The tiered cake, decorated with white and touches of pink, gold, and green, was topped with a miniature bride and groom under an arch. This was served by two of their grand-daughters, Miss Jerry Lynn Reeves and Miss Edna Spillers. The crystal punch bowl was presided over by one of their daughters, Mrs. Velma Reeves.

GUEST BOOK

The guest book was attended by another of their daughters, Mrs. Either Spillers, where more than one hundred and fifty friends and relatives signed their names.

Miss Jane Lyles was organist and presented a program of nuptial music and accompanied soloist Miss Dawn Williams, cousin of the bridegroom, who sang "Thy Love for Me", "I Take Thee Dear" and "The Lord's Prayer".

Standards of gladioli and white stock were used on either side of the church altar against a background of greenery and cathedral tapers, which glowed over the entire setting. A satin covered prie-dieu was placed in the center front and the bridal party stood on either side with the bride and bridegroom kneeling on it during the ceremony.

BRIDE'S GOWN

The bride entered the church with her father, who gave her in marriage. She wore a gown of satin, tulle and lace fashioned with a V-neckline formed of the lace over satin. Long tightfitted sleeves of lace ended in lily points over the hands. The full skirt was accented with lace scallops which extended to the back and the full length of the gown and the cathedral train. Her veil of illusion of tulle fell softly from her crown of seed pearls and sequins to the floor. She carried a white Bible topped with a cluster of tube roses and centered with an orchid.

Miss Bobbye Jane Fletcher, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor. Mrs. Frances Dear Garner was matron of honor. The bridesmaids were Misses Jean Earle, Faye Lofton, and Patsy Jarrette. They wore identical gowns designed of orchid lace and satin with full ballerina length skirts. Their flowers were bouquets of white carnations.

FLOWER GIRL

Miss LaVerne Fletcher, sister of the bride, and Miss Ronda Adams were the candlelighters. They wore white formals.

Mrs. Williams was wearing a mauve lace with matching accessories and a white carnation corsage.

RECEPTION

The reception was held at the home of the bride's parents following the wedding. The two mothers received guests with the wedding party.

The bride's table was overlaid with a lace table cloth over orchid. The table was centered with an arrangement of white gladioli. The three tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom was served from one end of the table by Mrs. Imogene Eaker of Tullulah. Mrs. Faye Jones served the punch from the crystal punch service.

Miss Williams Is Honored At Bridal Shower

Miss Frankie Williams, bride-eltct of Vincent C. Romano, was complimented this past Sunday with a bridal shower at the home of the groom-elect's mother Mrs. George Romano on Speed Drive.

Hostesses for this occasion were: Mesdames Leo J. Purvis, J. A. Marsala, Julius Fontana, S. P. Kokinos of this city and the aunts of the groom-elect Mesdames B. C. Cusimano, Charles S. Schilleci, Frank Diergo, Frank Alfano and Joe Alfano of Birmingham, Alabama.

Miss Williams was lovely in a trousseau model of Royal blue taffeta trimmed with matching satin at the waist and hemline. She wore matching pumps. Her ensemble was accented by a beautiful corsage of pink carnations which was presented to her by her hostesses.

RECEIVING

Receiving the guests with the honoree and her hostesses was the bride-elect's mother, Mrs. Pat H. Williams, who wore a grey model and Mrs. George Romano, the groom-elect's mother who chose a fall grey creation.

Mrs. Julius Fontana presided at the guest book.

Mrs. Leo J. Purvis and Mrs. J. A. Marsala assisted with the gifts and at the tea table.

Mrs. Reba Chapman, aunt of the bride-elect, presided at the punch bowl.

DECORATIONS

Large beautiful bouquets of white gladiolas and stock placed at vantage points graced the spacious living room, dining room and den. The table of the dining room was attractively adorned with a beautiful creation. It was centered with a large white nylon net parasol. White satin streamers fell from a satin bow at the top of the parasol. At the end of each streamer were tiny silver wedding bells. Under-neath the parasol a bride and groom held hands. A large silver heart underneath the parasol created a background for the miniature bride and groom. Tiny silver hearts and wedding bells and white mums completed the lovely arrangement.

Tall white candles in triple silver candelabra burning on each side of the centerpiece added a lovely glow to the arrangement.

Frozen peas may be cooked in a pressure saucepan. Just put ¼ cup of water and ¼ teaspoon salt along with the frozen peas in the saucepan; cover and cook at 15 pounds pressure for ½ minute. Reduce pressure rapidly, add more salt if desired and serve.

When you're making cocoa for your small fry, stir the cocoa powder together well with the sugar before adding liquid; this first combining is advised because the sugar keeps the tiny starch particles in the cocoa separated so they won't lump.

The Newest On High-Waisted Fall Styles

By MARY PRIME

NEW YORK — French designer Pierre Cardin gives us women the low-down on how to wear the new high-waisted styles.

Main criticism we've heard against the empire or directoire fashions is that they're so young looking and hard to wear.

True, said the youthful couturier, but women needn't look like a bunch of leggy colts or overgrown adolescents. "New fashions are always young. The woman must adapt them to suit her age and figure," he said in an interview before starting a month's tour of the country.

The handsome 32-year - old Cardin, who trained with Christian Dior, will show six outfits which he designed for McCall's patterns and six creations from his latest collection. (The clothes will be displayed in stores in Boston, Detroit, Chicago, Los Angeles, Seattle, Atlanta, St. Louis, and Washington, D.C.)

ADVICE ON NEW FASHIONS

—Select fabrics carefully. Bulky material makes the figure appear heavier.

—Wear an upswept hair-do.

—Choose hats that hide the hair. Hats should emphasize the above-waist detail.

—Avoid small earrings or necklaces. Jewelry must be large to give balance and to compliment maturity.

Tips For Club News

"Your Editor is looking for news. Your Club is making news.

"Your Editor has a time schedule to meet. All articles must reach him in time to be edited, proofed and spaced before the paper goes to press.

"The space your Editor gives to your news is free to you and at the same time brings no financial gain to him. Make your release worth pringing and be grateful to your Editor for the space he gives you.

"Your Editor has the right to edit your script. The paper he publishes goes out to the people over his signature and what is printed in it must meet his standards.

"Your Editor will like to know you and the aims of you Club. Talk your problems over with him then accept his suggestions and work with him.

"You must realize that your Club news can make interesting reading. To make it acceptable make it concise and accurate. You should expect only a fair share of space allotted to the news of organizations. Accuracy is most important. Mistakes in names and dates can be costly. Do not use adjectives. Facts are the news. 'Who, When, Where, Why' is the magic formula.

"Do have your Club news published. If the world knows of your Club activity, your Federation will continue to grow. It does pay to advertise. Learn the few rules of newswriting and you will reap satisfaction in knowing that you are doing an important job well."

Tips For Club News

"Your Editor is looking for news. Your Club is making news.

"Your Editor has a time schedule to meet. All articles must reach him in time to be edited, proofed and spaced before the paper goes to press.

"The space your Editor gives to your news is free to you and at the same time brings no financial gain to him. Make your release worth pringing and be grateful to your Editor for the space he gives you.

"Your Editor has the right to edit your script. The paper he publishes goes out to the people over his signature and what is printed in it must meet his standards.

"Your Editor will like to know you and the aims of you Club. Talk your problems over with him then accept his suggestions and work with him.

"You must realize that your Club news can make interesting reading. To make it acceptable make it concise and accurate. You should expect only a fair share of space allotted to the news of organizations. Accuracy is most important. Mistakes in names and dates can be costly. Do not use adjectives. Facts are the news. 'Who, When, Where, Why' is the magic formula.

"Be as consistently regular as possible with your news releases. Your Editor can expect them and leave space for them.

"Do have your Club news published. If the world knows of your Club activity, your Federation will continue to grow. It does pay to advertise. Learn the few rules of newswriting and you will reap satisfaction in knowing that you are doing an important job well."

Plant Foods For New Grass

By MILDRED SWIFT

Mary Margaret Jardine reminded is again last week that it's time to transplant outside plants for the house. Included in these are parsley, mint, chives and other herbs for kitchen use.

WINTER GRASS?

If you're planning to plant winter grass, fertilize your lawn now with a complete food. 8-8-8 is fine. Soak this in well — then wait two weeks before planting winter grass seed.

If you plant the seed too soon after the fertilizer, they'll be burned and not too many will germinate.

JUST HERE, THERE

Calendulas are easily grown from seed, if you'll plant these now. Often, I've planted them in early October and had flowers for the house for Thanksgiving. Also for Christmas, unless there was a heavy freeze.

Sweet alyssum is another plant that witstands cold nicely. The little plant makes a lovely ground cover. I've seen it bloom in gardens all winter. Severe cold does not kill the plant — only the blooms.

While there's not too much to do in the garden, sprig St. Augustine. Keep it damp, but is this rain keeps up, there's no problem there.

Some gardeners have asked about purning overgrown shrubs now. Unless the shrubs are badly in the way, why not wait? If you prune evergreens now, they'll have that "picked chicken" look all winter. If you'll wait until February, you'll only have to look at them a few weeks. They start putting on growth in late winter and early spring.

As for spring blooming shrubs— if you cut them back now, you'll prune off spring flowers. The blossoms are already set and ready when spring says "Go."

Christmas week is an excellent time to prune holly, yaupon and the berried shrubs simply because you'll want the foliage for Santa Claus.

You know, if I were Old Man Santa, I don't believe I'd put one foot down that chimney unless I saw some green foliage and red berries. I know — maybe the householders are contemporary-decoration - minded. Even so, I just know the old gent is old-fashioned enough to want some green foliage and red berries. So — wait 'til Christmas to prune those shrubs.

MORE, HERE, THERE

There's lots of mildew on crepe myrtles. This plant is less susceptible to mildew if it is grown in full sun and is not crowded in with other shrubs. Use dusting sulphur for mildew, waiting until the foliage is dry. When putting out new plants, find a sunny spot.

When planning potted plants for the house, don't forget a croton plant. They're real tropical-looking and oh — so pretty! These can be bought in the nurseries.

ORCHIDS TO JIM

If Jim Williams (yes, the Chamber - of - Commerce Jim) can build a brick walk, you can too. After all, the young man has had no special training in brick laying, but believe me, his walk is a thing of beauty. Not a bump, nor a lump, and — who wants a bumpy walk? Better to walk on the grass, isn't is?

Just drive by 221 Island Drive and get Jim to tell you how he did the job. The wife was on an out-of-town trip, and Jim had this nice surprise waiting when she returned. All right, fellows, Jim started this. Have I put you other husbands in the doghouse?

BLENDER CARE

Do you have an electric blender? Here's an easy way to clean it. Put some soap or detergent and a small amount of warm water into the jar. Place it on its base, turn on, and let the suds blend for about 30 seconds. Drain, rinse, and dry the jar. Then, let it spin for 5 or 10 seconds more to evaporate any water remaining around the cutter blades and bearings.

SUDS FOR FLOWERS

Here are a couple of pointers to keep cut flowers fresh. First, be sure to wash the vase or container with hot soap or detergent suds each time you change the water. This removes bacteria which multiply and clog the tubes of flowers — a major cause of wilting.

MORE HINTS

One way to beat the high cost of hosiery is to suds-wash new stockings before they are worn. This helps to make them more flexible — and, therefore, more durable.

When you clean your refrigerator, remember the rubber gasket around the door needs cleaning along with the rest of the refrigerator.

PRESERVING HERBS

Have you herbs in your garden which you'd like to keep fresh all winter long? Like — parsley? Here is a recipe borrowed from the Spanish. I've never tried it, but those who have, say it works.

Pick the leaves from the stem. Wash in ice - cold water and dry well on absorbent paper. Sterilie pint size regulation jars. Fill the jar with the parsley, crowding in all you can.

Next, fill the jar with olive oil to the very top. Seal the hot jars and store in a cool, dry place until you need the parsley.

When you open the jar, drain off the oil and use it for salad dressing. You'll like the nice herby flavor. Or — use the oil in any way you usually use it. The herb itself will be as fresh and fragrant as when it comes from your garden.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Your Open House programs for next week are. Monday and Tuesday, Mrs. Jackie Mitchell will delight you mothers with patterns and ideas for childrens' clothes; Wednesday, Mary Margaret Jardine will bring the flower arrangements; Thursday and Friday, Marketing with Mildred. See you next Sunday.

Flowers The Year Round In Norfolk Plans

By HARRY NASH

Frederic Heutte, largely responsible for the development of Norfolk's Municipal Gardens containing 150,000 azaleas and 25,000 camellias, is now preparing to line several downtown blocks with flower boxes and hanging flower baskets.

Heutte plans year-round bloom. At first there will be 5,000 white and pink petunias. These will be followed by others — "maybe chrysanthemums, azaleas and begonias," Heutte says.

The downtown Merchants Assn. is footing the bill for the 500 boxes and the 104 baskets. The city will maintain them and provide the flowers. The boxes, 6 feet long, 1 foot wide and 2 feet high, will be placed on the curbs; two baskets will be suspended from each of 52 light poles.

Heutte, who has been superintendent of parks here for 20 years, says that "as a horticulturist, when I came to Norfolk in 1936, I recognized the potential which existed here due to climatic conditions. I recognized then that this potential had not been reached. I recognize that it has not been reached now."

"The main tool of the horticulturist is the climate. His main task is to assemble plants most suitable to that particular climate. A most revealing thing to me was the plant life in Seashore State Park, which includes subtropical Spanish moss. That was a positive index to me that other subtropical plants could be grown in this climate."

His chief ambition, Heutte says, is to have Norfolk recognized as "the horticultural center of the Eastern Seaboard, and as such, become one of its most beautiful cities."

Heutte came to the United States from his native France in 1911 and became a citizen of this country in 1918. He worked on estates in New York state, studied horticulture, served his apprenticeship, and took a course in landscape architecture before he came to Norfolk as a landscape designer in 1936. He is 59.

Last year he was named Chevalier de la Medaille Agricole, France's highest horticultural award for a "foreigner." In the same year the Garden Club of America awarded him its Gold Medal of Honor.

Norfolk's Municipal Gardens, a lush, 10 - acre tract adjoining the city's airport, began modestly in 1937 as a Works Projects Administration project.

Today the gardens contain 150,000 permanently planted azaleas of 75 varieties and 50,000 more, of 500 varieties, under test or propagation.

The azaleas' biggest rivals in the gardens are camellias — 25,000 permanent plans representing 750 varieties. "Only one collection of camellias surpasses ours," Huette says. "That is in the Huntington Gardens in San Marino, Calif., which has about 1,000 varieties but fewer plants."

The Norfolk gardens contain 5,000 permanently planted rhododendrons in 60 varieties. Under test are 5,000 more in 100 additional varieties. The gardens also boast 1,000 holly shrubs and trees in 20 varieties.

"September is the hardest month for color in the gardens," he says. To overcome this, he is experimenting with late blooming lilies.

The gardens are open to the public, free of charge, throughout the year. More than 11 miles of trails and footpaths meander through 80 fully developed acres.

Biggest month in the gardens is April, when most of the azaleas are in bloom.

Norfolk's new botanical garden was established by the city council last February. Adjacent to the Municipal Gardens, it will cover 75 acres of virtually virgin land where no plants, exotic or otherwise, have ever been brought in.

Promoters of the botanical garden plan to maintain it primarily as an educational garden workshop rather than as a scientific medium for plant exhibits. The main objective is to serve thousands of home owners interested in horticulture by eliminating misinformation through actual presentation of methods of growing plants "only proper to our own Tidewater conditions."

The promoters intend, however, to present also "rare and exotic plants, in variety exceeded only by few other sections of the world."

And the promoters hope to make small garden plots available to persons such as apartment dwellers who love plants but have no facilities for growing them.

More Interest In Crabapples

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

Last Sunday's column about crabapples seems to have met with such great interest that it seems timely to go on with more on this subject this week. "Seeing is believing", and enough gardeners and tree lovers have now seen the wonderful lavish display put on by the flowering crabs each spring to begin to take an interest in these showy little trees.

COMPACT

One thing that makes crabapples popular is their size. Most people have either already planted their places up so full of the things they like to grow or live on such a small area that there is not much more room in which to grow anything else. Usually, there is room for a crabapple or so. Something less showy can be removed, or a crab can be fitted into a space where it can grow up. It does not spread as much as a big tree, and it does not shade the yard very much.

All of us must ask of every plant we bring in, "What about maintenance?". You should know the facts of life about crabs before you start out with them. Most important is that they are just about as demanding as an apple tree. They get borers. They need a little pruning. They will get fire blight to some extent (as everything in the apple family certainly did this year of great rainfall and much tender growth). The wild crabapple from American woods gets cedar-apple rust badly. However, the foreign ones do not to any great extent.

The Charlotte crabapple and Bechtel's crab are varieties of native American species. They are so beautiful that some people are willing to keep them well sprayed against cedar-apple rust. In the Lower South where some varieties of foreign crabs do not do so well, people grow these varieties. Bechtel's crab was once planted generously around Natchitoches, Louisiana. Even if you do not have any native cedars nearby, you may get a bad case of rust in some years.

VARIETIES

Get the nursery catalogues out and study the varieties offered. The flowering trees bloom with the redbuds and some of the flowering cherries. They blend in beautifully with almost any combination of these other trees. Some of the crabapples have purplish foliage and fruits which are attractive all through summer and with their fruits in the fall. If you want something taller and larger to go in your group of crabs immediately, you can locate your crabs where dogwood takes over the picture when they cease flowering.

There are almost as many shapes among the smal' crabapple trees as there are varieties. Most catalogues give this information. At the Arnold Arboretum in Boston, a vast amount of information has been gathered about the crabapples. Mr. Donald Wyman has included this in his book, Trees for American Gardens, New York, 1951, MacMillan. Although written for the North, this book contains lots of useful information for the South as well.

Spatter Job Makes Paint Do For Rug

By JOHN O. B. WALLACE

NEW YORK (AP) — A versatile product, paint is used in many ways around a house by both amateur and professional. But a New York interior designer used it in unusual and perhaps new ways in a major redecorating project.

The role of paint in the project was emphasized perhaps because the job was commissioned by America's "Mr. Paint," Gen. Joseph F. Battley, president of the National Paint, Varnish and Lacquer Assn. an organization of 1,500 paint or paint materials firms.

The work was done at the home of Gen. and Mrs. Battley in the Georgetown section of the nation's capital by Mrs. Ellen Lehman McCluskey, a nationally - known interior designer of New York.

In the Battley home, Mrs. McCluskey used paint to simulate a rug in a sitting room.

She also used it to simulate bedroom molding, to represent wood paneling and to give a textured effect to walls and floors.

Decorative stripes were painted on library walls, enameled metal flowers were used for bedroom decorations, and furniture was decorated with paint to correlate the furniture with the color or decor of individual rooms.

In Mrs. Battley's bedroom, paint was used on walls, floors and furniture as well as for decorative floral touches.

In this room, a base coat of white enamel was used on the floor. After it dried, it was mottled with blue and green by flicking it on with a paint brush.

Gen. Battley, who retired in 1947 after holding important commands in both world wars, has a comfortable, masculine 1th Century English bedroom with antique furnishings.

Here the walls were painted to simulate wood paneling as a means of emphasizing the patterned carpeting and the hand-blocked red-toned linen drapes.

A Victorian mahogany four-poster bed in Mrs. Battley's bedroom was painted white with blue striping and topped with a canopy of white percale, appliqued with blue lace dressmaker flowers, repeating the pattern and color of the bedspread.

In a dressing - sitting room next to Mrs. Battley's bedroom, Mrs. McCluskey used blue walls with green accents. The floor was painted white and on top of this a mural design of a formal 18th Century French garden was stenciled in green paint.

To simulate architectural detail, the moldings in the guest room were painted purple against white walls. Four - poster twin beds in the room were painted blue.

In the living room, the walls were painted a soft mauve - pink and stippled with paint to provide a textured or dimensional effect.

In the library, the walls were striped. The first coat was painted flat white and then, with masking tape in place, mustard-gold stripes were applied vertically. Here again the wooden floor was stained black.

Large basement rooms are popular entertaining areas in Washington homes, and it was decided to finish the plywood walls of the lowest floor in the Battley home with yellow, textured paint.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Fall Flowers Color Center

By MARY M. JARDINE

The Garden Center was aglow this week with colorful fall arrangements designed by members of the Green Thumb Garden Club of the Twin Cities. In the horticulture section blue ribbons were awarded as follows: Mrs. Pattie Carr for Russell hybrid daylily, lavender althea, Mrs. Suzee Gorman for variegated achyranthes and variegated hydrangea.

TEAPOT

In the arrangement section first place blue ribbon was awarded to Mrs. Suzee Gorman. A deep chartreuse green porcelain teapot set on a round black base served as a container for the design in a compelling orange color. Brilliant orange pyracantha berries formed the line pattern following the line of the teapot. The line was accented with orange zinnias. This would be lovely on a buffet. Suggested backgrounds, pale green, gray, light beige or oyster white.

Mrs. Pattie Carr was awarded second place for her monochromatic design. A low black compote placed on a small black base held the pyramid design of celosia. Deep velvety magenta cockscomb type blooms were used low in the design. The pyramid design was achieved by transition in size and form of the celosia. Smaller heads of the Cockscomb type placed higher and terminating in graceful spikes of the plume celosia in ths same color. Deep red coleus was added behind the flower providng depth and a change of texture. This charming arrangement was staged against a rose pink background.

CANDLE TREE

Mrs. T. E. Humphries lovely arrangement featured flowers of the Candle Tree (Cassia alata). Mrs. Humphries selected a yellow pottery cookie jar for her design, which was crescent in pattern. Green and yellow coleus was used for secondary material and a line of yellow heleniums accented the crescent line. Brown palm berries were placed over the rim of the container. The candle tree blooms have lovely natural curves lending themselves well to a crescent design. For indoor decorations cut when in bud and condition in hot water from the tap.

Mrs. Suzee Gorman also designed a lovely diagonal design featuring the cassia flowers. Her container was a slender brass vase from India. The lovely yellow candle flowers were placed in a diagonal pattern and backed by lacy green juniper foliage.

CHILL TULIPS

Dr. G. L. Gill and N. W. Stuart of the experiment station in Tifton, Georgia, have given us definite information on the benefits of pre - chilling tulips They should be refrigerated at 40 degrees for six to eight weeks befor planting in December and January. Pre - chilled bulbs flower better when planted four inches deep instead of the usual 8 to 9 inches.

Here are two dates for your calendar:

Parish Fair and Flower Show, October 9-11, V. F. W. Building, Winnsboro.

Annual Meeting of Federated Garden Clubs of the Fifth District of Louisiana, November 6, from 9:00 a.m. to 3 p.m. Court House, Winnsboro.

Fall Leaves Not Healthy For Grass

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

CHAPPAQUA, N. Y. — I have a little fall problem I can never solve. It is called "Autumn Leaves," which is nice for a song title, but something less than charming if one has a large lawn area which includes a large assortment of trees, mostly deciduous.

Everyone who has picked up a hand cultivator knows that one of nature's most precious materials is leaves. You can compost them into rich, nutrious leafmold. You can save them as a blanket for your borders. You must never, never burn them because it's like burning money. But, on the other hand, you must not let the leaffall get ahead of you because if you just let them stay where they fall, they will smother the grass.

This is my dilemma. I've got a lot of trees and they all drop their leaves except for a few yews, hemlocks and jackpines. We'd be waist - deep in leaves if I didn't have my lawnsweeper out almost daily in leaf - dropping season. I can save some of them, but I'm sure can't keep all of them. What do you do with the left - over? I don't know anybody you can give leaves to — all my neighbors complain the way I do. Even the garbage man rejects them. There's nothing left to do except burn them — and then the neighbors and the fire department get nervous.

I wouldn't even mind their nerves, either, if I didn't feel ashamed of myself for destroying all that good potential leafmold and mulch. However, I just don't see any other thing to do. And one more thing before I move on to something else: everybody knows that you should collect the oak leaves separately and save them for such purposes as macking an acid mulch over the roots of the broadleaved evergreens and to form a non - smothering blanket over the flower borders. Well, I have tried, but it simply can't be done successfully on my place. The maple, the hickories, the tulip tree and all the rest drop their leaves, too, and a wind comes along and mixes them all up. I can save a few oak leaves, but not all of them unless I orgainze a series of oak leaf - picking bees, which I don't think would be popular.

This, by the way, is a good time to save money if there are any major garden purchases necessary for next year's work. New models of mowers will be coming out soon.

Plan Location Of New Plants

By AUDREY DAWSON

If you are just beginning a new garden, here are some hints which will be most helpful for you in making your plans. Avoid placing the plant where water runs off the house — it will be too wet.

Place the plant far enough away from the house so that when it grows it will not harm the paint or other finish on the house. Too much shade makes most plants too slender. Some plants need full sunlight, others tolerate some shade.

Place plants at a safe distance from a sidewalk. In summer the walk heats the soil and this may kill the plant.

It is difficult to grow plants in outside concrete or brick planter boxes on the south and west sides of the house, because they get too hot. The same is true of some plants close to concrete or brick buildings, because of the heat from the building — especially on the south and west sides.

Plants around oaks or other hardwood trees usually suffer for water in summer and are harder to care for. The shallow oak roots take up lots of water.

MILDEW

The rainy weather this past week dampened the spirits of us all. First, surely our farmers with cotton and corn to be gathered, but homemakers have a little trouble too with all the dampness in the house — which causes mildew in clothes closets. There are several hints which you, Mrs. Homemaker, may use. An electric light bulb kept burning in the closet will keep the air dry enough to prevent mildrew on clothes and shoes. Frequent airing with an electric fan will also help. A jar of calcium chloride will absorb moisture from the air. Its disadvantage is that it absorbs moisture and becomes a liquid. When this happens it must be drained and new solid chloride must be added.

If in spite of these precautions mildew appears on shoes wipe it off promptly with a cloth dipped in mild pure soap suds. Wipe shoes dry and sun if possible. (Which seems impossible at this writing.) When leather is dry, rub with floor wax as protection against absorbing dampness and further mildew.

RATHER NEW

Long lasting window shades that are fire resistant, washable and will hold their shape indefinitely are made of vinyl reinforced with Fiberglas. The shades come in white, ivory, tan, or green in 36", 40" and 48" widths.

No - iron cotton sheets are a new time saver for the homemaker. The permanently wrinkle-free sheets are available in muslin and percale — either flat or fitted. No special washing or drying care necessary. They dry in about half the time required for ordinary cotton sheets. They are also moderately priced.

AWARDS

Betty Jane Hodgkins, associate agent, and I were most pleased with Ouachita entries in the Northeast Cotton Carnival at Bastrop last week. Mrs. Cleburne White of Cadeville Home Demonstration Club received 5 first place awards. Mrs. Herbert Strozier won 1 first and 1 second place; Lorena White, a 4-H member of Calhoun, won two red ribbons; Patsy Banks, of West Monroe High 4H Club, received a 3rd place award; Martha Lafferty, also of West Monroe, won a 2nd place with her school dress.

Congratulations to all of you from the Agricultural Extension Office.

DRAPERIES

Four out of ten homemakers in the United States who have living room draperies said they had cotton and that they preferred cotton. The reasons were: cotton is durable, easy to wash, can be laundered at home, and is inexpensive.

The survey made also indicated that homemakers were interested in draperies that require no ironing. Most draperies are opaque so that they can be used to give privacy and protection against bright light.

Cotton and rayon mixtures rated second in use for draperies according to the survey.

Plant Foods For New Grass

By MILDRED SWIFT

Mary Margaret Jardine reminded is again last week that it's time to transplant outside plants for the house. Included in these are parsley, mint, chives and other herbs for kitchen use.

WINTER GRASS?

If you're planning to plant winter grass, fertilize your lawn now with a complete food. 8-8-8 is fine. Soak this in well — then wait two weeks before planting winter grass seed.

If you plant the seed too soon after the fertilizer, they'll be burned and not too many will germinate.

JUST HERE, THERE

Calendulas are easily grown from seed, if you'll plant these now. Often, I've planted them in early October and had flowers for the house for Thanksgiving. Also for Christmas, unless there was a heavy freeze.

Sweet alyssum is another plant that witstands cold nicely. The little plant makes a lovely ground cover. I've seen it bloom in gardens all winter. Severe cold does not kill the plant — only the blooms.

While there's not too much to do in the garden, sprig St. Augustine. Keep it damp, but is this rain keeps up, there's no problem there.

Some gardeners have asked about purning overgrown shrubs now. Unless the shrubs are badly in the way, why not wait? If you prune evergreens now, they'll have that "picked chicken" look all winter. If you'll wait until February, you'll only have to look at them a few weeks. They start putting on growth in late winter and early spring.

As for spring blooming shrubs— if you cut them back now, you'll prune off spring flowers. The blossoms are already set and ready when spring says "Go."

Christmas week is an excellent time to prune holly, yaupon and the berried shrubs simply because you'll want the foliage for Santa Claus.

You know, if I were Old Man Santa, I don't believe I'd put one foot down that chimney unless I saw some green foliage and red berries. I know — maybe the householders are contemporary-decoration - minded. Even so, I just know the old gent is old-fashioned enough to want some green foliage and red berries. So — wait 'til Christmas to prune those shrubs.

MORE, HERE, THERE

There's lots of mildew on crepe myrtles. This plant is less susceptible to mildew if it is grown in full sun and is not crowded in with other shrubs. Use dusting sulphur for mildew, waiting until the foliage is dry. When putting out new plants, find a sunny spot.

When planning potted plants for the house, don't forget a croton plant. They're real tropical-looking and oh — so pretty! These can be bought in the nurseries.

ORCHIDS TO JIM

If Jim Williams (yes, the Chamber - of - Commerce Jim) can build a brick walk, you can too. After all, the young man has had no special training in brick laying, but believe me, his walk is a thing of beauty. Not a bump, nor a lump, and — who wants a bumpy walk? Better to walk on the grass, isn't is?

Just drive by 221 Island Drive and get Jim to tell you how he did the job. The wife was on an out-of-town trip, and Jim had this nice surprise waiting when she returned. All right, fellows, Jim started this. Have I put you other husbands in the doghouse?

BLENDER CARE

Do you have an electric blender? Here's an easy way to clean it. Put some soap or detergent and a small amount of warm water into the jar. Place it on its base, turn on, and let the suds blend for about 30 seconds. Drain, rinse, and dry the jar. Then, let it spin for 5 or 10 seconds more to evaporate any water remaining around the cutter blades and bearings.

SUDS FOR FLOWERS

Here are a couple of pointers to keep cut flowers fresh. First, be sure to wash the vase or container with hot soap or detergent suds each time you change the water. This removes bacteria which multiply and clog the tubes of flowers — a major cause of wilting.

MORE HINTS

One way to beat the high cost of hosiery is to suds-wash new stockings before they are worn. This helps to make them more flexible — and, therefore, more durable.

When you clean your refrigerator, remember the rubber gasket around the door needs cleaning along with the rest of the refrigerator.

PRESERVING HERBS

Have you herbs in your garden which you'd like to keep fresh all winter long? Like — parsley? Here is a recipe borrowed from the Spanish. I've never tried it, but those who have, say it works.

Pick the leaves from the stem. Wash in ice - cold water and dry well on absorbent paper. Sterilie pint size regulation jars. Fill the jar with the parsley, crowding in all you can.

Next, fill the jar with olive oil to the very top. Seal the hot jars and store in a cool, dry place until you need the parsley.

When you open the jar, drain off the oil and use it for salad dressing. You'll like the nice herby flavor. Or — use the oil in any way you usually use it. The herb itself will be as fresh and fragrant as when it comes from your garden.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Your Open House programs for next week are. Monday and Tuesday, Mrs. Jackie Mitchell will delight you mothers with patterns and ideas for childrens' clothes; Wednesday, Mary Margaret Jardine will bring the flower arrangements; Thursday and Friday, Marketing with Mildred. See you next Sunday.

Flowers The Year Round In Norfolk Plans

By HARRY NASH

Frederic Heutte, largely responsible for the development of Norfolk's Municipal Gardens containing 150,000 azaleas and 25,000 camellias, is now preparing to line several downtown blocks with flower boxes and hanging flower baskets.

Heutte plans year-round bloom. At first there will be 5,000 white and pink petunias. These will be followed by others — "maybe chrysanthemums, azaleas and begonias," Heutte says.

The downtown Merchants Assn. is footing the bill for the 500 boxes and the 104 baskets. The city will maintain them and provide the flowers. The boxes, 6 feet long, 1 foot wide and 2 feet high, will be placed on the curbs; two baskets will be suspended from each of 52 light poles.

Heutte, who has been superintendent of parks here for 20 years, says that "as a horticulturist, when I came to Norfolk in 1936, I recognized the potential which existed here due to climatic conditions. I recognized then that this potential had not been reached. I recognize that it has not been reached now."

"The main tool of the horticulturist is the climate. His main task is to assemble plants most suitable to that particular climate. A most revealing thing to me was the plant life in Seashore State Park, which includes subtropical Spanish moss. That was a positive index to me that other subtropical plants could be grown in this climate."

His chief ambition, Heutte says, is to have Norfolk recognized as "the horticultural center of the Eastern Seaboard, and as such, become one of its most beautiful cities."

Heutte came to the United States from his native France in 1911 and became a citizen of this country in 1918. He worked on estates in New York state, studied horticulture, served his apprenticeship, and took a course in landscape architecture before he came to Norfolk as a landscape designer in 1936. He is 59.

Last year he was named Chevalier de la Medaille Agricole, France's highest horticultural award for a "foreigner." In the same year the Garden Club of America awarded him its Gold Medal of Honor.

Norfolk's Municipal Gardens, a lush, 10 - acre tract adjoining the city's airport, began modestly in 1937 as a Works Projects Administration project.

Today the gardens contain 150,000 permanently planted azaleas of 75 varieties and 50,000 more, of 500 varieties, under test or propagation.

The azaleas' biggest rivals in the gardens are camellias — 25,000 permanent plans representing 750 varieties. "Only one collection of camellias surpasses ours," Huette says. "That is in the Huntington Gardens in San Marino, Calif., which has about 1,000 varieties but fewer plants."

A deep chartreuse green porcelain teapot set on a round black base served as a container for the design in a compelling orange color. Brilliant orange pyracantha berries formed the line pattern following the line of the teapot. The line was accented with orange zinnias. This would be lovely on a buffet. Suggested backgrounds, pale green, gray, light beige or oyster white.

Mrs. Pattie Carr was awarded second place for her monochromatic design. A low black compote placed on a small black base held the pyramid design of celosia. Deep velvety magenta cockscomb type blooms were used low in the design. The pyramid design was achieved by transition in size and form of the celosia. Smaller heads of the Cockscomb type placed higher and terminating in graceful spikes of the plume celosia in ths same color. Deep red coleus was added behind the flower providng depth and a change of texture. This charming arrangement was staged against a rose pink background.

CANDLE TREE

Mrs. T. E. Humphries lovely arrangement featured flowers of the Candle Tree (Cassia alata). Mrs. Humphries selected a yellow pottery cookie jar for her design, which was crescent in pattern. Green and yellow coleus was used for secondary material and a line of yellow heleniums accented the crescent line. Brown palm berries were placed over the rim of the container. The candle tree blooms have lovely natural curves lending themselves well to a crescent design. For indoor decorations cut when in bud and condition in hot water from the tap.

Mrs. Suzee Gorman also designed a lovely diagonal design featuring the cassia flowers. Her container was a slender brass vase from India. The lovely yellow candle flowers were placed in a diagonal pattern and backed by lacy green juniper foliage.

Dr. G. L. Gill and N. W. Stuart of the experiment station in Tifton, Georgia, have given us definite information on the benefits of pre - chilling tulips They should be refrigerated at 40 degrees for six to eight weeks before planting in December and January. ## Fall Leaves Not Healthy For Grass

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

CHAPPAQUA, N. Y. — I have a little fall problem I can never solve. It is called "Autumn Leaves," which is nice for a song title, but something less than charming if one has a large lawn area which includes a large assortment of trees, mostly deciduous.

Everyone who has picked up a hand cultivator knows that one of nature's most precious materials is leaves. You can compost them into rich, nutrious leafmold. You can save them as a blanket for your borders. You must never, never burn them because it's like burning money. But, on the other hand, you must not let the leaffall get ahead of you because if you just let them stay where they fall, they will smother the grass.

This is my dilemma. I've got a lot of trees and they all drop their leaves except for a few yews, hemlocks and jackpines. We'd be waist - deep in leaves if I didn't have my lawnsweeper out almost daily in leaf - dropping season. I can save some of them, but I sure can't keep all of them. What do you do with the left - over? I don't know anybody you can give leaves to — all my neighbors complain the way I do. Even the garbage man rejects them. There's nothing left to do except burn them — and then the neighbors and the fire department get nervous.

I wouldn't even mind their nerves, either, if I didn't feel ashamed of myself for destroying all that good potential leafmold and mulch. However, I just don't see any other thing to do. And one more thing before I move on to something else: everybody knows that you should collect the oak leaves separately and save them for such purposes as macking an acid mulch over the roots of the broadleaved evergreens and to form a non - smothering blanket over the flower borders. Well, I have tried, but it simply can't be done successflully on my place. The maple, the hickories, the tulip tree and all the rest drop their leaves, too, and a wind comes along and mixes them all up. I can save a few oak leaves, but not all of them unless I orgainze a series of oak leaf - picking bees, which I don't think would be popular.

This, by the way, is a good time to save money if there are any major garden purchases necessary for next year's work. New models of mowers will be coming out soon.

Plan Location Of New Plants

By AUDREY DAWSON

If you are just beginning a new garden, here are some hints which will be most helpful for you in making your plans. Avoid placing the plant where water runs off the house — it will be too wet.

Place the plant far enough away from the house so that when it grows it will not harm the paint or other finish on the house. Too much shade makes most plants too slender. Some plants need full sunlight, others tolerate some shade.

Place plants at a safe distance from a sidewalk. In summer the walk heats the soil and this may kill the plant.

It is difficult to grow plants in outside concrete or brick planter boxes on the south and west sides of the house, because they get too hot. The same is true of some plants close to concrete or brick buildings, because of the heat from the building — especially on the south and west sides.

Plants around oaks or other hardwood trees usually suffer for water in summer and are harder to care for. The shallow oak roots take up lots of water.

MILDEW

The rainy weather this past week dampened the spirits of us all. First, surely our farmers with cotton and corn to be gathered, but homemakers have a little trouble too with all the dampness in the house — which causes mildew in clothes closets. There are several hints which you, Mrs. Homemaker, may use. An electric light bulb kept burning in the closet will keep the air dry enough to prevent mildrew on clothes and shoes. Frequent airing with an electric fan will also help. A jar of calcium chloride will absorb moisture from the air. Its disadvantage is that it absorbs moisture and becomes a liquid. When this happens it must be drained and new solid chloride must be added.

If in spite of these precautions mildew appears on shoes wipe it off promptly with a cloth dipped in mild pure soap suds. Wipe shoes dry and sun if possible. (Which seems impossible at this writing.) When leather is dry, rub with floor wax as protection against absorbing dampness and further mildew.

RATHER NEW

Long lasting window shades that are fire resistant, washable and will hold their shape indefinitely are made of vinyl reinforced with Fiberglas. The shades come in white, ivory, tan, or green in 36", 40" and 48" widths.

No - iron cotton sheets are a new time saver for the homemaker. The permanently wrinkle-free sheets are available in muslin and percale — either flat or fitted. No special washing or drying care necessary. They dry in about half the time required for ordinary cotton sheets. They are also moderately priced.

AWARDS

Betty Jane Hodgkins, associate agent, and I were most pleased with Ouachita entries in the Northeast Cotton Carnival at Bastrop last week. Mrs. Cleburne White of Cadeville Home Demonstration Club received 5 first place awards. Mrs. Herbert Strozier won 1 first and 1 second place; Lorena White, a 4-H member of Calhoun, won two red ribbons; Patsy Banks, of West Monroe High 4H Club, received a 3rd place award; Martha Lafferty, also of West Monroe, won a 2nd place with her school dress.

Congratulations to all of you from the Agricultural Extension Office.

DRAPERIES

Four out of ten homemakers in the United States who have living room draperies said they had cotton and that they preferred cotton. The reasons were: cotton is durable, easy to wash, can be laundered at home, and is inexpensive.

The survey made also indicated that homemakers were interested in draperies that require no ironing. Most draperies are opaque so that they can be used to give privacy and protection against bright light.

Solon Warns Civil Rights To Be Pushed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Clifford P. Case (R - N.J.) made clear Saturday that Senate liberals will use the Arkansas-Virginia school integration dispute as a wedge to pass more civil rights legislation in the next Congress.

In an address to the New Jersey conference of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People at Trenton, he said he would fight to add to the new civil rights law a section to permit the Attorney General to seek injunctions in racial discrimination cases.

Case called for "a real effort" in the new Congress "to provide new trial methods better calculated to deal with the technical questions of educational standards and student qualifications which a judge may be called upon to evaluate."

Earlier this week, Case and Sens. Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill.), Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.), and Jacob K. Javits (R - N.Y.) announced plans to push for changes in the Senate filibuster rule. The rule requires 64 votes —or two - thirds of the Senate's present 96 members—to shut off filibusters against controversial legislation. Southern senators have used it in years past to defeat or sidetrack racial legislation. However, the necessary two-thirds total will rise to 66 when Alaska's two senators raise the membership total to 98 in January.

The pro - civil rights forces are counting heavily on both Alaska senatorial votes, regardless of which party wins the seats.

Meantime, Sen. A. Willis Robertson (D - Va.) summed up the Southerners' continued opposition to both the rules change and civil rights legislation. "We are going to put on the best fight we know how," he told a reporter. And, Robertson said, "We have every reason to be successful."

China Nationals Get Two Convoys Past Communists

TAIPEI, Formosa (UPI)— Nationalist China rammed two big convoys of supplies through a curtain of Communist artillery shells to Quemoy Saturday in one of its most successful operations since the siege of the offshore islands began five weeks ago.

The Communists, frustrated in their attempts to stop the supply landings on Big Quemoy with more than 6,000 rounds of shells, turned their muzzles on Little Quemoy and the twin Erhtan and Tatan islands and poured in another 3,000 rounds.

The soldiers and civilians on Big Quemoy took advantage of the respite to celebrate a major Chinese holiday, the Moon Festival, with little moon cakes parachuted by transport planes from Formosa.

On the U. S. aircraft carrier Midway, Vice Adm. William Beakley, commander of the 7th Fleet, said he believed the immediate danger of invasion of the Quemoys had passed.

He said the might of U.S. forces in the Far East and the worsening weather made it unlikely the Peiping regime would attempt such a move at least until April, and probably not for at least two years.

United Press International correspondent Norman Williams reported from Quemoy that Red artillery shells burst perilously close to the slow - moving alligator supply ships, but military officials reported no hits.

"The small landing craft were pitched high in swells and spouting fountains of water as Communist shells hit the water near them," Williams reported.

"The shell fire followed them for about two miles before stopping. The alligators landed at three different beaches."

Williams reported the Nationalists used a new technique. LST's, standing two miles offshore, loaded supplies onto 50 tiny LVT's which threaded their way to shore one by one, making extremely small targers. Previously the LVT's had sailed in bunches.

Solon Warns Civil Rights To Be Pushed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Clifford P. Case (R - N.J.) made clear Saturday that Senate liberals will use the Arkansas-Virginia school integration dispute as a wedge to pass more civil rights legislation in the next Congress.

In an address to the New Jersey conference of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People at Trenton, he said he would fight to add to the new civil rights law a section to permit the Attorney General to seek injunctions in racial discrimination cases.

Case called for "a real effort" in the new Congress "to provide new trial methods better calculated to deal with the technical questions of educational standards and student qualifications which a judge may be called upon to evaluate."

Earlier this week, Case and Sens. Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill.), Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.), and Jacob K. Javits (R - N.Y.) announced plans to push for changes in the Senate filibuster rule. The rule requires 64 votes —or two - thirds of the Senate's present 96 members—to shut off filibusters against controversial legislation. Southern senators have used it in years past to defeat or sidetrack racial legislation. However, the necessary two-thirds total will rise to 66 when Alaska's two senators raise the membership total to 98 in January.

The pro - civil rights forces are counting heavily on both Alaska senatorial votes, regardless of which party wins the seats.

Meantime, Sen. A. Willis Robertson (D - Va.) summed up the Southerners' continued opposition to both the rules change and civil rights legislation. "We are going to put on the best fight we know how," he told a reporter. And, Robertson said, "We have every reason to be successful."

China Nationals Get Two Convoys Past Communists

TAIPEI, Formosa (UPI)— Nationalist China rammed two big convoys of supplies through a curtain of Communist artillery shells to Quemoy Saturday in one of its most successful operations since the siege of the offshore islands began five weeks ago.

The Communists, frustrated in their attempts to stop the supply landings on Big Quemoy with more than 6,000 rounds of shells, turned their muzzles on Little Quemoy and the twin Erhtan and Tatan islands and poured in another 3,000 rounds.

The soldiers and civilians on Big Quemoy took advantage of the respite to celebrate a major Chinese holiday, the Moon Festival, with little moon cakes parachuted by transport planes from Formosa.

On the U. S. aircraft carrier Midway, Vice Adm. William Beakley, commander of the 7th Fleet, said he believed the immediate danger of invasion of the Quemoys had passed.

He said the might of U.S. forces in the Far East and the worsening weather made it unlikely the Peiping regime would attempt such a move at least until April, and probably not for at least two years.

United Press International correspondent Norman Williams reported from Quemoy that Red artillery shells burst perilously close to the slow - moving alligator supply ships, but military officials reported no hits.

"The small landing craft were pitched high in swells and spouting fountains of water as Communist shells hit the water near them," Williams reported.

"The shell fire followed them for about two miles before stopping. The alligators landed at three different beaches."

Williams reported the Nationalists used a new technique. LST's, standing two miles offshore, loaded supplies onto 50 tiny LVT's which threaded their way to shore one by one, making extremely small targers. Previously the LVT's had sailed in bunches.

Our 22nd annual clean-up of new 1958 Chryslers and Plymouths is here! As in the past, we know many new car buyers have waited for this event. They know, this is the time they can buy a New Chrysler or Plymouth (with 1960) styling at the LOWEST price of the entire year. Plus receiving an extra high trade in allowance with long, low terms. It's just good business to buy now at low end of the model year prices—in addition to beating the '59 price increase that's bound to come. See us now. Only (9) Plymouths and (3) Chrysler Windsors left. OLCOTT MOTORS, 211 NORTH SECOND. PHONE FA 2-3188.

STERLINGTON
(FRANCES ST.)

THE INK'S STILL WET on this listing . . . and just look what $300 down plus closing buys! A 3 bedroom home with 1085 sq. ft. of living area . . . with metal cabinets and dining area in the kitchen, hardwood floors, floor furnace, Venetian blinds, washer plumbing, disappearing stairway to attic . . . and it's on a corner lot just 2 blocks from school. If you need to locate in Sterlington, call now!

EASON PLACE

A BUG IN A RUG couldn't be cozier or happier than you'll be living in the 1120 sq. ft. of this 3-year-old home. It's on a 75x125 lot carpeted with St. Augustine (large enough for privacy—yet not too large to maintain). Inside there's the living room with dining area and entry closet, 3 bedrooms, bath with shower over tub; kitchen with ample Formica topped cabinets and dining area . . . plus panel heat, attic fan, Venetian blinds, and drapes, carport and 8x8 storage. 400 "bucks" plus closing will move you in. Are you ready to see? Call and we'll gladly show!

SOUTH 8TH ST.

WE DON'T KNOW WHERE THE "YELLOW WENT" but we can save the "GREEN" YOU SPEND FOR RENT! Nope, there's no need to rent when you can buy a good value like this 2 bedroom home for only $300 down plus closing (full price, $8500). Among its features are attic fan, washer connections, and wall furnaces. For "child safety", there's a chain linked fence around the back yard, and it's just a short distance to grammar and Jr. high school. If you're interested in saving the "green" that you spend for rent, let us show you through this home!

SHERIDAN

T.L.C. (Tender Loving Care)) is evident throughout this home and only a transfer would put it "on the market" now. It's 3 years "young" and boasts the following: Large closets in each of its 3 bedrooms (plus 2 hall closets); kitchen and dining area has built-in radio and vent-a-hood; ceramic tile bath (shower over tub) . . . as well as custom made colored Venetian blinds that give "that extra touch" to each room; central heating, attic fan, carport and 7x11 storage. And convenient? You betcha'! It's 2 blocks to bus, 4 blocks to college, and ½ block to grammar school. It's vacant —$400 down plus closing and you're ready to move!

EMERSON

WORRIED ABOUT HAVING TO HANG THE KIDS on a hook on tha' wall! Worry no longer, for here's a REAL family home with 1363 sq. ft. of good livin' area. You'll appreciate its 3 bedrooms and den (with large walk-in closet storage), separate dining room, kitchen with vent-a-hood. It also has floor furnace, 42 in. attic fan, all drapes, Venetian blinds, oak and asphalt tile floors, double garage, and 75x134' lot with trees, St. Augustine. And look: It's selling below appraisal and only $400 down plus closing will handle!

SOUTHSIDE

TRY TO MATCH THIS if you are looking for investment! We have a property consisting of a completely furnished apartment building that has been kept in very good repair. Income? From $280 to $318 per month. Further details furnished on request.

LEXINGTON AVE.

O-A-T-S- (OWNER ANXIOUS TO SELL!) and you would be, too, if you'd been transferred and had to get settled in another city. They've enjoyed their den so much that they wish they could take it with them! You'll understand why when you see it! It's perfect for living and entertaining with its 14x21 ft. of fresh pine paneling, built-in bar, and ¾ ton air conditioner. But, of course, that's not all: its 1383 sq. ft. is centrally air conditioned and heated by York; there's 3 bedrooms with good closet space; kitchen includes dishwasher, built-in drop leaf dinette table, and vent-a-hood; the blue ceramic tile bath has shower over tub . . . and there's no expense for carpeting (wall-to-wall in living room-dining area, hall) and drapes—they're all included; carport and double storage. A pleasing lawn (75x150) with St. Augustine, shrubs bordered beds, several trees, and barbecue pit complete the picture. We have the car running, ready to show you!

CAMELLIA

IT'S NOT "JACK'S BEANSTALK" but there are castor bean plants along the carport (with storage) that furnish shade and atmosphere for this 2-year-old red brick home! You'll like it inside and out! For its 1113 sq. ft. contain: 3 bedrooms (all with large closets); kitchen with all the natural finish cabinets you could want, ventahood, and dining area; ceramic tile bath with tile floors, shower over tub . . . and there's central heating, 42 in. attic fan, Venetian blinds, and 220 wiring. All on a lot 75x100. Care to see for yourself?

PARGOUD DRIVE

MAKE A MEMO of all you could ask for . . . then see if this doesn't measure up to your expectations! This buff brick presents a fine picture with its long planter in front and planter along the double carport (with storage). And inside . . . where shall I start? There's 1370 sq. ft. consisting of 12x22 living room with wall-to-wall carpeting and drapes . . . sliding doors open from living room to dining area . . . and the kitchen, well check off the cabinets on your memo list, for there's more than a-plenty and they're birch with ceramic tile tops; there's also a ventahood . . . 3 bedrooms have double sliding door closets and the master bedroom has built-in storage cabinets, 2 closets, and private ½ bath (ceramic tile) . . . the full ceramic tile bath is green and has pink fixtures, dressing table, shower over tub . . . plus central heating, (2) 1-ton air conditioning units, 42 in. attic fan. This year old beauty is on a 75x150 lot. All this adds up to a "great value" to see this p.m.!

McCAIN DRIVE

IF YOUR "MR. WONDERFUL" only 2 years old or thereabouts . . . is he a "busy body" from daylight to dusk? Then we recommend this red brick home set on a 100x150 lot enclosed with cyclone fence. And if there's another child a little older, you can watch him walk to school (1 block) from your own window. And the home? It has 1113 sq. ft. with the following: 3 bedrooms (master bedroom has 2 closets); living room has large brick fireplace, oak floors, and entry closet; kitchen and dining area with natural finish cabinets, ventahood; the ceramic tile bath has shower over tub enclosed with glass sliding door . . . and other features as Venetian blinds, central heat, 42 in. attic fan. It's only 4½ years old and $500 down plus closing will make it all yours!

MILTON ST.

IF ENVY IS A SIN, you're apt to have a lot of sinful friends after you move into this 6-month-old brick beauty set on a professionally landscaped lot. Its faultless interior contains 1410 sq. ft. of living area that boasts the following: Luxurious wall-to-wall carpeting in the living room-dining area (drapes included), hall, and both bedrooms; there's 2 ceramic tile baths each with built-in dressing table and shower over tub; double sliding door closets in the bedrooms and pine paneled den . . . and the kitchen—well it takes the "work" out of housework with its numerous pine paneled cabinets (Formica tops), ventahood, dining area, pantry AND utility room, and don't let me forget to mention the central air conditioning and heating, double carport with storage. STERLINGTON
(FRANCES ST.)

THE INK'S STILL WET on this listing . . . and just look what $300 down plus closing buys! A 3 bedroom home with 1085 sq. ft. of living area . . . with metal cabinets and dining area in the kitchen, hardwood floors, floor furnace, Venetian blinds, washer plumbing, disappearing stairway to attic . . . and it's on a corner lot just 2 blocks from school. If you need to locate in Sterlington, call now!

EASON PLACE

A BUG IN A RUG couldn't be cozier or happier than you'll be living in the 1120 sq. ft. of this 3-year-old home. It's on a 75x125 lot carpeted with St. Augustine (large enough for privacy—yet not too large to maintain). Inside there's the living room with dining area and entry closet, 3 bedrooms, bath with shower over tub, kitchen with ample Formica topped cabinets and dining area . . . plus panel heat, attic fan, Venetian blinds, and drapes, carport and 8x8 storage. 400 "bucks" plus closing will move you in. Are you ready to see? Call and we'll gladly show!

SOUTH 8TH ST.

WE DON'T KNOW WHERE THE "YELLOW WENT" but we can save the "GREEN" YOU SPEND FOR RENT! Nope, there's no need to rent when you can buy a good value like this 2 bedroom home for only $300 down plus closing (full price, $8500). Among its features are attic fan, washer connections, and wall furnaces. For "child safety", there's a chain linked fence around the back yard, and it's just a short distance to grammar and Jr. high school. If you're interested in saving the "green" that you spend for rent, let us show you through this home!

SHERIDAN

T.L.C. (Tender Loving Care)) is evident throughout this home and only a transfer would put it "on the market" now. It's 3 years "young" and boasts the following: Large closets in each of its 3 bedrooms (plus 2 hall closets); kitchen and dining area has built-in radio and vent-a-hood; ceramic tile bath (shower over tub) . . . as well as custom made colored Venetian blinds that give "that extra touch" to each room; central heating, attic fan, carport and 7x11 storage. And convenient? You betcha'! It's 2 blocks to bus, 4 blocks to college, and ½ block to grammar school. It's vacant —$400 down plus closing and you're ready to move!

EMERSON

WORRIED ABOUT HAVING TO HANG THE KIDS on a hook on tha' wall! Worry no longer, for here's a REAL family home with 1363 sq. ft. of good livin' area. You'll appreciate its 3 bedrooms and den (with large sliding door storage), separate dining room, kitchen with vent-a-hood. It also has floor furnace, 42 in. attic fan, all drapes, Venetian blinds, oak and asphalt tile floors, double garage, and 75x134' lot with trees, St. Augustine. And look: It's selling below appraisal and only $400 down plus closing will handle!

SOUTHSIDE

LEXINGTON AVE.

O-A-T-S. (OWNER ANXIOUS TO SELL!) and you would be, too, if you'd been transferred and had to get settled in another city. They've enjoyed their den so much that they wish they could take it with them! You'll understand why when you see it! It's perfect for living and entertaining with its 14x21 ft. of fresh pine paneling, built-in bar, and ¾ ton air conditioner. But, of course, that's not all: its 1383 sq. ft. is centrally air conditioned and heated by York; there's 3 bedrooms with good closet space; kitchen includes dishwasher, built-in drop leaf dinette table, and vent-a-hood; the blue ceramic tile bath has shower over tub . . . and there's no expense for carpeting (wall-to-wall in living room-dining area, hall) and drapes—they're all included; carport and double storage. A pleasing lawn (75x162) with St. Augustine, shrubs, bordered beds, several trees, and barbecue pit complete the picture. We have the car running, ready to show you!

CAMELLIA

IT'S NOT "JACK'S BEANSTALK" but there are castor bean plants along the carport (with storage) that furnish shade and atmosphere for this 2-year-old red brick home! You'll like it inside and out! For its 1113 sq. ft. contain: 3 bedrooms (all with large closets); kitchen with all the natural finish cabinets you could want, ventahood, and dining area; ceramic tile bath with tile floors, shower over tub . . . and there's central heating, 42 in. attic fan, Venetian blinds, and 220 wiring. All on a lot 75x100. Care to see for yourself?

PARGOUD DRIVE

MAKE A MEMO of all you could ask for . . . then see if this doesn't measure up to your expectations! This buff brick presents a fine picture with its long planter in front and planter along the double carport (with storage). And inside . . . where shall I start? There's 1370 sq. ft. consisting of 12x22 living room with wall-to-wall carpeting and drapes . . . sliding doors open from living room to dining area . . . and the kitchen, well check off the cabinets on your memo list, for there's more than a-plenty and they're birch with ceramic tile tops; there's also a ventahood . . . 2 bedrooms have double sliding door closets and the master bedroom has built-in storage cabinets, 2 closets, and private ½ bath (ceramic tile) . . . the full ceramic tile bath is green and has pink fixtures, dressing table, shower over tub . . . plus central heating, (2) 1-ton air conditioning units, 42 in. attic fan. This year old beauty is on a 75x150 lot. All this adds up to a "great value" to see this p.m.!

McCAIN DRIVE

IF YOUR "MR. WONDERFUL" only 2 years old or thereabouts . . . is he a "busy body" from daylight to dusk? Then we recommend this red brick home set on a 190x150 lot enclosed with cyclone fence. And if there's another child a little older, you can watch him walk to school (1 block) from your own window. And the home? It's only 4½ years old and $500 down plus closing will make it all yours!

MILTON ST.

IF ENVY IS A SIN, you're apt to have a lot of sinful friends after you move into this 6-month-old brick beauty set on a professionally landscaped lot. Its faultless interior contains 1410 sq. ft. of living area that boasts the following: Luxurious wall-to-wall carpeting in the living room-dining area (drapes included), hall, and both bedrooms; there's 2 ceramic tile baths each with built-in dressing table and shower over tub; double sliding door closets in the bedrooms and pine paneled den . . . and the kitchen—well it takes the "work" out of housework with its numerous pine paneled cabinets (Formica tops), ventahood, dining area, pantry AND utility room, and don't let me forget to mention the central air conditioning and heating, double carport with storage PLUS separate storage and ½ bath for the help. This is a "must" to see, if you're looking for quality!

SOUTH 7TH

The thoughtful planning and meticulous workmanship which went into the construction of these brick homes is instantly recognizable. All of these homes have 3 bedrooms and ceramic tile baths (some even have 2 baths and built-in oven and range). Other features you'll like are: step-saving kitchen designed to make housework easier, ample closets, cabinets, hood over stove, central heating, attic fan. Carport and storage. And such "extras" as concrete streets, drives, and sidewalks, curbs, gutters, city sewerage. On high well drained lots near Lexington, Neville, and Jr. High, churches, and shopping centers.
